Mussolini Color Line
Japan's White Wolf
The Black Eagle Quits

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

ACCORDING TO "The Analyst," Walter Renton Ingalls, very able statistician, says this country is now short about 900,000 houses and one family apartments. At the end of 1929, there were in this country 30,000,000 houses, about enough. There was then no over-building, population has increased by 4,899,000 since 1929.

The country needs 900,000 more houses.

THE OTHER SIDE of the story is that landlords need about nine million more tenants, but are not apt to get them, under present conditions.

MUSSOLINI DRAWS the Ethiopian color line. If an Ethiopian delegate attends league sessions, Italy's delegate will withdraw. Baron Aloisi, representing Mussolini, says he will sit at the league council table "on the condition that an Ethiopian representative is not seated."

The learned baron should know that the government of Ethiopia is not a negro government, it is a Semitic government, only the masses of the people are of the negro race. But that will make no difference.

IN TOKYO, according to Universal Service, a call is issued to "Asiatic and African races to do away with the white peril." The "Great Japan Young Men's association" issues this appeal:

"Arise, colored brothers. Slay the Mediterranean white wolf pouncing on the black lamb in east Africa. Colored brothers throughout the world, stand up and save your poor brother Ethiopians who are in the clutches of the white wolf. Slay that white skinned beast who is threatening the innocent black lamb."

That "white peril" of Italy is ancient. It dealt with Carthage and other protesting countries long ago.

THE YOUNG JAPANESE gentlemen ask: "What has Ethiopia done to deserve ruthless devouring by the greedy white wolf?" They might also ask "What did the Transvaal and the Boers ever do to deserve the 'ruthless devouring' of their country, its gold and diamond mines by the blonde English gentlemen?"

For that matter, what did Manchukuo do to deserve "ruthless devouring" by the very efficient gentlemen of the Japanese army? He devours who has good teeth. England, Italy, Japan have them.

COLONEL HUBERT Fauntleroy Julain, adopted name "The Black Eagle of Harlem," surrendered his command of the Ethiopian air force because five of Emperor Selassie's fleet of twelve "war planes" can not be taken off the ground, and the remaining seven are capable only of extremely short flights. That will remind France of J'ai un pied qui remue, et l'autre qui ne vas plus.

The American colored flier intimated that "corruption and bribery by Italian agents have brought the Ethiopian air force to its low ebb."

Adding "It is an event for any Ethiopian plane to take the air," the WAR DEPARTMENT WILL TAKE HAND IN CRABBERS WAR

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 7.—(AP)—The United States war department took a hand today in complaints that crab fishermen in the Morgan City, La., area were interfering with navigation and blocking navigable waters in that vicinity, and sent Grover C. Rackerby, chief engineering aide in charge of the permit section of the war department for this district, to Morgan City.

United States Attorney Rene A. Viosca announced that the war department was beginning an investigation into the complaints against the Morgan City crab fishers.

The action by the government followed an appeal on Thursday to Mr. Viosca by District Attorney L. A. Pecot of Franklin and other St. Mary parish citizens for protection in the "crabbers war."

MARRIAGE OF ALFONSO IS REPORTED ANNULLED

LONDON, Sept. 8.—(Sunday)—(AP)—The newspaper Sunday Referee today printed a story on "high authority" that Pope Pius had annulled the marriage of former King Alfonso and former Queen Victoria Eugenia of Spain.

The newspaper said the annulment had been handed down in the Holy Roman rota, a procedure which excludes publicity in any form.

The belief was expressed by the paper that the former queen will continue to live in London.

MIAMI, Fla., Sept. 7.—(AP)—Danger of pestilence in Florida's tragedy-stricken coral keys was lessened tonight as flames twinkled from scattered funeral pyres of storm dead.

As quickly as Protestant, Catholic and Jewish clergymen could recite their church's farewell to the dead, workers applied the torch to the oil-drenched, badly decomposed victims of Monday's hurricane.

Sheriff D. C. Coleman, heading 500 workers in the storm area, estimated 150 bodies were affected by the cremation order, issued over the wish of President Roosevelt when health officers saw disease imminent.

The latest tabulations of the storm's toll by the FERA and Red Cross disclosed these figures:

Veterans in three key camps, 716.
Unidentified dead or missing, 281.
In hospitals, 138.
Identified dead, 46.
Rescued uninjured or slightly hurt, 244.
No record, 7.
Civilians;
Missing and unaccounted for 90.
Dead identified, 8.
Dead unidentified, 21.
Injured, 286.

The first mass burning—36 bodies—was at Snake creek, within a few hundred feet of the jumbled wreckage of camp three.

Officers Believe Reputed Polygamists Are Protecting Hunted Trio

SHORT CREEK, Ariz., Sept. 7.—(AP)—Blinking lights in a region where a colony of men are reported to have several wives each caused authorities today to suspect a "conspiracy against justice."

A Short Creek woman, Silvia Allred, and two men, I. C. Spencer and Brice Johnson, vanished yesterday as officers were about to proceed against them with charges of "open and notorious cohabitation."

Sheriff Ernest Graham searched virtually every house in town and even the automobiles, but found no trace of the three.

Lights burned mysteriously both in houses here and in the hills early today along the Utah-Arizona boundary line. These led Sheriff Graham to the belief a conspiracy was afoot to prevent apprehension of the fugitives.

"Those lights reminded me of the Indian fire signals and the old heliographs used by the United States Indian scouts during Arizona's hectic

TWO MEN AND BOY LOSE LIVES WHEN THEY ENTER WELL

CEVELAND, Tenn., Sept. 7.—(AP)—Two men and a boy were killed by gas at the bottom of a 47-foot well near here today.

William Parker, 54, the father of 12 children, was overcome by a heavy gas known as "black damp." One of his sons, D. C. Parker, 14, who rushed to his aid, also succumbed, as did a neighbor, Jake Cranfield, 51, who was summoned by the Parker family.

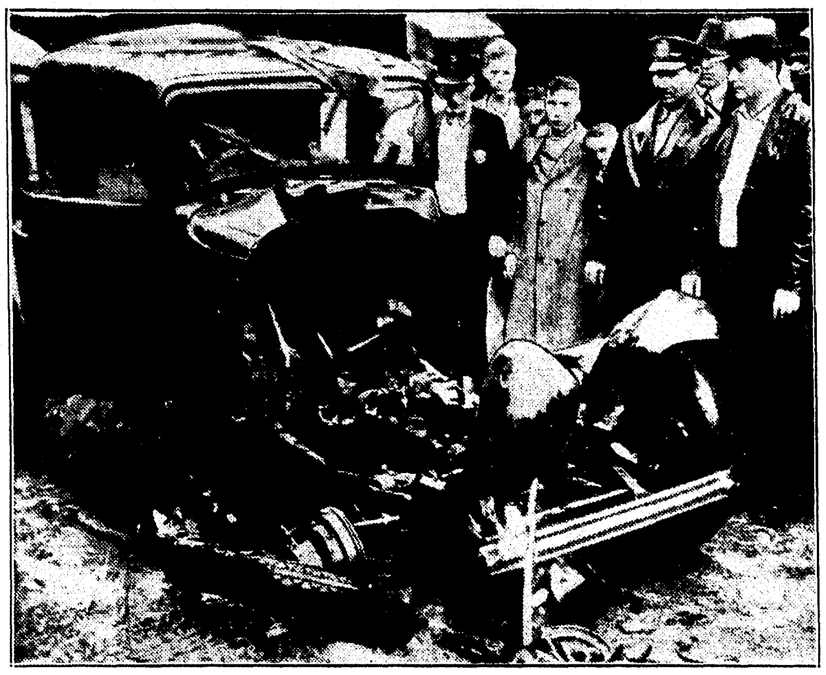

Parker had been digging the well for some time and had experienced difficulty with gas as he neared the water level.

Last night he sought to burn out the gas with pine knots and went today to ascertain whether his efforts had succeeded. His wife pleaded with him not to go down into the well, but when he insisted she and the son let him down with a windlass.

Seeing Parker in trouble soon after he reached the well bottom, the son went after him. He also was overcome. Frantic screams of Mrs. Parker brought Cranfield. He succeeded in tying a rope around the boy, who was brought to the surface, but Cranfield succumbed. The boy was dead when a physician reached him.

The other two bodies were taken out with hooks.

2 Men Are Badly Wounded In West Monroe Gun Fight

Bernard Marshall And Gene Davis Shot By J. W. Horton During Argument

Two men were in St. Francis sanitarium, one perhaps fatally wounded and the other seriously, and a third man is in the parish jail charged with shooting the pair as a result of a quarrel at the Bridge hotel, Riverfront, West Monroe, about 7:15 o'clock last night.

Bernard Marshall, 50, dragline operator of the Twin City Gravel company, was believed to be dying last night of a bullet wound over the heart, and Gene Davids, 38, employe of the Brown Paper mill, suffered an ugly wound in the left shoulder. Both wounds were inflicted by the same bullet.

J. W. Horton, 46, resident of the hotel, was lodged in jail by members of the sheriff's department and the West Monroe police, charged with having fired the shot.

The quarrel was the result of an automobile accident near Sterlington on Friday, August 30, in which both Horton and Davids figured, officers said. Marshall was an innocent bystander who was shot while attempting to break up the quarrel last night.

The shooting occurred inside the hotel a few moments after Horton and Davids came to blows on the front lawn of the hotel property, which is located at the west end of the traffic bridge.

According to the story told authorities by Horton, Davids came to him on August 30 and asked him to drive Davids to Sterlington to return his family to West Monroe. En route, they had a minor wreck and Davids told Horton that he would stand half the expense of repairs, it was said.

Horton said he received a garage bill of $6 yesterday, after which he

SECRETARY WALLACE WELL PLEASED WITH AGRICULTURE PLAN

ATHENS, Ga., Sept. 7.—(AP)—Expressing himself as "well pleased" with information gathered so far in a nation-wide survey looking toward a planned agricultural program for the United States, Henry Wallace, secretary of agriculture, left here today after a conference on the southern farm situation.

The secretary came here Thursday for the third of his regional conferences with agricultural experts and educators.

The first such conference was held recently at Ames, Iowa, for the middle west. Other meetings were held at Logan, Utah, for the far west, and here, for the south. Next week, agricultural leaders will meet at Storrs, Conn., to discuss the eastern agricultural situation.

GERMANY ISSUES SECOND PROTEST

Nation Objects To Statement Of Judge Who Freed Men In Bremen Case

WASHINGTON, Sept. 7.—(AP)—A second protest from the German government grew today from the July riot in which the Nazi flag was ripped from the mast of the Bremen—this one because of remarks attributed to the New York City magistrate who freed five men involved in the melee.

Like the other the state department promised to investigate. Today's

SHIP LOADED WITH FRENCH PRISONERS LEAVES FOR GUIANA

SAINT-MARTIN-DE-RE, France, Sept. 7.—(AP)—The floating prison La Martiniere, bearing 673 gray-clad convicts in eight great steel cages, sailed silently from a guarded dock today for the Guiana prisons.

The steamer La Martiniere, built for the German navy and captured by France during the World war, will deposit its human cargo at St. Laurent du Maroni, distributing station for the various prison camps.

Devil's Island, reserved for those convicted of crimes against the state, will receive none of these prisoners.

Banished from France, it will be years before any of these convicts will set foot once more on their homeland. Each must serve a term at hard labor and an equal number of years in exile.

GENEVA LEAGUE COUNCIL PLEADS FOR MORE TIME

Pope Pius Expresses Wish That Peaceful Settlement Will Be Reached

(By Associated Press)

All Italian consuls in Ethiopia were recalled to Addis Ababa Saturday, a move many observers interpreted as preceding an ultimate war.

Other developments:

GENEVA—A sub-committee of the league council asked Italy and Ethiopia not to resort to force pending attempts to settle the dispute.

ROME—Pope Pius expressed the wish Italy's "needs" in Ethiopia might be achieved by peaceful means and said: "From our latest information, we seem to see forming on the horizon a rainbow of peace."

ROME, Sept. 7.—(AP)—A government spokesman tonight said that the Italian minister at Addis Ababa, acting on his own initiative had withdrawn Italian consular employes throughout Ethiopia to Addis Ababa.

He did this, it was explained, on his own initiative and not under orders of the foreign office.

The action was taken, it was explained, because in view of the unsettled conditions in Ethiopia it was dangerous to continue the personnal in certain districts.

The Ethiopian charge d'affaires, Jesus Xegauras, said that he had not been informed of the reported action.

It it is true, however, he added, "It means war."

LONG AIR JAUNT ENDS WITH CRASH

Prosser And Stoll Prepare To Ship Disabled Plane Back To Cleveland

WHITE CASTLES, La., Sept. 7.—(AP)—James C. Prosser and Gilbert Stoll of Cleveland, whose flight to Bahia Blanca, Argentina, ended in a field near here, were dismantling their plane this afternoon and crating it to ship back to Cleveland.

While the men escaped serious injury when they made a forced landing near here yesterday, the plane's propellor was bent, the rear rudder damaged, the top ripped and other parts torn off.

They had planned a flight to the Argentine city by easy stages and then they hoped to get a new world's non-stop flying record by flying back to Cleveland, a distance of 6,200 miles.

This would have exceeded the non-stop flying record of 5,627 miles set in 1933 by Paul Codos and Maurice

ATTACK SUSPECT CONFESSES CRIME

Gulfport Cafe Worker Spirited To Jackson As Feelings Run High

GULFPORT, Miss., Sept. 7.—(AP)—After being questioned here last night in connection with a brutal attack on an 11-year-old girl, a Gulfport cafe worker booked by police as Louis Boudreaux, alias George Burke, 25, was spirited away to the Hinds county jail at Jackson where B. F. Cruthirds, Gulfport chief of police, today said he confessed to the attack.

Boudreaux, or Burke, was arrested by Gulfport officers after his movements had been watched since the attack early Friday morning. Because of high feeling on the coast he was questioned in the woods here and then carried away secretly to Jackson in a police car. There Burke was formally charged with assault.

The victim of the attack, Lillian Stiglets, was in a critical condition today suffering from head wounds inflicted upon her by an attacker who lured her from her home after midnight and left her in an apparent dying condition behind a bill-

TROOPS ON GUARD AGAINST ANOTHER POLISH OUTBREAK

PRAHA, Czechoslovakia, Sept. 7.—(AP)—Czech-Polish jealousy simmered today as troops stood guard against a fresh outbreak in the vicinity of the city of Cieszyn.

Presence of the troops was made necessary when Polish nationalists, who form a preponderance of the population in certain sections, drove through a number of communities on a mission of wreckage.

The marauders broke windows and furniture and paid special attention to the demolition of schoolhouses. Police arrested 12 men as ringleaders in the attack, but said many more unknown to them participated in the raid.

After the incident a Czech deputation came to Praha to demand protection from the Poles. At their request, 800 foot soldiers, composing the Eighth regiment of the army, were sent to the southwestern city and quartered in vacant factories.

MAN RECEIVES INJURY ON HEAD IN FIGHT HERE

Jack Myers, of 205 North Fifth street, was carried to St. Francis sanitarium in an ambulance last night for treatment of a cut on his head believed by police to have been inflicted by Henry "Mule" Anglin, of West Monroe, with a piece of iron pipe. Police were seeking Anglin.

Myers said he and the man who injured him merely had a "friendly fight." Police said the fight took place at the rear of 109 Hall street.

HUEY LONG TAKES SLAP AT FEDERAL WORKS PROJECTS

Mandatory Jail Penalty Provided For 'Violators Of Constitution'

T. O. HARRIS IS HIT AND ARRESTED BY HENCHMEN

Bills Would Abolish Court Division And Pay New Orleans Employes

BATON ROUGE, La., Sept. 7.—(AP)—A bill to provide a mandatory jail penalty for any federal government representative conducting federal work in Louisiana held in the state courts to be violative of the national constitution was laid by Senator Huey P. Long before the legislature tonight for enactment in special session.

The bill, one of 31 drafted at Long's orders for passage by the obedient Louisiana law-makers, is one of the most sweeping of the series that the senator has had the legislature enact this year in his conflict with the Roosevelt administration.

At the same time Long announced that he would file suit in the United States supreme court to establish the right of the state of Louisiana to prevent operation of federal bureaus within the state if such operation violates the federal constitution.

The bills, all bearing Long's personal endorsement, contained measures designed to help the city of New Orleans pay its employes, and to abolish a division of East Baton Rouge district court at the end of the term presently being served by Judge W. Carruth Jones.

Several other bills, sponsored independently by individual legislators, were introduced.

The bills were laid on the house clerk's desk as the legislature assembled in its seventh special session in 13 months to do Long's bidding.

As the house met, a flurry was occasioned by the slapping of T. O. Harris, elderly former state auditor, and a political foe of Long's by one of Long's bodyguards, followed by his ejection from the chamber and arrest.

Harris was charged in city court with being drunk and disorderly, and using profane and obscene language, and released on $15 bond.

Harris of Shreveport, La., was struck by George McQuiston, one of Long's corps of attendants who was standing near the senator near the clerk's desk.

Harris is publicity director for W. B. Hatcher, federal director of educational activity in Louisiana.

As the bills were read by the clerk, they were advanced to the ways and means committee, composed almost entirely of Long's legislators, for certain approval under suspension of rules.

The exact provisions and scope of the bill regarding constitutionality of federal work activity in Louisiana—

DUBACH RESIDENT IS INDICTED ON ASSAULT CHARGE

HOMER, La., Sept. 7.—(Special)—H. G. Allen, of Dubach, was indicted today by the Claiborne parish grand jury on a charge of assault with intent to commit criminal assault in connection with the death of a woman hitch-hiker, whose body was found on the Homer-Minden highway last April.

Allen was released on a $2,000 bond, which was signed by Sid Tatum of Dubach and L. L. Lowery, of Lisbon. He will be arraigned in court here Wednesday.

The case was passed by a former grand jury for further investigation.

Bobby Natten, charged with murder and assault in the same case, is in the Claiborne parish jail, having been unable to make $9,000 bond. His case is scheduled for trial at the October term of court.

Twenty-seven bills were investigated by the grand jury during its session, 15 true bills and 10 no bills being returned. One case was passed and one transferred to the juvenile court.

HIGGINBOTHAM SUES FOR UNPAID SALARY

BATON ROUGE, La., Sept. 7.—(AP)—Powers Higginbotham, legislated out of office as Baton Rouge commissioner of streets and parks by one of Senator Huey P. Long's legislative acts, today sued the city for $7,857.78 for salary he asserts is due him.

He asserted in his petition that his discharge as "superintendent" of streets and parks after the legislature abolished his commissioner's office was illegal and that he had a contract with the city.

Higginbotham is now sixth district engineering supervisor for the works progress administration.

TRANSLATION OF MUSTY FRENCH PETITION SHOWS COLORFUL HISTORY OF FORT MIRO

By WALTER L. BUTLER

The first dry leaves of early autumn were falling in the virgin forests about the lonely Ouachita post in the year 1790. The men of that French outpost in the new world were harvesting the crops, visualizing the completion of the work and the advent of the hunting season.

There was a calm upon the land, there was peace and plenty. But there was apprehension as there is fear in a calm which precedes a storm. The Indians had become accustomed to coming out of the deep woods and visiting the post, prolonging their stay and being in such numbers that apprehension was created that during the hunting season, when the men of the post were away, the redskins would fall upon the families there with bow and arrow and tomahawk.

During the previous winter, an encampment of white people had been pillaged by savages; a man and a woman had been slain.

What security had the men of that pioneer post of civilization that the Indians, becoming bolder, would not attack the Ouachita post in their absence during the hunting season.

They asked this question in a petition addressed to the commandant of the post, Jean Filhiol. They asked him to take steps towards having a fort constructed.

The petition, Jean Filhiol's written acknowledgement of the petition, and the official report of a meeting at which the men of the outpost gathered and made plans for building Fort Miro, have just been translated from the French by Mrs. Alf Reid of Monroe, for John R. Humble, local abstractor.

The translation was made from originals on file in the clerk of court's office here. Mr. Humble, who has been interested in gathering official data on the early history of Monroe and Ouachita parish for some years, had the translation made and filed at the clerk's office for historical purposes, so that persons interested in gathering historical data would have a copy of the original pages with the translation typewritten in English on the reverse side. Mr. Humble was especially prompted to have such a copy at the courthouse ready for instant use by a request of J. Fair Hardin, a friend, of Shreveport. Mr. Hardin is an officer of the Louisiana Historical association and is assistant United States attorney for the western district of Louisiana.

Mrs. Reid is an instructor of French at the Neville High school. She was before her marriage Miss Stella LaCroix. Born in New Iberia, she was reared in a home in which French as it is spoken in south Louisiana was the language used. Her mother spoke little English. Mrs. Reid's knowledge of this language of south Louisiana was advantageous in the translating of the records of 1790.

The translated documents give no exact location for the building of the fort, which was built on property of the commandant. Mr. Humble said his professional work with early records, as well as his personal research work, reveal that Fort Miro was located at the site of the present Monroe Steam laundry on South Grand street.

This location is verified by measurements appearing in a hundred or

SECRETARY WALLACE WELL PLEASED WITH AGRICULTURE PLAN

ATHENS, Ga., Sept. 7.—(AP)—Expressing himself as "well pleased" with information gathered so far in a nation-wide survey looking toward a planned agricultural program for the United States, Henry Wallace, secretary of agriculture, left here today after a conference on the southern farm situation.

The secretary came here Thursday for the third of his regional conferences with agricultural experts and educators.

The first such conference was held recently at Ames, Iowa, for the middle west. Other meetings were held at Logan, Utah, for the far west, and here, for the south. Next week, agricultural leaders will meet at Storrs, Conn., to discuss the eastern agricultural situation.

Bernard Marshall And Gene Davis Shot By J. W. Horton During Argument

Two men were in St. Francis sanitarium, one perhaps fatally wounded and the other seriously, and a third man is in the parish jail charged with shooting the pair as a result of a quarrel at the Bridge hotel, Riverfront, West Monroe, about 7:15 o'clock last night.

Bernard Marshall, 50, dragline operator of the Twin City Gravel company, was believed to be dying last night of a bullet wound over the heart, and Gene Davids, 38, employe of the Brown Paper mill, suffered an ugly wound in the left shoulder. Both wounds were inflicted by the same bullet.

J. W. Horton, 46, resident of the hotel, was lodged in jail by members of the sheriff's department and the West Monroe police, charged with having fired the shot.

The quarrel was the result of an automobile accident near Sterlington on Friday, August 30, in which both Horton and Davids figured, officers said. Marshall was an innocent bystander who was shot while attempting to break up the quarrel last night.

The shooting occurred inside the hotel a few moments after Horton and Davids came to blows on the front lawn of the hotel property, which is located at the west end of the traffic bridge.

According to the story told authorities by Horton, Davids came to him on August 30 and asked him to drive Davids to Sterlington to return his family to West Monroe. En route, they had a minor wreck and Davids told Horton that he would stand half the expense of repairs, it was said.

Horton said he received a garage bill of $6 yesterday, after which he

Nation Objects To Statement Of Judge Who Freed Men In Bremen Case

WASHINGTON, Sept. 7.—(AP)—A second protest from the German government grew today from the July riot in which the Nazi flag was ripped from the mast of the Bremen—this one because of remarks attributed to the New York City magistrate who freed five men involved in the melee.

SHIP LOADED WITH FRENCH PRISONERS LEAVES FOR GUIANA

SAINT-MARTIN-DE-RE, France, Sept. 7.—(AP)—The floating prison La Martiniere, bearing 673 gray-clad convicts in eight great steel cages, sailed silently from a guarded dock today for the Guiana prisons.

The steamer La Martiniere, built for the German navy and captured by France during the World war, will deposit its human cargo at St. Laurent du Maroni, distributing station for the various prison camps.

Devil's Island, reserved for those convicted of crimes against the state, will receive none of these prisoners.

Banished from France, it will be years before any of these convicts will set foot once more on their homeland. Each must serve a term at hard labor and an equal number of years in exile.

Pope Pius Expresses Wish That Peaceful Settlement Will Be Reached

(By Associated Press)

All Italian consuls in Ethiopia were recalled to Addis Ababa Saturday, a move many observers interpreted as preceding an ultimate war.

Other developments:

GENEVA—A sub-committee of the league council asked Italy and Ethiopia not to resort to force pending attempts to settle the dispute.

ROME—Pope Pius expressed the wish Italy's "needs" in Ethiopia might be achieved by peaceful means and said: "From our latest information, we seem to see forming on the horizon a rainbow of peace."

ROME, Sept. 7.—(AP)—A government spokesman tonight said that the Italian minister at Addis Ababa, acting on his own initiative had withdrawn Italian consular employes throughout Ethiopia to Addis Ababa.

He did this, it was explained, on his own initiative and not under orders of the foreign office.

The action was taken, it was explained, because in view of the unsettled conditions in Ethiopia it was dangerous to continue the personnal in certain districts.

The Ethiopian charge d'affaires, Jesus Xegauras, said that he had not been informed of the reported action.

It it is true, however, he added, "It means war."

Prosser And Stoll Prepare To Ship Disabled Plane Back To Cleveland

WHITE CASTLES, La., Sept. 7.—(AP)—James C. Prosser and Gilbert Stoll of Cleveland, whose flight to Bahia Blanca, Argentina, ended in a field near here, were dismantling their plane this afternoon and crating it to ship back to Cleveland.

While the men escaped serious injury when they made a forced landing near here yesterday, the plane's propellor was bent, the rear rudder damaged, the top ripped and other parts torn off.

They had planned a flight to the Argentine city by easy stages and then they hoped to get a new world's non-stop flying record by flying back to Cleveland, a distance of 6,200 miles.

This would have exceeded the non-stop flying record of 5,627 miles set in 1933 by Paul Codos and Maurice

ATTACK SUSPECT CONFESSES CRIME

Gulfport Cafe Worker Spirited To Jackson As Feelings Run High

GULFPORT, Miss., Sept. 7.—(AP)—After being questioned here last night in connection with a brutal attack on an 11-year-old girl, a Gulfport cafe worker booked by police as Louis Boudreaux, alias George Burke, 25, was spirited away to the Hinds county jail at Jackson where B. F. Cruthirds, Gulfport chief of police, today said he confessed to the attack.

Boudreaux, or Burke, was arrested by Gulfport officers after his movements had been watched since the attack early Friday morning. Because of high feeling on the coast he was questioned in the woods here and then carried away secretly to Jackson in a police car. There Burke was formally charged with assault.

The victim of the attack, Lillian Stiglets, was in a critical condition today suffering from head wounds inflicted upon her by an attacker who lured her from her home after midnight and left her in an apparent dying condition behind a bill-

TROOPS ON GUARD AGAINST ANOTHER POLISH OUTBREAK

PRAHA, Czechoslovakia, Sept. 7.—(AP)—Czech-Polish jealousy simmered today as troops stood guard against a fresh outbreak in the vicinity of the city of Cieszyn.

Presence of the troops was made necessary when Polish nationalists, who form a preponderance of the population in certain sections, drove through a number of communities on a mission of wreckage.

The marauders broke windows and furniture and paid special attention to the demolition of schoolhouses. Police arrested 12 men as ringleaders in the attack, but said many more unknown to them participated in the raid.

After the incident a Czech deputation came to Praha to demand protection from the Poles. At their request, 800 foot soldiers, composing the Eighth regiment of the army, were sent to the southwestern city and quartered in vacant factories.

Myers said he and the man who injured him merely had a "friendly fight." Police said the fight took place at the rear of 109 Hall street.

HUEY LONG TAKES SLAP AT FEDERAL WORKS PROJECTS

Mandatory Jail Penalty Provided For 'Violators Of Constitution'

T. O. HARRIS IS HIT AND ARRESTED BY HENCHMEN

Bills Would Abolish Court Division And Pay New Orleans Employes

BATON ROUGE, La., Sept. 7.—(AP)—A bill to provide a mandatory jail penalty for any federal government representative conducting federal work in Louisiana held in the state courts to be violative of the national constitution was laid by Senator Huey P. Long before the legislature tonight for enactment in special session.

The bill, one of 31 drafted at Long's orders for passage by the obedient Louisiana law-makers, is one of the most sweeping of the series that the senator has had the legislature enact this year in his conflict with the Roosevelt administration.

At the same time Long announced that he would file suit in the United States supreme court to establish the right of the state of Louisiana to prevent operation of federal bureaus within the state if such operation violates the federal constitution.

The bills, all bearing Long's personal endorsement, contained measures designed to help the city of New Orleans pay its employes, and to abolish a division of East Baton Rouge district court at the end of the term presently being served by Judge W. Carruth Jones.

Several other bills, sponsored independently by individual legislators, were introduced.

The bills were laid on the house clerk's desk as the legislature assembled in its seventh special session in 13 months to do Long's bidding.

As the house met, a flurry was occasioned by the slapping of T. O. Harris, elderly former state auditor, and a political foe of Long's by one of Long's bodyguards, followed by his ejection from the chamber and arrest.

Harris was charged in city court with being drunk and disorderly, and using profane and obscene language, and released on $15 bond.

Harris of Shreveport, La., was struck by George McQuiston, one of Long's corps of attendants who was standing near the senator near the clerk's desk.

Harris is publicity director for W. B. Hatcher, federal director of educational activity in Louisiana.

As the bills were read by the clerk, they were advanced to the ways and means committee, composed almost entirely of Long's legislators, for certain approval under suspension of rules.

DUBACH RESIDENT IS INDICTED ON ASSAULT CHARGE

HOMER, La., Sept. 7.—(Special)—H. G. Allen, of Dubach, was indicted today by the Claiborne parish grand jury on a charge of assault with intent to commit criminal assault in connection with the death of a woman hitch-hiker, whose body was found on the Homer-Minden highway last April.

Allen was released on a $2,000 bond, which was signed by Sid Tatum of Dubach and L. L. Lowery, of Lisbon. He will be arraigned in court here Wednesday.

The case was passed by a former grand jury for further investigation.

Bobby Natten, charged with murder and assault in the same case, is in the Claiborne parish jail, having been unable to make $9,000 bond. His case is scheduled for trial at the October term of court.

Twenty-seven bills were investigated by the grand jury during its session, 15 true bills and 10 no bills being returned. One case was passed and one transferred to the juvenile court.

HIGGINBOTHAM SUES FOR UNPAID SALARY

BATON ROUGE, La., Sept. 7.—(AP)—Powers Higginbotham, legislated out of office as Baton Rouge commissioner of streets and parks by one of Senator Huey P. Long's legislative acts, today sued the city for $7,957.76 for salary he asserts is due him.

He asserted in his petition that his discharge as "superintendent" of streets and parks after the legislature abolished his commissioner's office was illegal and that he had a contract with the city.

Higginbotham is now sixth district engineering supervisor for the works progress administration.

TRANSLATION OF MUSTY FRENCH PETITION SHOWS COLORFUL HISTORY OF FORT MIRO

By WALTER L. BUTLER

The first dry leaves of early autumn were falling in the virgin forests about the lonely Ouachita post in the year 1790. The men of that French outpost in the new world were harvesting the crops, visualizing the completion of the work and the advent of the hunting season.

There was a calm upon the land, there was peace and plenty. But there was apprehension as there is fear in a calm which precedes a storm. The Indians had become accustomed to coming out of the deep woods and visiting the post, prolonging their stay and being in such numbers that apprehension was created that during the hunting season, when the men of the post were away, the redskins would fall upon the families there with bow and arrow and tomahawk.

During the previous winter, an encampment of white people had been pillaged by savages; a man and a woman had been slain.

What security had the men of that pioneer post of civilization that the Indians, becoming bolder, would not attack the Ouachita post in their absence during the hunting season.

They asked this question in a petition addressed to the commandant of the post, Jean Filhiol. They asked him to take steps towards having a fort constructed.

The petition, Jean Filhiol's written acknowledgement of the petition, and the official report of a meeting at which the men of the outpost gathered and made plans for building Fort Miro, have just been translated from the French by Mrs. Alf Reid of Monroe, for John R. Humble, local abstractor.

The translation was made from originals on file in the clerk of court's office here. Mr. Humble, who has been interested in gathering official data on the early history of Monroe and Ouachita parish for some years, had the translation made and filed at the clerk's office for historical purposes, so that persons interested in gathering historical data would have a copy of the original pages with the translation typewritten in English on the reverse side. Mr. Humble was especially prompted to have such a copy at the courthouse ready for instant use by a request of J. Fair Hardin, a friend, of Shreveport. Mr. Hardin is an officer of the Louisiana Historical association and is assistant United States attorney for the western district of Louisiana.

Mrs. Reid is an instructor of French at the Neville High school. She was before her marriage Miss Stella LaCroix. Born in New Iberia, she was reared in a home in which French as it is spoken in south Louisiana was the language used. Her mother spoke little English. Mrs. Reid's knowledge of this language of south Louisiana was advantageous in the translating of the records of 1790.

Each Man Agreed To Furnish Number Of Posts For Structure In 1790

The translated documents give no exact location for the building of the fort, which was built on property of the commandant. Mr. Humble said his professional work with early records, as well as his personal research work, reveal that Fort Miro was located at the site of the present Monroe Steam laundry on South Grand street.

more deeds officially kept on file from early years of the history of Ouachita parish, Mr. Humble stated. Primarily, the location is established by measurements on Jean Filhiol's property which are recognized legally to this day, and secondarily the location is established by a hundred-odd deeds concerning other properties the location of which in relation to the Filhiol property was given in the deeds, according to Mr. Humble.

Fort Miro was built soon after the citizens' meeting, and was given its name in honor of Don Estevan Miro, the Spanish governor of Louisiana. Later, the post was given the name of Monroe.

Mr. Humble's research work reveals that in 1804 Sir Williams Dunbar and George Hunter reported that the fort was in a decaying condition. In 1814, government surveyors reported only remnants of the fort remained.

Citizens of the Ouachita post, with winter and the hunting season approaching, wrote the following petition seeking the construction of the fort:

"To the commandant of the Ouachita post.

"The undersigned citizens of the post petition, saying:

"That this section having become for some time the great landing place of several Indian tribes, who under pretext of hunting, by mutual understanding, remain here during three-fourths of the year, considering that your petitioners are in such small numbers, scattered, and absent from home during the hunting season, which is when the said Indians are most numerous, their families and what they possess are exposed to insults and raids by the marauders.

"Thus they accustomed themselves and nothing has happened until now, thanks to the fine spirit in which you have maintained them, and the orderliness that you have established (not to taste bad liquor).

"But, sir, that security in which your petitioners were beginning to resign themselves, is breaking; the enemies of which there is no apprehension on this river, have penetrated it and pillaged the encampment with bows and arrows last winter; the chiefs that we were mingling with, whom we were accustomed to see without fear, have begun to disagree because a certain blonde whom they have been made to see to the edge of the forest, according to the report of Mr. Menard, was the one American who had been destroyed with Michel L'allemand that we suspected to have fallen by the hands of the savages; shall we not guard ourselves for fear that they will carry on to such a point that we shall be plundered and annihilated?

"These attacks occurred last winter in the upper section of this river; but what guarantee have we that these hordes of enemies will not fall upon us again next winter? The eve that most of us leave for the woods to hunt for furs to provide our needs, we tremble with fear of finding on our return, our families beheaded, our homes sacked; and what assurance have we that the ravagers will not be detected while we are here?

"It is, sir a sad plight that confronts us; our suppliants relate their conditions, like their gentle Father, would convince you that you will employ all the powers at your disposal to relieve the suffering under the circumstances.

"Your petitioners believe that nothing will quiet them more than to see a fort erected in their midst, in case of alarm, they are certain that their families and their children will find it an assured refuge of safety, and all gathered there, they would still be able to guard their possessions from devastations against the enemy that does not like their residence. Your petitioner now ask it of you.

"Be so kind, sir, as to lend yourself to their desires and do what you think wisest so that it may be done by the end of next October. Each one offers and obligates himself to contribute according to his means and will offer prayers for your conservation.

"Ouachita, Aug. 29, 1790."

The mark "X" appeared above about half of the signatures of the petition as the "usual signature of" the persons, and it was inferred that these persons were unable to write, someone else attaching their names to the document and they, themselves, making their mark.

The signatures were as follows: Bavins De La Baume, Francois Cave, Baltazar Goguet, Cavalier du Champignol, Guy Prese, Bu Macomu, Viconte Micheli, Auguste Rois, Bu Janot, Francois Duval, Jean Prudhomme, John Price, Louis Francisco, Tupar, Francois Moran, Joseph Itier, Louis Chauvin.

Ten days after the petition was signed and presented to the commandant, he made the following official notation of a meeting called and held for the purpose of making plans for the fort:

"We, Jean Filhiol, captain of militia, commandant of Ouachita post:

"The citizens of this post having presented us a petition on the 29th, requesting that they be given a fort which when need be can serve them as shelter against the Indian tribes, whose attacks they fear; we have believed it our duty to adhere to a request which can reassure them, which appears to me legitimate enough, considering the remoteness of this settlement and the scarcity of its inhabitants, consequently, desiring nothing more than to give them proofs of the interest that we are taking in their safety have informed them to be present on this day at our office to take the necessary steps for the construction of said fort.

"Ouachita, September 8, 1790. "Jean Filhiol."

The petitioners drafted the following account of the meeting and specifications for the fort:

"In the year 1790 on the 8th day of the month of September the undersigned inhabitants of this post of Ouachita having assembled on the invitation of the commandant in his office to deliberate on the most suitable means of constructing a fort which has been requested in their petition, it was decided the decree as follows:

"It is necessary that this fort be in the neighborhood of our Lord Jean Filhiol, commandant, whose plantation happens to be advantageously situated. He consents to lend his yard and that the buildings which are there be inclosed in said fort, as a result it will not be necessary to construct additional buildings because those which are there are more than sufficient.

"That yard consists of more than 180 feet on two sides and 140 feet on the other two sides; in order that there be a space of at least five feet between the posts of the fort and building, it is necessary then to have for the buildings of the fort 190 feet on two sides and 150 feet on the other two sides, which will make 680 feet of outside wall, and will require one thousand and twenty stakes each of which will be eight inches wide.

"The stakes will measure twelve feet long by eight inches one dimension and at least nine inches the other, which will accommodate seventeen subscribers, I say eighteen, (taking care of) half of said perimeter wall (by) furnishing each twenty-five posts; Lord de la Baume, lieutenant of the militia company, and the said lord commandant obligate themselves to furnish between them the other half of the said perimeter wall. The stakes will be of white oak or cypress, and will be planted three feet in the ground and nine feet above the ground.

"Each man pledges himself to deliver his to the place and to furnish his contingent between this date and the 10th of next month at the latest.

"The said Lord Commandant and the said Lord de la Baume desire only the opportunity to demonstrate what they have to contribute to the satisfaction of the public, they pledge themselves to conduct the work, cause the wood to be put in place, and to fulfill the wishes that have been proposed while desiring it.

"Drawn up at the domicile of the commandant the eighth of September one thousand seven hundred and ninety."

Signatures at the bottom of the document, most of them accompanied by the mark "X", were the following: August le Roy, Francois Duval, Baltazar Foguet, Tn Bte Teannot, Francois Cavet, Bavin, Ih Itier, Pierre Preve, Louis Frenchisque, Francois Moron, Jean Filhiol.

An all-night check of automobiles to and from Short Creek also failed to reveal the whereabouts of the missing trio.

John Y. Barlow, head of the Arizona trust, operated by the United Order of Brethern, upheld the activities of the sect. He said he couldn't understand why anyone should get "riled" up.

"We are the last of the old Mormons who still believe in plural wives," Barlow said.

"The rest of the Mormons renounced the faith. If they throw away their belief in polygamy, they throw away the entire belief. However, we are going to keep faith with our consciences."

He backed up his stand with the assertion that Abraham, David and Solomon had many wives. County Attorney Elmo Bollinger said "these people are merely satisfying their lusts under the name of religion."

The Mormon church has excommunicated the cult.

ALLEN EXTENDS TAX COLLECTION

BATON ROUGE, La., Sept. 7.—(AP)—Gov. O. K. Allen today extended until December 8 his suspension of four-fifths of the oil refining tax which aroused so much resentment against Senator Huey P. Long last January.

The tax, levied at the third 1934 special session at Long's direction, placed a 5 cents a barrel license on refined oil.

After the Standard Oil company announced it would sharply cut production at its Baton Rouge refinery, and refinery workers voiced angry protest at prospect of losing their jobs, the legislature at its February-March special session authorized the governor to suspend part of the levy.

Long said the Standard Oil company had agreed to use more Louisiana crude.

Allen suspended the collection of four cents of the tax until September 8. His new proclamation makes the suspension effective for three more months.

APPLICATION FORMS FOR COTTON SALES ARE EXPECTED SOON

Forms for making application for adjustment payments in connection with the agricultural adjustment administration's marketing plan for the 1935 crop and the ten-cent loan by the Commodity Credit corporation are expected to be received here within the next several days at the office of E. R. Strahan, parish agricultural agent.

"The forms will be available for cotton producers who cooperated in the cotton program for 1935 and who agree to cooperate in 1936," Mr. Strahan said. "The loan of ten cents per pound will be made by the Commodity Credit corporation, without recourse, on middling seven-eighths of an inch cotton or better.

"The AAA, through the loan and payment plan, assures the cotton industry an average price of at least twelve cents per pound for middling seven-eighths of an inch cotton by agreeing to make adjustment payments to cooperating farmers for their 1935 production or Bankhead allotment, whichever is smaller.

"This adjustment payment will represent the difference between twelve cents and the average price of middling seven-eighths of an inch cotton in the ten spot markets on the day the cotton is sold. Producers are reminded that the adjustment payment does not represent the difference between their particular selling price and twelve cents, but the difference between twelve cents and the average price of middling seven-eighths of an inch cotton in the ten spot markets on the day the cotton is sold.

"In no event will the adjustment payment exceed two cents per pound. Payments will be made December 1, 1935, and April 1 and August 1, 1936, approximately."

protest was made by Ambassador Hans Luther under instructions from the German foreign office. He protested to the department orally against what German officials considered an unwarranted "insult."

The ambassador discussed the question with Secretary Hull for nearly an hour and declined any comment as he left the state department.

State department officials later let it be known that the secretary had assured the ambassador that Governor Herbert Lehman of New York would be asked for an immediate report. No answer is expected until next week.

The understanding here was that Ambassador Luther objected to remarks about the Nazi flag that were attributed to Magistrate Louis B. Brodsky.

The magistrate spoke of opinions held by "the defendants and others of our citizenry" that the Nazi flag flying in American territory had been provocation for the riot.

He said some citizens appeared to have been provoked through "flaunting of an emblem which symbolizes all that is antithetical to American ideals of the God-given and inalienable right of all peoples to life, liberty and pursuit of happiness."

Brodsky also was quoted as expressing views held by "others" that "the prominent display of this emblem even carried with it the same sinister implications as a pirate ship, sailing defiantly into the harbor of a nation, one of whose ships it had just scuttled, with the black flag of piracy proudly flying aloft."

more deeds officially kept on file from early years of the history of Ouachita parish, Mr. Humble stated. Primarily, the location is established by measurements on Jean Filhiol's property which are recognized legally to this day, and secondarily the location is established by a hundred-odd deeds concerning other properties the location of which in relation to the Filhiol property was given in the deeds, according to Mr. Humble.

Fort Miro was built soon after the citizens' meeting, and was given its name in honor of Don Estevan Miro, the Spanish governor of Louisiana. Later, the post was given the name of Monroe.

Mr. Humble's research work reveals that in 1804 Sir Williams Dunbar and George Hunter reported that the fort was in a decaying condition. In 1814, government surveyors reported only remnants of the fort remained.

Citizens of the Ouachita post, with winter and the hunting season approaching, wrote the following petition seeking the construction of the fort:

"To the commandant of the Ouachita post.

"The undersigned citizens of the post petition, saying:

"That this section having become for some time the great landing place of several Indian tribes, who under pretext of hunting, by mutual understanding, remain here during three-fourths of the year, considering that your petitioners are in such small numbers, scattered, and absent from home during the hunting season, which is when the said Indians are most numerous, their families and what they possess are exposed to insults and raids by the marauders.

"Thus they accustomed themselves and nothing has happened until now, thanks to the fine spirit in which you have maintained them, and the orderliness that you have established (not to taste bad liquor).

"But, sir, that security in which your petitioners were beginning to resign themselves, is breaking; the enemies of which there is no apprehension on this river, have penetrated it and pillaged the encampment with bows and arrows last winter; the chiefs that we were mingling with, whom we were accustomed to see without fear, have begun to disagree because a certain blonde whom they have been made to see to the edge of the forest, according to the report of Mr. Menard, was the one American who had been destroyed with Michel L'allemand that we suspected to have fallen by the hands of the savages; shall we not guard ourselves for fear that they will carry on to such a point that we shall be plundered and annihilated?

"These attacks occurred last winter in the upper section of this river; but what guarantee have we that these hordes of enemies will not fall upon us again next winter? The eve that most of us leave for the woods to hunt for furs to provide our needs, we tremble with fear of finding on our return, our families beheaded, our homes sacked; and what assurance have we that the ravagers will not be detected while we are here?

"It is, sir a sad plight that confronts us; our suppliants relate their conditions, like their gentle Father, would convince you that you will employ all the powers at your disposal to relieve the suffering under the circumstances.

"Your petitioners believe that nothing will quiet them more than to see a fort erected in their midst, in case of alarm, they are certain that their families and their children will find it an assured refuge of safety, and all gathered there, they would still be able to guard their possessions from devastations against the enemy that does not like their residence. Your petitioner now ask it of you.

"Be so kind, sir, as to lend yourself to their desires and do what you think wisest so that it may be done by the end of next October. Each one offers and obligates himself to contribute according to his means and will offer prayers for your conservation.

"Ouachita, Aug. 29, 1790."

The mark "X" appeared above about half of the signatures of the petition as the "usual signature of" the persons, and it was inferred that these persons were unable to write, someone else attaching their names to the document and they, themselves, making their mark.

The signatures were as follows: Bavins De La Baume, Francois Cave, Baltazar Goguet, Cavalier du Champignol, Guy Prese, Bu Macomu, Viconte Micheli, Auguste Rois, Bu Janot, Francois Duval, Jean Prudhomme, John Price, Louis Francisco, Tupar, Francois Moran, Joseph Itier, Louis Chauvin.

Ten days after the petition was signed and presented to the commandant, he made the following official notation of a meeting called and held for the purpose of making plans for the fort:

"We, Jean Filhiol, captain of militia, commandant of Ouachita post:

"The citizens of this post having presented us a petition on the 29th, requesting that they be given a fort which when need be can serve them as shelter against the Indian tribes, whose attacks they fear; we have believed it our duty to adhere to a request which can reassure them, which appears to me legitimate enough, considering the remoteness of this settlement and the scarcity of its inhabitants, consequently, desiring nothing more than to give them proofs of the interest that we are taking in their safety have informed them to be present on this day at our office to take the necessary steps for the construction of said fort.

"Ouachita, September 8, 1790.

"Jean Filhiol."

The petitioners drafted the following account of the meeting and specifications for the fort:

"In the year 1790 on the 8th day of the month of September the undersigned inhabitants of this post of Ouachita having assembled on the invitation of the commandant in his office to deliberate on the most suitable means of constructing a fort which has been requested in their petition, it was decided the decree as follows:

"It is necessary that this fort be in the neighborhood of our Lord Jean Filhiol, commandant, whose plantation happens to be advantageously situated. He consents to lend his yard and that the buildings which are there be inclosed in said fort, as a result it will not be necessary to construct additional buildings because those which are there are more than sufficient.

"That yard consists of more than 180 feet on two sides and 140 feet on the other two sides; in order that there be a space of at least five feet between the posts of the fort and building, it is necessary then to have for the buildings of the fort 190 feet on two sides and 150 feet on the other two sides, which will make 680 feet of outside wall, and will require one thousand and twenty stakes each of which will be eight inches wide.

"The stakes will measure twelve feet long by eight inches one dimension and at least nine inches the other, which will accommodate seventeen subscribers, I say eighteen, (taking care of) half of said perimeter wall (by) furnishing each twenty-five posts; Lord de la Baume, lieutenant of the militia company, and the said lord commandant obligate themselves to furnish between them the other half of the said perimeter wall. The stakes will be of white oak or cypress, and will be planted three feet in the ground and nine feet above the ground.

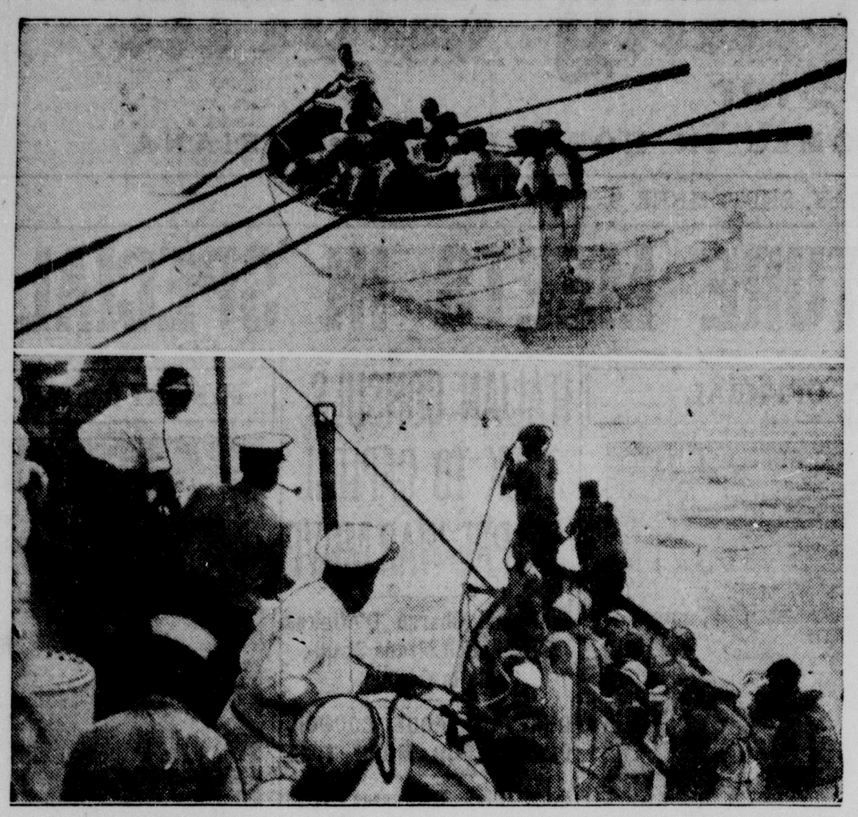

"Each man pledges himself to deliver his to the place and to furnish his contingent between this date and the 10th of next month at the latest.

"The said Lord Commandant and the said Lord de la Baume desire only the opportunity to demonstrate what they have to contribute to the satisfaction of the public, they pledge themselves to conduct the work, cause the wood to be put in place, and to fulfill the wishes that have been proposed while desiring it.

"Drawn up at the domicile of the commandant the eighth of September one thousand seven hundred and ninety."

APPLICATION FORMS FOR COTTON SALES ARE EXPECTED SOON

Forms for making application for adjustment payments in connection with the agricultural adjustment administration's marketing plan for the 1935 crop and the ten-cent loan by the Commodity Credit corporation are expected to be received here within the next several days at the office of E. R. Strahan, parish agricultural agent.

"The forms will be available for cotton producers who cooperated in the cotton program for 1935 and who agree to cooperate in 1936," Mr. Strahan said. "The loan of ten cents per pound will be made by the Commodity Credit corporation, without recourse, on middling seven-eighths of an inch cotton or better.

"The AAA, through the loan and payment plan, assures the cotton industry an average price of at least twelve cents per pound for middling seven-eighths of an inch cotton by agreeing to make adjustment payments to cooperating farmers for their 1935 production or Bankhead allotment, whichever is smaller.

"This adjustment payment will represent the difference between twelve cents and the average price of middling seven-eighths of an inch cotton in the ten spot markets on the day the cotton is sold. Producers are reminded that the adjustment payment does not represent the difference between their particular selling price and twelve cents, but the difference between twelve cents and the average price of middling seven-eighths of an inch cotton in the ten spot markets on the day the cotton is sold.

"In no event will the adjustment payment exceed two cents per pound. Payments will be made December 1, 1935, and April 1 and August 1, 1936, approximately."

OUACHITA GASOLINE TAX FOR SEVEN MONTHS GIVEN

The Ouachita parish gasoline tax for seven-month period ending July 31 totaled $31,807.43, it was learned yesterday from C. A. Hunt, in charge of collection of the tax.

The tax was paid on a total of 457 tank-car loads and 106 truck tank loads.

early day conflicts with the redmen," Sheriff Graham said.

An all-night check of automobiles to and from Short Creek also failed to reveal the whereabouts of the missing trio.

John Y. Barlow, head of the Arizona trust, operated by the United Order of Brethern, upheld the activities of the sect. He said he couldn't understand why anyone should get "riled" up.

"We are the last of the old Mormons who still believe in plural wives," Barlow said.

"The rest of the Mormons renounced the faith. If they throw away their belief in polygamy, they throw away the entire belief. However, we are going to keep faith with our consciences."

He backed up his stand with the assertion that Abraham, David and Solomon had many wives. County Attorney Elmo Bollinger said "these people are merely satisfying their lusts under the name of religion."

The Mormon church has excommunicated the cult.

ALLEN EXTENDS TAX COLLECTION

BATON ROUGE, La., Sept. 7.—(AP)—Gov. O. K. Allen today extended until December 8 his suspension of four-fifths of the oil refining tax which aroused so much resentment against Senator Huey P. Long last January.

The tax, levied at the third 1934 special session at Long's direction, placed a 5 cents a barrel license on refined oil.

After the Standard Oil company announced it would sharply cut production at its Baton Rouge refinery, and refinery workers voiced angry protest at prospect of losing their jobs, the legislature at its February-March special session authorized the governor to suspend part of the levy.

Long said the Standard Oil company had agreed to use more Louisiana crude.

Allen suspended the collection of four cents of the tax until September 8. His new proclamation makes the suspension effective for three more months.

protest was made by Ambassador Hans Luther under instructions from the German foreign office. He protested to the department orally against what German officials considered an unwarranted "insult."

The ambassador discussed the question with Secretary Hull for nearly an hour and declined any comment as he left the state department.

State department officials later let it be known that the secretary had assured the ambassador that Governor Herbert Lehman of New York would be asked for an immediate report. No answer is expected until next week.

The understanding here was that Ambassador Luther objected to remarks about the Nazi flag that were attributed to Magistrate Louis B. Brodsky.

The magistrate spoke of opinions held by "the defendants and others of our citizenry" that the Nazi flag flying in American territory had been provocation for the riot.

He said some citizens appeared to have been provoked through "flaunting of an emblem which symbolizes all that is antithetical to American ideals of the God-given and inalienable right of all peoples to life, liberty and pursuit of happiness."

Brodsky also was quoted as expressing views held by "others" that "the prominent display of this emblem even carried with it the same sinister implications as a pirate ship, sailing defiantly into the harbor of a nation, one of whose ships it had just scuttled, with the black flag of piracy proudly flying aloft."

"Ours Is a Trade That Service Made"

FOR GOOD, LOW-COST Service

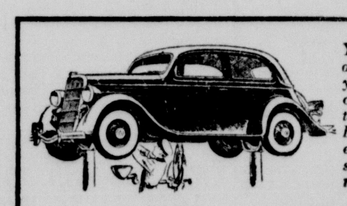

LOOK FOR THE FORD SIGN

THE Ford Motor Company very early decided that good service was as necessary as correct design and efficient manufacturing.

To give you service that measures up to factory requirements, Ford dealers' mechanics are factory trained. The modern, efficient equipment they use, such as the Ford Laboratory Test Set, saves you time and money. Charges are low, because uniform flat rates prevail. Perhaps one of the most noteworthy savings has been effected through the Ford Factory Engine Exchange Plan, which eliminates the old-fashioned costly overhaul.

Today we believe that Ford dealers and those garages which display the "Genuine Ford Parts" sign combine to provide the most complete, most satisfactory type of service available anywhere. Use these facilities and get the utmost in performance and economy from your Ford car or truck.

Your Ford dealer always lubricates your Ford in accordance with factory specifications. He has the modern equipment and skilled mechanics necessary to do good work.

Typical of the modern, scientific equipment used by Ford service stations is the Laboratory Test Set, which quickly and accurately checks engine and electrical performance.

At less cost than an old-fashioned overhaul, you can exchange your present Ford engine for a factory-reconditioned cylinder assembly. Many other units are also included in this service.

3 BOYS MAKE ESCAPE FROM L. T. I. SATURDAY

Three boys from the Louisiana Training institute ran away Saturday morning, shortly after 10 o'clock, it was reported by Supt. Charles Schulse yesterday. One of the boys, Andrew Williams, 15, whose home is in Monroe, had run away three times before and was captured each time.

The other boys, also each 15 years of age, and both living in Shreveport, are thought to have gone with Williams. They are Arthur Horn and Lloyd Wood.

The lads had been assigned to burn some trash and when out of sight of attendants at the institute, made off over the levee and have not been seen since.

NEGROES JAILED FOR AUTO THEFT

Pair Accused Of Stealing Car Of Salesman From Parking Lot Here

Two negroes accused of stealing an automobile here and who were arrested near Tallulah by the Madison parish sheriff's department after the automobile was wrecked, late yesterday had been returned here from Tallulah and placed in the Ouachita parish jail. The negroes are Winston Cherry, 31, and Isaac Head, 32.

The automobile stolen is the property of C. S. Edwards, salesman of a Shreveport liquor concern.

Members of the sheriff's department who investigated the theft said the Cherry negro was employed at a hotel here and that Edwards, a guest at the hotel, gave him a written order Thursday night to go to a parking lot and get the salesman's car for him. When the negro was on his way to the lot Edwards became dubious of his honesty and telephoned the parking lot attendant to refuse the negro the car, it was stated. The attendant did not release the car to the negro, but later in the night when another attendant came on duty at the lot the negro was said to have presented the order for the car and to have been given the machine.

The two negroes accused in the theft were arrested after the car was wrecked about six miles west of Tallulah. They were said to have told officers they were on their way to Newellton, in Tensas parish.

The sheriff's department yesterday arrested Otis Ivey, about 20 years of age, on a warrant charging him with assault and battery. The warrant was sworn out by L. E. Lea, father of a child Ivey is accused of beating. Principals in the case reside about three miles from West Monroe near the Dixie-Overland highway.

According to information obtained by the sheriff's department, the trouble between Ivey and the child arose over a dog.

Ivey's bond was set at $25.

H. W. Booth, who resides at 713 South Second street, was arrested on a warrant charging him with maliciously damaging some clothing by "spraying and putting grease thereon." The warrant was sworn out by Mrs. F. J. Creighton, said to be a neighbor of Booth.

SETH PARKER IS AGAIN IN PERIL

Coast Guard Boat Races To Aid After Distressed Schooner Sends SOS

HONOLULU, Sept. 7.—(AP)—A coast guard patrol boat raced to the rescue of the distressed schooner, Seth Parker, today after the battered bad luck vessel of the Pacific had sent out a new call for help.

The once handsome schooner in which Phillips Lord, radio entertainer, tried unsuccessfully to circumnavigate the globe, wirelessed her plight to the coast guard here.

Wallowing in heavy seas 625 miles southeast of Honolulu, the Seth Parker was reported to be leaking badly with her pumps out of commission. Three feet of water was said to be standing in the hold. In addition, she was without food for her crew of 15.

The coast guard patrol boat Tiger put out hurriedly to take the Parker supplies and tow her into port.

She was en route here to become a live-bait carrier for a tuna fishing company.

Several years ago, she put out from Maine, to carry Lord, known as Seth Parker to radio audiences, and a group of performers on a leisurely broadcasting tour of the world.

Last February SOS calls reported she was caught and seriously damaged in a South seas typhoon near Samoa. The British warship Australia steamed far off her course to make a rescue, only to have her aid refused on arrival. A second SOS brought the Australia back to stand by until another ship took the Seth Parker in tow. Lord sold the schooner to the tuna company.

THREE MEN HAVE NARROW ESCAPE

Trio Crash In Plane While Hunting For Lost Fliers In Alaska

FAIRBANKS, Alaska, Sept. 7.—(AP)—The story of a narrow escape from death by three men seeking a clue to the disappearance of Pilot Al Hines and three passengers was brought out of the Chena river country today.

The three, Percy Hubbard, his brother, Russell, and A. J. Douglas were injured Tuesday when their plane crashed and burned 75 miles up the Chena river from here. They were not found however, until yesterday when Pilot Al Monsen was attracted by the word "Hubbard" traced on a sandbar near the scene of the crash.

Percy Hubbard, business partner of Hines, suffered three cracked ribs; Russell Hubbard received a broken arm and Douglas was severely burned on the hands and face.

"We were lucky to get out of our plane with our lives," said Russell Hubbard.

He said they were flying low on their daily hunt for the Hines party when the plane crashed.

Hines and his three passengers, Mr. and Mrs. John Lonz, and Alton Nordale, all of Fairbanks, have not been reported since August 19 when they left Dawson, Y. T.

Pilot Joe Crosson, "mercy flier" of the north, ran down another false clue yesterday when he investigated a report that a number of tree tops near the head of the Little Chena river appeared to have been cut off.

ASSERTS BARBARA MOST INFLUENTIAL AMERICAN CITIZEN

NEW YORK, Sept. 7.—(AP)—James W. Gerard, former U. S. ambassador to Germany and famous compiler of a list of 64 unofficial rulers of the United States, today called the Countess Barbara Hutton Haugwitz-Reventlow "the most influential person in America."

"No one," he said, "has done more to foment sentiment for wealth tax than this young woman."

He then referred to her two marriages by which she acquired foreign titles.

Gerard, returning from Europe aboard the Italian liner Conte di Savoia, gave credit to Gene Howe, Amarillo, Texas, editor, for originally designating the former Miss Barbara Hutton "most influential."

Talking with gusto as he breakfasted, he proposed a new American motto: "Let France take care of her own teeth."

This was apropos of the foundation in France of the George Eastman dental clinic. Gerard said he disapproved of it as he does of the government's allowing American tourists "to drop $300,000,000 into European tills" as he said they did last year.

HARD SURFACING PROJECT IS PLANNED AT WINNSBORO

WINNSBORO, La., Sept. 7.—(Special)—Between four and five miles of hard surfacing is to be done on the streets of Winnsboro, if present plans of the town council mature.

The work is to be done through cooperation of federal and town agencies. Should the improvements be made, one of the most necessary progressive steps in the town will have been accomplished.

The surfacing of four miles of gravel streets in the town limits, where traffic is very heavy, will relieve the dusty condition and, it is believed, promote the health condition of the residents.

JENA SEEKS NEW SCHOOL BUILDING

WPA Is Asked To Help Finance $25,000 Edifice For Higher Grades

JENA, La., Sept. 7.—(Special)—Citizens of Jean are interesting themselves in a proposition to erect a new high school building and the LaSalle parish school board has forwarded to the works progress administration offices in New Orleans a project covering the new edifice.

Under the plans a new building, containing ten class rooms, a study hall, offices for the faculty and a modern auditorium, will be started just as soon as an approval of the project can be received. The building will be of frame construction, 280 feet long and 60 feet wide.

There are now 240 students in the local high school and a congested condition exists. The new building would house 400 students, or enough to take care of the needs of the town for sometime to come. It would cost $25,000 and local people would be asked to pay only $6,000 of this amount, the balance being a grant from the federal government.

3 BOYS MAKE ESCAPE FROM L. T. I. SATURDAY

Three boys from the Louisiana Training institute ran away Saturday morning, shortly after 10 o'clock, it was reported by Supt. Charles Schulze yesterday. One of the boys, Andrew Williams, 15, whose home is in Monroe, had run away three times before and was captured each time.

The other boys, also each 15 years of age, and both living in Shreveport, are thought to have gone with Williams. They are Arthur Horn and Lloyd Wood.

The lads had been assigned to burn some trash and when out of sight of attendants at the institute, made off over the levee and have not been seen since.

NEGROES JAILED FOR AUTO THEFT

Pair Accused Of Stealing Car Of Salesman From Parking Lot Here

Two negroes accused of stealing an automobile here and who were arrested near Tallulah by the Madison parish sheriff's department after the automobile was wrecked, late yesterday had been returned here from Tallulah and placed in the Ouachita parish jail. The negroes are Winston Cherry, 31, and Isaac Head, 32.

The automobile stolen is the property of C. S. Edwards, salesman of a Shreveport liquor concern.

Members of the sheriff's department who investigated the theft said the Cherry negro was employed at a hotel here and that Edwards, a guest at the hotel, gave him a written order Thursday night to go to a parking lot and get the salesman's car for him. When the negro was on his way to the lot Edwards became dubious of his honesty and telephoned the parking lot attendant to refuse the negro the car, it was stated. The attendant did not release the car to the negro, but later in the night when another attendant came on duty at the lot the negro was said to have presented the order for the car and to have been given the machine.

The two negroes accused in the theft were arrested after the car was wrecked about six miles west of Tallulah. They were said to have told officers they were on their way to Newellton, in Tensas parish.

The sheriff's department yesterday arrested Otis Ivey, about 20 years of age, on a warrant charging him with assault and battery. The warrant was sworn out by L. E. Lea, father of a child Ivey is accused of beating. Principals in the case reside about three miles from West Monroe near the Dixie-Overland highway.

According to information obtained by the sheriff's department, the trouble between Ivey and the child arose over a dog.

Ivey's bond was set at $25.

H. W. Booth, who resides at 713 South Second street, was arrested on a warrant charging him with maliciously damaging some clothing by "spraying and putting grease thereon." The warrant was sworn out by Mrs. F. J. Creighton, said to be a neighbor of Booth.

SETH PARKER IS AGAIN IN PERIL

Coast Guard Boat Races To Aid After Distressed Schooner Sends SOS

HONOLULU, Sept. 7.—(AP)—A coast guard patrol boat raced to the rescue of the distressed schooner, Seth Parker, today after the battered bad luck vessel of the Pacific had sent out a new call for help.

The once handsome schooner in which Phillips Lord, radio entertainer, tried unsuccessfully to circumnavigate the globe, wirelessed her plight to the coast guard here.

Wallowing in heavy seas 625 miles southeast of Honolulu, the Seth Parker was reported to be leaking badly with her pumps out of commission. Three feet of water was said to be standing in the hold. In addition, she was without food for her crew of 15.

The coast guard patrol boat Tiger put out hurriedly to take the Parker supplies and tow her into port.

She was en route here to become a live-bait carrier for a tuna fishing company.

Several years ago, she put out from Maine, to carry Lord, known as Seth Parker to radio audiences, and a group of performers on a leisurely broadcasting tour of the world.

Last February SOS calls reported she was caught and seriously damaged in a South seas typhoon near Samoa. The British warship Australia steamed far off her course to make a rescue, only to have her aid refused on arrival. A second SOS brought the Australia back to stand by until another ship took the Seth Parker in tow. Lord sold the schooner to the tuna company.

FOLKS MEET AT HYDE PARK FOR FRIENDLY CHAT

Pinch hitting for his wife as the speaker, President Franklin D. Roosevelt informally addressed friends and neighbors at Hyde Park, N. Y., and drew a New Deal parable from the repairs on the White House, comparing them to social and governmental changes. Beside him stands his son, John; and his mother sits on the porch behind them. Mrs. Roosevelt was unable to be present as she was attending the funeral of Mrs. Harold Ickes.

THREE MEN HAVE NARROW ESCAPE

Trio Crash In Plane While Hunting For Lost Fliers In Alaska

FAIRBANKS, Alaska, Sept. 7.—(AP)—The story of a narrow escape from death by three men seeking a clue to the disappearance of Pilot Al Hines and three passengers was brought out of the Chena river country today.

The three, Percy Hubbard, his brother, Russell, and A. J. Douglas were injured Tuesday when their plane crashed and burned 75 miles up the Chena river from here. They were not found however, until yesterday when Pilot Al Monsen was attracted by the word "Hubbard" traced on a sandbar near the scene of the crash.

Percy Hubbard, business partner of Hines, suffered three cracked ribs; Russell Hubbard received a broken arm and Douglas was severely burned on the hands and face.

"We were lucky to get out of our plane with our lives," said Russell Hubbard.

He said they were flying low on their daily hunt for the Hines party when the plane crashed.

Hines and his three passengers, Mr. and Mrs. John Lonz, and Alton Nordale, all of Fairbanks, have not been reported since August 19 when they left Dawson, Y. T.

Pilot Joe Crosson, "mercy flier" of the north, ran down another false clue yesterday when he investigated a report that a number of tree tops near the head of the Little Chena river appeared to have been cut off.

ASSERTS BARBARA MOST INFLUENTIAL AMERICAN CITIZEN

NEW YORK, Sept. 7.—(AP)—James W. Gerard, former U. S. ambassador to Germany and famous compiler of a list of 64 unofficial rulers of the United States, today called the Countess Barbara Hutton Haugwitz-Reventlow "the most influential person in America."

"No one," he said, "has done more to foment sentiment for wealth tax than this young woman."

He then referred to her two marriages by which she acquired foreign titles.

Gerard, returning from Europe aboard the Italian liner Conte di Savoia, gave credit to Gene Howe, Amarillo, Texas, editor, for originally designating the former Miss Barbara Hutton "most influential."

Talking with gusto as he breakfasted, he proposed a new American motto: "Let France take care of her own teeth."

This was apropos of the foundation in France of the George Eastman dental clinic. Gerard said he disapproved of it as he does of the government's allowing American tourists "to drop $300,000,000 into European tills" as he said they did last year.

HARD SURFACING PROJECT IS PLANNED AT WINNSBORO

WINNSBORO, La., Sept. 7.—(Special)—Between four and five miles of hard surfacing is to be done on the streets of Winnsboro, if present plans of the town council mature.

The work is to be done through cooperation of federal and town agencies. Should the improvements be made, one of the most necessary progressive steps in the town will have been accomplished.

The surfacing of four miles of gravel streets in the town limits, where traffic is very heavy, will relieve the dusty condition and, it is believed, promote the health condition of the residents.

COUNTS WAR MISSING

JENA SEEKS NEW SCHOOL BUILDING

WPA Is Asked To Help Finance $25,000 Edifice For Higher Grades

JENA, La., Sept. 7.—(Special)—Citizens of Jean are interesting themselves in a proposition to erect a new high school building and the LaSalle parish school board has forwarded to the works progress administration offices in New Orleans a project covering the new edifice.

Under the plans a new building, containing ten class rooms, a study hall, offices for the faculty and a modern auditorium, will be started just as soon as an approval of the project can be received. The building will be of frame construction, 280 feet long and 60 feet wide.

There are now 240 students in the local high school and a congested condition exists. The new building would house 400 students, or enough to take care of the needs of the town for sometime to come. It would cost $25,000 and local people would be asked to pay only $6,000 of this amount, the balance being a grant from the federal government.

Making The Best Of Trouble

"Thy fate is the common fate of all,
Into each life some rain must fall,
Some days must be dark and dreary."

Trouble is as essential to the development of the human being as is rain to the growth of plant life. We would cheat no person of his sorrow—not even ourselves; and Lord knows we have had plenty of it.

Sorrow, if properly accepted, has the effect of deepening and broadening the mind, the character and the soul.

No person can really understand the difficulties of another unless he himself has had difficulties. We are apt to view with complacency the distress of others unless we ourselves have suffered.

We should be a smug, shallow lot but for our troubles.

Too much sunshine makes a desert.

One gripping thought we get out of the garden story is that God found, after experimentation, that the human being will not develop in a state of ease. So, for their own good, Adam and Eve were put out of the Garden of Eden, and so circumstanced that they had to toil for a living, deal with danger and resist attack.

There was no development in the characters of Adam and Eve while they were in the Garden of Eden.

There are persons who would sincerely create a state of society that would relieve everyone in the world of every vestige of difficulty. If such a thing could be done, it would stop the progress of mankind. It would not be long until men and women would be spoiled boys and girls.

The fact is, it would be impossible to establish a social order that could keep people from trouble, for they would make their own trouble, no matter how ideal the condition.

Until human beings become so developed that they can rise above trouble, and avoid the thoughts and the acts that cause trouble, they can never hope to escape trouble.

We waste our efforts and we miss the mark when we endeavor to keep people from trouble; but there is one thing we should do whenever it can be done: We should protect our fellows from more trouble than they can bear. We should exert ourselves to prevent the pressure on them from reaching the breaking point.

Men and women may go mad from too much sorrow. Again and again entire nations have gone crazy from too much agony.

It is one thing to safeguard our fellows from misery that is unendurable, and quite another thing to make life so soft for them that it is detrimental. Harsh parents destroy children by too much harshness; indulgent parents destroy them by too much indulgence.

When trouble comes make the best of it—make the most of it. Work it up into strength of character.

THE SLAUGHTER GOES ON

It is an appalling thing to reflect that automobile traffic killed no fewer than 2,670 men, women, and children in one month in the United States; and it is hard to believe (though gratifying enough, once believed) that this shocking figure actually represents a substantial improvement over July of last year when 3,110 deaths were recorded.

Just why a nation which is supposed to be so clever at handling mechanical appliances should go on killing people with automobiles at such an astounding rate is one of the mysteries of the age. The one ray of light seems to be the fact that in some states, at least, the situation is improving slightly.

Twenty-one states, to be exact, have recorded fewer traffic deaths this year than during the same period of 1934. As far as it goes, that is excellent news; but we won't be able to crow until all the states, over a period of years, have shown a steady decline in the dreadful toll.

PANAMA CANAL OF AGE

While so much news space is taken up these days with war talk, it is some comfort to turn for a moment to the record of a triumph of the peace-time arts. A week or so ago, the Panama canal completed twenty-one years of activity. It is now of age.

During its comparatively brief history, there is a record of wonderful accomplishments to its credit. We read of eighty-two thousand passages of ships between the Atlantic and Pacific oceans with nearly $400,000,000 collected in tolls and a tremendous saving of time in navigation and freight-carrying. A considerable population has also grown up in the Canal Zone, 9,859 men in the military and naval forces, while 8,633 are classified as civilians.

King Zog seeks a bride with charm, beauty and $1,000,000 a year, but, the third requirement being met, might consider a compromise eliminating the others.

The world is sick, according to a leading economist. There was a suspicion of this, owing to the appearance of [illegible] doctors.

More Truth Than Poetry

BY JAMES J. MONTAGUE

WHY TRY?

(On reading a scientific article which says that the average man uses only a quarter of his brain.)

A lot of time I'm losing,
I toil and moil in vain,
For I am only using
A fourth part of my brain.
When it has done that much for me
Its power fades away;
Inert and futile it will be
Until another day.
To force it further is no use
The darned thing simply won't produce.

On phosphorous I feed it
Before I go to bed,
I'm told that people need it
To stimulate the head.
But still three-quarters of my mind
Won't act the way it ought,
Since early childhood they've declined
To think a single thought.
How can I hope my bread to win
When that condition I am in?

I used to long for glory
And power and acclaim;
I thought that song and story
Might wreathe about my name.
But if my mind won't operate
The way that organ should
I might as well accept my fate,
I'm well—I'm just no good.
No man success will ever gain
With just one quarter of a brain.

HOW DID THAT HAPPEN?

President Roosevelt suggests coining quarter cents. It's surprising that the Scotch didn't think of that long ago.

On Our Way At Last?

BY BRUCE CATTON

Perhaps the best reason for confidence in America's return to prosperity is summed up in the current monthly review issued by the National City bank of New York. This review emphasizes that the present upswing in business has lasted longer and shown more steadiness than any other upswing since the depression began; and it continues:

"None of the previous upswings during the depression has extended as widely into the durable goods industry; doubtless, for that reason, none has shown such staying power. . . . This supplies an encouraging contrast to the sharp recession which has followed every other upward movement.

"Moreover, business has had to overcome the disturbing influence of the NRA, AAA, and other court decisions, continuous apprehensions as to the treasury deficit, and the effects of a series of important legislative enactments, all creating difficulties and new uncertainties."

Maybe we ought to touch wood—but it does look as if we were on our way, at last, back to good times.

The U. S. navy has decided to depart from its time-honored policy of insisting that every officer, no matter what his specialty, take his regular turn at ordinary sea duty. Henceforth expert aviation officers, especially those gifted in design of planes and engines, will be allowed to remain permanently in the posts which they are best adapted to fill.

Here is a reform in naval policy which seems to have been long overdue. For a good many years, critics have protested that the navy was reducing its own efficiency by periodically shifting its "specialists" out of their special jobs to regular quarter-deck assignments.

The new ruling should make it possible to build up a permanent corps of expert officers whose presence will mean a more efficient and up-to-date fighting fleet.

New Deal In Washington

By Rodney Dutcher

WASHINGTON.—Displays of genuine emotion, as distinguished from the simulated variety, are so rare in congress that they shouldn't pass without mention.

Nor is it every day that a president of the United States clambers rapidly and awkwardly down from a high perch.

Those two phenomena, however, acted respectively as cause and effect in the sequence of events leading up to passage of the first piece of neutrality legislation to go on the law books. It was the red-hot indignation of certain members, conspicuously Senator Homer Bone of Washington and Representative Maury Maverick of Texas, which impressed and infected others to the extent of wrecking a neat plan to bury the proposals designed to keep us out of war.

Four days before the anticipated adjournment date, Bone got word that the Nye-Clark resolutions, one of the fruits of the munitions committee investigation, were to be sidetracked.

Bone Blasts War Mongers

Bone rushed onto the senate floor and held it most of the day with as passionate, forceful and effective a delivery as one has heard since Costigan of Colorado spoke for unemployment relief in the ruggedly individualistic Hoover period.

Tracing the 1914-17 "road-to-war" through state department documents recently unearthed, ably seconded by Nye, Clark and Vandenberg, Bone poured out a scorn for bureaucrats and plutocrats who might again bungle us into war which was equaled only by his contempt for a congress which would ignore European war clouds and toddle home without action to insure this country against participation.

Senators and galleryites sat tense. When Bone had finished, it was obvious that neutrality legislation would pass the senate. It quickly did, almost unanimously.

F. R. Firmly Squelched

The house foreign relations committee was framing a relatively innocuous bill and few believed even that would reach the house floor. The senators went to house members and demanded strong action. Bone demanded of Rules Chairman John O'Connor that his committee let the neutrality proposals onto the floor, "in the name of your mother and every other mother . . ." and O'Connor caved in.

Meanwhile, Maverick and eight other congressmen went to the White House about it. Roosevelt at once complained to them about the mandatory provisions of the senate resolution.

"I want the power to exercise executive discretion," he said.

"But you're not going to get it!" blurted Maverick, who is still badly crippled from wounds received in the last war, in what was probably an unprecedented outburst at the White House. "There's no reason why you, as president, should have the power to steer us toward war. That kind of legislation will never go through the house or the senate."

The other eight supported Maverick and threatened a filibuster.

Within half an hour, the White House had sent word to the hill that it would consent to a mandatory embargo on munitions until March, and to the rest of the senate bill.

Paints Ghastly Picture

On the house floor, Maverick cited Mussolini's statement of that day that Italy was "on the march" and, said he:

"Someone may think that I, as an old soldier, believe that 'march' talk is all glory, flags, and bugles. Like hell! I say that literally. All I can think of is blood and guts, rotting, stinking bodies—mud."

After that, the house session became almost a revival meeting as members gave testimony. As for stance, Ashbrook of Ohio, who said, to loud applause:

"I would like to say that I served in congress during the World war and there is not a vote that I then cast that I regret today as the vote I cast against the McLemore resolution (which warned American citizens to keep off the high seas and restricted passports). I am happy to vote for this resolution."

Better Than Nothing

The law congress passed imposes the arms embargo, licenses munitions exports, and lets the president lay down minor restrictions. It falls short of the Nye-Clark resolutions because it doesn't say anything about loans or ordinary exports to warring nations—two major routes to the last war. The senate munitions group and the house "mavericks" are satisfied fairly well, believing they got the most they could in the face of a hostile state department, navy and White House, but planning to ask for more next session.

Senator Clark says: "It's better to have a little bit of something than a great deal of nothing."

EXPLANATION OF YESTERDAY'S CARTOON

THE CRAWLING TREE—A very curious tree that literally crawls along the ground through the undergrowth, is the buttonwood tree, indigenous to the West Indies and transplanted to the forests of Florida, where it is abundant in the uninhabited parts of the southern parts of the state. There is considerable demand for its wood for fuel and charcoal. Like a huge legged serpent the tree crawls as it grows, sending up a new top growth and getting new growth and getting new roots a few feet apart, while the rear portion slowly dies and disappears in the earth.

Lights Of New York

By Paul Harrison

NEW YORK.—When the clatter of an extra-noisy typewriter had filled the after-midnight air for an entire month, the Greenwich Village girl who lives in the apartment underneath, and is a light sleeper anyway, rebelled. First she wrote a polite note of protest. This brought no answer. She wrote a stronger note. And finally on a night when her head ached, she went out to get the policeman at the corner.

Coming with him in tow, she noticed a white sheet in her mailbox. It contained an abject apology and a promise to be better and it was signed by the nocturnal typer, Nila Cram Cook.

Out Of The Silences

Remember Nila and the wild newspaper stories when she came back from India nearly a year and a half ago after having been, so rumor said, put out of Mahatma Ghandi's colony for behavior of which he did not approve?

Well, Nila is now writing a book that will tell the truth about India and her adventures there. That's what all the typing is for. She has reached the 2000th page and has 500 more to go. She thinks better at night, she says, and her working costume is a white Indian sari.

Tentatively she calls her book the Great Liberation and it will tell how she took an oath of silence with Ghandi, which explains why she has never tried to refute any of the many stories that have been told about her. The oath apparently is to be broken when the book comes out. She admits that she said whatever came into her head to reporters and chuckled impishly over what they made of it.

Amateur Symphony

All summer long, evening strollers on the Mall in Central Park have been entertained by the playing of an orchestra, whose members, both men and women, seemed to play with unusual zest. That orchestra is composed of amateurs and was organized six years ago by Judge Leopold Prince of the municipal court.

By day, the hundred men and women who at night play everything from violins to kettle drums, are doctors, dentists, salesgirls, clerks, stenographers, business men and housewives.

The orchestra started when Judge Prince invited some of his son's friends in to play with them of an evening. First there was a quartette, with the judge playing the violin and his son the piano. Then the musical goings-on attracted twenty-six musical neighbors, who came over and wanted to join in. Made welcome, they brought their friends and soon the Prince parlor would hold no more. Besides, it was customary after rehearsal for the players to adjourn to Mrs. Prince's kitchen for refreshmens and there were, after all, limits to her hospitality.

She advised the musicians to hire a hall. This they did, Judge Prince somehow finding the money for that and the necessary sheet music. A good deal of it, he puts up himself. Sometimes his friends chip in. The concerts are always free, except when the group plays for charity. In any case, the performers' only pay is joy in the doing. When the girls need party dresses for evening performances, Mrs. Prince goes about among her friends and collects some.

After six years the orchestra has ninety-five per cent of its original personnel. When the girls marry, they draw their husbands into the circle and several times members of the orchestra have married one another.

A STAMPING CORNER

By W. J. KIRBY

Much pressure is being brought to bear in the philatelic press for the issuance of a Coolidge stamp, a resolution for such an issue having been introduced in the recent session of congress, and a writer in the current issue of Linn's Weekly Stamp News suggests that the stamp be issued in the "present standard purple shade, with a solid black border appearing around the stamp."

Had Coolidge died in office, we would have said "amen" to such a stamp, but since he died several years after leaving office, we, personally, can not sanction such an issue. Then, too, if a memorial stamp were issued, it should have appeared immediately following his death. Since waiting this long, we see nothing to no except to give "Silent Cal" his rightful place in the long-hoped-for Presidential series of postage stamps.

Italy has issued an attractive and colorful set of five stamps to commemorate the organization of the "Milizia Voluntaria per la Sicurezza Nationale" (Voluntary Militia for National Safety). The five values each bear a tax in addition to their postal value, this no doubt going to the support of the militia.

With the coming of somewhat cooler weather, stamping interest will no doubt increase. However, the Twin City Stamp club has not missed a meeting through the summer, though attendance has been small. The regular semi-monthly meeting will be held Wednesday evening, Sept. 11, with J. W. Cunningham in charge of the program. Much business is also to be discussed, and a full attendance is urged.

Harlem colonel declines further responsibility for Ethiopian victory over Italy.

ADDIS ABABA REPORTS "tramps and nomads rounded up to serve as coolies with the army. When war breaks out Haile Selassie will release all prisoners for service at the front."

It is interesting, also, to read of eighty of the richest "traders" in Ethiopia, visiting the emperor to offer services and money. All went away with imperial decorations.

The "traders," some very rich, "splashed through Addis Ababa's muddy streets wearing black, silk cloaks, riding ponies."

Hundreds of armed retainers ran through the mud on foot, beside the rich "traders," reminding you of the Earl of Douglas, who came to King James court with five thousand mounter retainers, in the primitive days of Scotland.

LABOR UNIONS in a group "of twelve countries" condemn the aggressive attitude of Fascist Italy towards Ethiopia. THE DOUGLAS AIRLINER called the "flying laboratory" has just flown from Kansas City to Newark, N. J., through the "sub-stratosphere," which means about twenty thousand feet up. At that height very "thin" air, with engine super-charged and propellers properly "tilted," makes high speed possible. The flight was 1,125 miles non-stop, passengers wore oxygen masks.

THAT WILL NOT be necessary when regular flying lanes for long distances, are all above the six mile high level, as they will be. Cabins for passengers will be air tight and superchaged as engines are supercharged now. Flying will be, what it is destined to be, only when flights are made above the storm area.

BASTROP HOME IS LOOTED DURING OWNER'S ABSENCE

During the absence of T. A. Murchie and family of Bastrop from their home between August 9 and 21, burglars entered the residence and stole just about everything but the furniture.

Monroe police Saturday were furnished with a list of the stolen articles by Sheriff J. F. Carpenter and it read like a combined jewelry store and clothing store.

Silverware, ladies' dresses, children's clothing and men's clothing was included in the loot.

Police have been asked to keep a sharp lookout in laundries, dry cleaning establishments, pressing shops, second hand clothing dealers and pawn shops in the hope that the stolen articles might turn up.

Making The Best Of Trouble

"Thy fate is the common fate of all,
Into each life some rain must fall,
Some days must be dark and dreary."

Trouble is as essential to the development of the human being as is rain to the growth of plant life. We would cheat no person of his sorrow—not even ourselves; and Lord knows we have had plenty of it.

Sorrow, if properly accepted, has the effect of deepening and broadening the mind, the character and the soul.

No person can really understand the difficulties of another unless he himself has had difficulties. We are apt to view with complacency the distress of others unless we ourselves have suffered.

We should be a smug, shallow lot but for our troubles.

Too much sunshine makes a desert.

One gripping thought we get out of the garden story is that God found, after experimentation, that the human being will not develop in a state of ease. So, for their own good, Adam and Eve were put out of the Garden of Eden, and so circumstanced that they had to toil for a living, deal with danger and resist attack.

There was no development in the characters of Adam and Eve while they were in the Garden of Eden.

There are persons who would sincerely create a state of society that would relieve everyone in the world of every vestige of difficulty. If such a thing could be done, it would stop the progress of mankind. It would not be long until men and women would be spoiled boys and girls.

The fact is, it would be impossible to establish a social order that could keep people from trouble, for they would make their own trouble, no matter how ideal the condition.

Until human beings become so developed that they can rise above trouble, and avoid the thoughts and the acts that cause trouble, they can never hope to escape trouble.

We waste our efforts and we miss the mark when we endeavor to keep people from trouble; but there is one thing we should do whenever it can be done: We should protect our fellows from more trouble than they can bear. We should exert ourselves to prevent the pressure on them from reaching the breaking point.

Men and women may go mad from too much sorrow. Again and again entire nations have gone crazy from too much agony.

It is one thing to safeguard our fellows from misery that is unendurable, and quite another thing to make life so soft for them that it is detrimental. Harsh parents destroy children by too much harshness; indulgent parents destroy them by too much indulgence.

When trouble comes make the best of it—make the most of it. Work it up into strength of character.

THE SLAUGHTER GOES ON

It is an appalling thing to reflect that automobile traffic killed no fewer than 2,670 men, women, and children in one month in the United States; and it is hard to believe (though gratifying enough, once believed) that this shocking figure actually represents a substantial improvement over July of last year when 3,110 deaths were recorded.

Just why a nation which is supposed to be so clever at handling mechanical appliances should go on killing people with automobiles at such an astounding rate is one of the mysteries of the age. The one ray of light seems to be the fact that in some states, at least, the situation is improving slightly.

Twenty-one states, to be exact, have recorded fewer traffic deaths this year than during the same period of 1934. As far as it goes, that is excellent news; but we won't be able to crow until all the states, over a period of years, have shown a steady decline in the dreadful toll.

PANAMA CANAL OF AGE

While so much news space is taken up these days with war talk, it is some comfort to turn for a moment to the record of a triumph of the peace-time arts. A week or so ago, the Panama canal completed twenty-one years of activity. It is now of age.

During its comparatively brief history, there is a record of wonderful accomplishments to its credit. We read of eighty-two thousand passages of ships between the Atlantic and Pacific oceans with nearly $400,000,000 collected in tolls and a tremendous saving of time in navigation and freight-carrying. A considerable population has also grown up in the Canal Zone, 9,859 men in the military and naval forces, while 8,633 are classified as civilians.

King Zog seeks a bride with charm, beauty and $1,000,000 a year, but, the third requirement being met, might consider a compromise eliminating the others.

The world is sick, according to a leading economist. There was a suspicion of this, owing to the appearance of so many doctors.

More Truth Than Poetry

BY JAMES J. MONTAGUE

WHY TRY?

(On reading a scientific article which says that the average man uses only a quarter of his brain.)

A lot of time I'm losing,
I toil and moil in vain,
For I am only using
A fourth part of my brain.
When it has done that much for me
Its power fades away;
Inert and futile it will be
Until another day.
To force it further is no use
The darned thing simply won't produce.

On phosphorous I feed it
Before I go to bed,
I'm told that people need it
To stimulate the head.
But still three-quarters of my mind
Won't act the way it ought,
Since early childhood they've declined
To think a single thought.
How can I hope my bread to win
When that condition I am in?

I used to long for glory
And power and acclaim;
I thought that song and story
Might wreathe about my name.
But if my mind won't operate
The way that organ should
I might as well accept my fate,
I'm well—I'm just no good.
No man success will ever gain
With just one quarter of a brain.

HOW DID THAT HAPPEN?

President Roosevelt suggests coining quarter cents. It's surprising that the Scotch didn't think of that long ago.

On Our Way At Last?

BY BRUCE CATTON

Perhaps the best reason for confidence in America's return to prosperity is summed up in the current monthly review issued by the National City bank of New York. This review emphasizes that the present upswing in business has lasted longer and shown more steadiness than any other upswing since the depression began; and it continues:

"None of the previous upswings during the depression has extended as widely into the durable goods industry; doubtless, for that reason, none has shown such staying power. . . . This supplies an encouraging contrast to the sharp recession which has followed every other upward movement.

"Moreover, business has had to overcome the disturbing influence of the NRA, AAA, and other court decisions, continuous apprehensions as to the treasury deficit, and the effects of a series of important legislative enactments, all creating difficulties and new uncertainties."

Maybe we ought to touch wood—but it does look as if we were on our way, at last, back to good times.

The U. S. navy has decided to depart from its time-honored policy of insisting that every officer, no matter what his specialty, take his regular turn at ordinary sea duty. Henceforth expert aviation officers, especially those gifted in design of planes and engines, will be allowed to remain permanently in the posts which they are best adapted to fill.

Here is a reform in naval policy which seems to have been long overdue. For a good many years, critics have protested that the navy was reducing its own efficiency by periodically shifting its "specialists" out of their special jobs to regular quarter-deck assignments.

The new ruling should make it possible to build up a permanent corps of expert officers whose presence will mean a more efficient and up-to-date fighting fleet.

New Deal In Washington

By Rodney Dutcher

WASHINGTON.—Displays of genuine emotion, as distinguished from the simulated variety, are so rare in congress that they shouldn't pass without mention.

Nor is it every day that a president of the United States clambers rapidly and awkwardly down from a high perch.

Those two phenomena, however, acted respectively as cause and effect in the sequence of events leading up to passage of the first piece of neutrality legislation to go on the law books. It was the red-hot indignation of certain members, conspicuously Senator Homer Bone of Washington and Representative Maury Maverick of Texas, which impressed and infected others to the extent of wrecking a neat plan to bury the proposals designed to keep us out of war.

Four days before the anticipated adjournment date, Bone got word that the Nye-Clark resolutions, one of the fruits of the munitions committee investigation, were to be sidetracked.

Bone Blasts War Mongers

Bone rushed onto the senate floor and held it most of the day with as passionate, forceful and effective a delivery as one has heard since Costigan of Colorado spoke for unemployment relief in the ruggedly individualistic Hoover period.

Tracing the 1914-17 "road-to-war" through state department documents recently unearthed, ably seconded by Nye, Clark and Vandenberg, Bone poured out a scorn for bureaucrats and plutocrats who might again bungle us into war which was equaled only by his contempt for a congress which would ignore European war clouds and toddle home without action to insure this country against participation.

Senators and galleryites sat tense. When Bone had finished, it was obvious that neutrality legislation would pass the senate. It quickly did, almost unanimously.

F. R. Firmly Squelched

The house foreign relations committee was framing a relatively innocuous bill and few believed even that would reach the house floor. The senators went to house members and demanded strong action. Bone demanded of Rules Chairman John O'Connor that his committee let the neutrality proposals onto the floor, "in the name of your mother and every other mother . . ." and O'Connor caved in.

Meanwhile, Maverick and eight other congressmen went to the White House about it. Roosevelt at once complained to them about the mandatory provisions of the senate resolution.

"I want the power to exercise executive discretion," he said.

"But you're not going to get it!" blurted Maverick, who is still badly crippled from wounds received in the last war, in what was probably an unprecedented outburst at the White House. "There's no reason why you, as president, should have the power to steer us toward war. That kind of legislation will never go through the house or the senate."

The other eight supported Maverick and threatened a filibuster.

Within half an hour, the White House had sent word to the hill that it would consent to a mandatory embargo on munitions until March, and to the rest of the senate bill.

Paints Ghastly Picture

On the house floor, Maverick cited Mussolini's statement of that day that Italy was "on the march" and, said he:

"Someone may think that I, as an old soldier, believe that 'march' talk is all glory, flags, and bugles. Like hell! I say that literally. All I can think of is blood and guts, rotting, stinking bodies—mud."

After that, the house session became almost a revival meeting as members gave testimony. As for stance, Ashbrook of Ohio, who said, to loud applause:

"I would like to say that I served in congress during the World war and there is not a vote that I then cast that I regret today as the vote I cast against the McLemore resolution (which warned American citizens to keep off the high seas and restricted passports). I am happy to vote for this resolution."

Better Than Nothing

The law congress passed imposes the arms embargo, licenses munitions exports, and lets the president lay down minor restrictions. It falls short of the Nye-Clark resolutions because it doesn't say anything about loans or ordinary exports to warring nations—two major routes to the last war. The senate munitions group and the house "mavericks" are satisfied fairly well, believing they got the most they could in the face of a hostile state department, navy and White House, but planning to ask for more next session.

Senator Clark says: "It's better to have a little bit of something than a great deal of nothing."

CAMPBELL CRACKS 300

Wide open at 304.311 m. p. h.!

A blowout at 250 m. p. h.!

A Briton reaches his goal.

Streaking over the Bonneville, Utah, salt flats, Sir Malcolm Campbell, intrepid Englishman, set a new world speed record and realized his greatest ambition when he averaged 301.33 miles an hour in two trips over a measured mile. Due to an error in the timing tape, Campbell's average first was given as 299.874 miles an hour, and Campbell was all set to try again when officials notified him that a re-check had produced the new figure.

VALIDITY OF NEW OIL ACT UPHELD

SHERMAN, Texas, Sept. 7.—(AP)—Judge Randolph Bryant in federal district court today upheld the constitutionality of the new Connally oil act.

This federal measure, enacted by congress last February, was designed to prevent the movement in interstate commerce of oil produced or withdrawn from storage in excess of the amount permitted by state laws.

Judge Bryant's decision was rendered against the East Texas Refining company, which was seeking tenders on 155,000 barrels of oil. The company named as defendant Federal Tender Board No. 1 and attempted to prove the Connally law was unconstitutional.

Far-reaching importance was attached to the brief, verbal decision handed down by Judge Bryant. It was expected to have considerable influence on the movement of "hot" oil in interstate commerce, particularly from the prolific east Texas field.

The decision had the effect of excluding from channels of interstate commerce all oil or products thereof produced or withdrawn from storage in violation of state laws.

Texas, in an effort to conserve its vast store of oil and prevent flooding of the market, has adopted stringent laws limiting well production, refineries and the marketing of petroleum and its products.

CAPTAIN OF DIXIE WON'T LEAVE SHIP

NEW YORK, Sept. 7.—(AP)—In an exchange of radiograms today with General Manager S. Ira Cooper of the Morgan line, Capt. E. W. Sundstrom declined to leave his stricken steamship Dixie to seek shore rest and attention to his injuries.

Cooper ordered him to take respite from direction of salvage operations on the Florida reef.

The captain replied:

"There is no physical reason why I should go ashore. I can get all rest necessary. With your permission I remain on ship."

Cooper commented: "I guess the captain will have to have his way."

A resolution of appreciation to the crew was drafted by passengers.

"We resolve to go on record expressing our heartfelt appreciation and eternal gratitude to Captain Sundstrom, his officers and crew for the heroic manner in which they, to a man have conducted the care, comfort and security and general welfare of the undersigned comprising the passengers of the above-mentioned S. S. Dixie."

California Is California And Miss Stein Likes It

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 7.—(AP)—Gertrude (a rose is a rose is a rose) Stein boosted California during a recent visit here by writing a letter to her brother in Paris saying, "I like it here—don't tell me I don't like it here—we like it here," with the result that the brother and his wife have come back to San Francisco to live after 31 years' absence.

The brother, Daniel, who was manager of the San Francisco street railway lines until he went abroad in 1904, predicts Miss Stein also will return to California.

G. O. P. AIMS AT CONGRESS SEATS

Republicans Turn Eyes To Districts Where Democrats Had Slim Margin

WASHINGTON, Sept. 7.—(AP)—Republican leaders, their eyes focussed on the 1936 elections, turned attention today to 20 congressional districts in which Democrats were last victorious by scant margins.

The party's headquarters men, recalling the election of the Republican Charles Risk of Rhode Island by a 10,000 margin where a Democrat had won previously by 21,000 expressed their confidence that turnovers would occur where the Democratic majorities were down in the hundreds.

The 20 districts were widely scattered.

Senate investigators studying railroad financing, it was learned, are concentrating on the carriers which have filed reorganization plans with the interstate commerce commission. The investigators hope to get their findings before the public before the ICC acts on the proposals for reorganization. The commission previously indicated there would be no delays for the purpose of aiding the investigators.

Reorganization plans have been submitted by the Missouri Pacific, St. Louis-San Francisco, the Rock Island, the Chicago and Eastern Illinois, and the Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific.

Republicans described President Roosevelt's assurance of a legislative "breathing spell" for business as a "campaign promise," while the Democratic forces viewed the executive's statement as a favorable New Deal move.

Observers who examined the president's statement, in the form of a letter to Roy Howard, publisher, expressed an opinion that a balanced budget would be a leading issue in the coming election campaign. Mr. Roosevelt did not touch upon the budget in his statement. Some observers thought he would go into that later.

Mrs. Robert Lincoln Hoyal, new chief of the Republican women, is starting the 1936 campaign activities Constitution day, Sept. 17. She has sent out a call asking "every Republican woman to make some special observance on that day."

City Briefs

A group of members of the Ruston Garden club attended the Monroe Garden club meeting here Friday. They were headed by the president, Mrs. Adrian Adams. Other members of the party were Mrs. Marie Boles Adams, Mrs. W. K. Duncan, Mrs. Lamont Wright and Mrs. J. Phillips.

Mrs. A. E. Smith, beauty shop operator, attended a meeting held at Dallas the past week.

Jack Hayes, principal of the Ouachita Parish High school, and Mrs. Hayes arrived Friday night from Corybon, Ky., where they had been spending their summer vacatoin.

J. W. Lawton, of Shreveport, made happy by new oil wealth, was a visitor Friday at a downtown hotel in Monroe. It was on Mr. Lawton's land that the Haynes Production company brought in Lawton No. 1 Wednesday in the new Rodessa field, making 50,000 barrels of oil daily.

Beginning this morning, the men's Bible class of the First Methodist church will meet in its old meeting place at the Monroe hotel. An open invitation is extended to the men of the city, as well as visitors, to meet with this class every Sunday morning at 9:45.

Jimmie Cornett, 14, who underwent an operation in Riverside sanitarium last week for skin grafting on the right leg, was removed to his home Saturday. He sustained an injury while at play in Alabama several weeks ago and it became necessary to graft skin to the injured leg. His condition was such Saturday as to indicate his early recovery, physicians stated.

Father, Son Reunited Through Chain Letter

SENECA, Kas., Sept. 7.—(AP)—A father and son, spearated 35 years, were reunited recently by a chain letter.

Gene Hunt of Lineville, Ia., completed the chain when he arrived to visit his son, Otto Huiett, who had been placed in an orphanage at Pueblo, Colo., when his mother died.

He was adopted by Mrs. Sarah Huiett of Salina. He knew his name was Hunt and that his father lived in Iowa.

When the chain letter craze was at its height, Huiett received one which included the name of Mrs. Gene Hunt, Linevilla, Ia. He wrote and the relationship was established.

EX-PROSECUTOR NAMED TO L.S.U. LAW FACULTY

BATON ROUGE, La., Sept. 7.—(AP)—Dr. James M. Smith, president of Louisiana State university, announced the addition to the law school faculty of Dr. Jerome Hall, former Cook county, Ill., prosecuting attorney, and a well known authority on law.

He served for three years as professor of law at the University of North Dakota and at one time was a lecturer on law at Indiana university.

He is the author of several books, the most recent being "Theft, Law and Society."

He will have charge of criminal law classes at L. S. U.

telephoned Davids and asked him to come over to the hotel, where he was residing.

There he asked Davids if he would give him $3 as his part of the repair expense. He told the authorities that Davids refused to do so, declaring that he had not agreed to share the expense. When he insisted that Davids had done so, Davids replied "You're a —— liar," it was asserted.

Then, Horton said, he slapped Davids, but Davids was much the stronger man and punched Horton about freely, officers said. Horton said he managed to get loose and run to his room in the hotel and secure his revolver.

Davids followed him into the hotel, and there the two were joined by Marshall, a friend of Horton and a fellow-resident of the hotel. When Davids advanced on Horton, the latter struck him over the head with his revolver, he told the police.

The revolver then went off accidentally, it was stated, the bullet hitting Davids in the left shoulder, and then ploughed through Marshall's chest, above the heart.

There were no eye witnesses to the actual shooting, although the hotel manager, B. M. May, was in a hallway outside.

Before lapsing into unconsciousness, Marshall told members of the sheriff's force that he knew Horton did not intend shooting him.

Both Davids and Horton were employed by the Brown Paper mill, Horton as a mechanic and Davids as a welder. Davids resides in the 200 block on South Riverfront, West Monroe.

Marshall is a resident of Sibley and has a wife and two children. He had been boarding at the hotel temporarily. Pending the outcome of the two men's wounds, Horton will be held in the parish jail without bond until a charge is preferred, Sheriff Milton Coverdale reported last night.

GOVERNOR SIGNS HEART BALM ACT

MONTGOMERY Ala., Sept. 7.—(AP)—Gov. Bibb Graves today signed the Russell "heart balm" act, outlawing civil suits by women more than 21 years of age for breach of promise, alienation of affection or seduction.

"There have been a great many abuses and I think this will stop them," the governor said in signing the bill, originally introduced by Senator Edgar P. Russell of Selma, and patterned after Indiana's new statute.

The measure, although opposed by a strong majority, passed both houses of the legislature by overwhelming majorities, with Senator Russell following it through committee meetings and "lining up" floor votes.

Pending litigation will not be affected by the act, which becomes fully effective in 60 days.

BUSINESS MAN

H. M. JAMES

The James Machine Works, 1515 DeSiard street, is celebrating the completion of its new home on the site of the old building and boasts that it now owns one of the finest machine shops in the state.

The concern, said to have been one of few companies of its kind to feel no ill effects from the past depression, employs 10 machinists and welders and has a total personnel of eighteen.

H. M. James (above), is the owner and A. I. Furlow, office manager.

YOUNG WOMEN ACCUSED OF LARCENY POST BOND

Two young women, Bessie Richardson and Gladys Taylor, accused of larceny of $90 from Martin Henley, a resident of Wilson street, yesterday had been released from the parish jail under bond of $750 each.

Malcolm Price and Anna Belle Price, a young couple arrested last Monday and charged with the theft of $110 from Pete Belbas, local restaurant operator, were still held in the city jail last night.

HAPSBURG LAUNDRY VANISHES AS VIENNA PLANS RESTORATION

VIENNA, Sept. 7.—(AP)—Another small detail in the "little by little" movement toward putting the Hapsburgs back on the throne is the removal of the dynasty's name from laundry advertisements.

"Hapsburg launders for you!" is the blithe assurance printed in large letters on the back of every Vienna telephone directory.

It was only the name of a laundry but nevertheless it had its appeal.

Not many years ago thousands of Viennese who sent their shirts and collars to Hapsburg would have bet their hats that this name never again would dominate Austrian politics. Those were post-war days when it was dangerous for an avowed monarchist to show himself on the street.

It is the other way around now.

Nothing has been said about laundry advertisements being disrespectful of the imperial name. After all, there is an "Eye of God Beer Cellar" listed in the telephone book, too, and no offense meant.

Yet next year's volume will lack the Hapsburg laundry ads. Newspapers announce a fusion of big Vienna laundries, including Hapsburg, into the United Laundries.

Some of the huge three-bladed controllable propellers now in use on transport planes are from 12 to 13 feet in diameter and weigh up to 350 pounds.

NOTICE

If your eyes are giving you any trouble, see Dr. Friedman, the oldest and best known optometrist in North Louisiana. Let him test your eyes and fit you in proper glasses; his work is always under guarantee. Office upstairs over D. Masur & Sons, corner DeSiard and Grand streets.

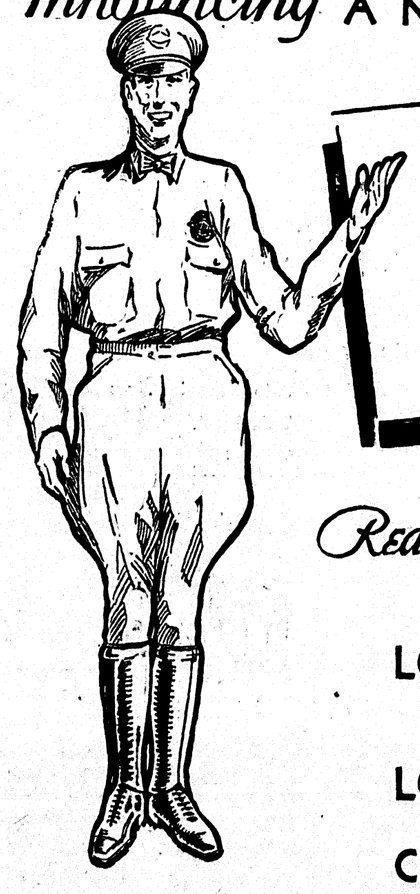

Congratulations
MR. JAMES

May the coming years be filled with a good measure of success and prosperity.

CAMPBELL CRACKS 300

Wide open at 304.311 m. p. h.!

A blowout at 250 m. p. h.!

A Briton reaches his goal.

Streaking over the Bonneville, Utah, salt flats, Sir Malcolm Campbell, intrepid Englishman, set a new world speed record and realized his greatest ambition when he averaged 301.33 miles an hour in two trips over a measured mile. Due to an error in the timing tape, Campbell's average first was given as 299.874 miles an hour, and Campbell was all set to try again when officials notified him that a re-check had produced the new figure.

VALIDITY OF NEW OIL ACT UPHELD

SHERMAN, Texas, Sept. 7.—(AP)—Judge Randolph Bryant in federal district court today upheld the constitutionality of the new Connally oil act.

This federal measure, enacted by congress last February, was designed to prevent the movement in interstate commerce of oil produced or withdrawn from storage in excess of the amount permitted by state laws.

Judge Bryant's decision was rendered against the East Texas Refining company, which was seeking tenders on 155,000 barrels of oil. The company named as defendant Federal Tender Board No. 1 and attempted to prove the Connally law was unconstitutional.

Far-reaching importance was attached to the brief, verbal decision handed down by Judge Bryant. It was expected to have considerable influence on the movement of "hot" oil in interstate commerce, particularly from the prolific east Texas field.

The decision had the effect of excluding from channels of interstate commerce all oil or products thereof produced or withdrawn from storage in violation of state laws.

Texas, in an effort to conserve its vast store of oil and prevent flooding of the market, has adopted stringent laws limiting well production, refineries and the marketing of petroleum and its products.

CAPTAIN OF DIXIE WON'T LEAVE SHIP

NEW YORK, Sept. 7.—(AP)—In an exchange of radiograms today with General Manager S. Ira Cooper of the Morgan line, Capt. E. W. Sundstrom declined to leave his stricken steamship Dixie to seek shore rest and attention to his injuries.

Cooper ordered him to take respite from direction of salvage operations on the Florida reef.

The captain replied:

"There is no physical reason why I should go ashore. I can get all rest necessary. With your permission I remain on ship."

Cooper commented: "I guess the captain will have to have his way."

A resolution of appreciation to the crew was drafted by passengers.

"We resolve to go on record expressing our heartfelt appreciation and eternal gratitude to Captain Sundstrom, his officers and crew for the heroic manner in which they, to a man have conducted the care, comfort and security and general welfare of the undersigned comprising the passengers of the above-mentioned S. S. Dixie."

California Is California And Miss Stein Likes It

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 7.—(AP)—Gertrude (a rose is a rose is a rose) Stein boosted California during a recent visit here by writing a letter to her brother in Paris saying, "I like it here—don't tell me I don't like it here—we like it here," with the result that the brother and his wife have come back to San Francisco to live after 31 years' absence.

The brother, Daniel, who was manager of the San Francisco street railway lines until he went abroad in 1904, predicts Miss Stein also will return to California.

G. O. P. AIMS AT CONGRESS SEATS

Republicans Turn Eyes To Districts Where Democrats Had Slim Margin

WASHINGTON, Sept. 7.—(AP)—Republican leaders, their eyes focussed on the 1936 elections, turned attention today to 20 congressional districts in which Democrats were last victorious by scant margins.

The party's headquarters men, recalling the election of the Republican Charles Risk of Rhode Island by a 10,000 margin where a Democrat had won previously by 21,000 expressed their confidence that turnovers would occur where the Democratic majorities were down in the hundreds.

The 20 districts were widely scattered.

Senate investigators studying railroad financing, it was learned, are concentrating on the carriers which have filed reorganization plans with the interstate commerce commission. The investigators hope to get their findings before the public before the ICC acts on the proposals for reorganization. The commission previously indicated there would be no delays for the purpose of aiding the investigators.

Reorganization plans have been submitted by the Missouri Pacific, St. Louis-San Francisco, the Rock Island, the Chicago and Eastern Illinois, and the Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific.

Republicans described President Roosevelt's assurance of a legislative "breathing spell" for business as a "campaign promise," while the Democratic forces viewed the executive's statement as a favorable New Deal move.

Observers who examined the president's statement, in the form of a letter to Roy Howard, publisher, expressed an opinion that a balanced budget would be a leading issue in the coming election campaign. Mr. Roosevelt did not touch upon the budget in his statement. Some observers thought he would go into that later.

Mrs. Robert Lincoln Hoyal, new chief of the Republican women, is starting the 1936 campaign activities Constitution day, Sept. 17. She has sent out a call asking "every Republican woman to make some special observance on that day."

City Briefs

A group of members of the Ruston Garden club attended the Monroe Garden club meeting here Friday. They were headed by the president, Mrs. Adrian Adams. Other members of the party were Mrs. Marie Boles Adams, Mrs. W. K. Duncan, Mrs. Lamont Wright and Mrs. J. Phillips.

Mrs. A. E. Smith, beauty shop operator, attended a meeting held at Dallas the past week.

Jack Hayes, principal of the Ouachita Parish High school, and Mrs. Hayes arrived Friday night from Corybon, Ky., where they had been spending their summer vacatoin.

J. W. Lawton, of Shreveport, made happy by new oil wealth, was a visitor Friday at a downtown hotel in Monroe. It was on Mr. Lawton's land that the Haynes Production company brought in Lawton No. 1 Wednesday in the new Rodessa field, making 50,000 barrels of oil daily.

Beginning this morning, the men's Bible class of the First Methodist church will meet in its old meeting place at the Monroe hotel. An open invitation is extended to the men of the city, as well as visitors, to meet with this class every Sunday morning at 9:45.

Jimmie Cornett, 14, who underwent an operation in Riverside sanitarium last week for skin grafting on the right leg, was removed to his home Saturday. He sustained an injury while at play in Alabama several weeks ago and it became necessary to graft skin to the injured leg. His condition was such Saturday as to indicate his early recovery, physicians stated.

Father, Son Reunited Through Chain Letter

SENECA, Kas., Sept. 7.—(AP)—A father and son, spearated 35 years, were reunited recently by a chain letter.

Gene Hunt of Lineville, Ia., completed the chain when he arrived to visit his son, Otto Huiett, who had been placed in an orphanage at Pueblo, Colo., when his mother died.

He was adopted by Mrs. Sarah Huiett of Salina. He knew his name was Hunt and that his father lived in Iowa.

When the chain letter craze was at its height, Huiett received one which included the name of Mrs. Gene Hunt, Linevilla, Ia. He wrote and the relationship was established.

telephoned Davids and asked him to come over to the hotel, where he was residing.

There he asked Davids if he would give him $3 as his part of the repair expense. He told the authorities that Davids refused to do so, declaring that he had not agreed to share the expense. When he insisted that Davids had done so, Davids replied "You're a —— liar," it was asserted.

Then, Horton said, he slapped Davids, but Davids was much the stronger man and punched Horton about freely, officers said. Horton said he managed to get loose and run to his room in the hotel and secure his revolver.

Davids followed him into the hotel, and there the two were joined by Marshall, a friend of Horton and a fellow-resident of the hotel. When Davids advanced on Horton, the latter struck him over the head with his revolver, he told the police.

The revolver then went off accidentally, it was stated, the bullet hitting Davids in the left shoulder, and then ploughed through Marshall's chest, above the heart.

There were no eye witnesses to the actual shooting, although the hotel manager, B. M. May, was in a hallway outside.

Before lapsing into unconsciousness, Marshall told members of the sheriff's force that he knew Horton did not intend shooting him.

Both Davids and Horton were employed by the Brown Paper mill, Horton as a mechanic and Davids as a welder. Davids resides in the 200 block on South Riverfront, West Monroe.

Marshall is a resident of Sibley and has a wife and two children. He had been boarding at the hotel temporarily. Pending the outcome of the two men's wounds, Horton will be held in the parish jail without bond until a charge is preferred, Sheriff Milton Coverdale reported last night.

GOVERNOR SIGNS HEART BALM ACT

MONTGOMERY Ala., Sept. 7.—(AP)—Gov. Bibb Graves today signed the Russell "heart balm" act, outlawing civil suits by women more than 21 years of age for breach of promise, alienation of affection or seduction.

"There have been a great many abuses and I think this will stop them," the governor said in signing the bill, originally introduced by Senator Edgar P. Russell of Selma, and patterned after Indiana's new statute.

The measure, although opposed by a strong majority, passed both houses of the legislature by overwhelming majorities, with Senator Russell following it through committee meetings and "lining up" floor votes.

Pending litigation will not be affected by the act, which becomes fully effective in 60 days.

BUSINESS MAN

H. M. JAMES

The James Machine Works, 1515 DeSiard street, is celebrating the completion of its new home on the site of the old building and boasts that it now owns one of the finest machine shops in the state.

The concern, said to have been one of few companies of its kind to feel no ill effects from the past depression, employs 10 machinists and welders and has a total personnel of eighteen.

H. M. James (above), is the owner and A. I. Furlow, office manager.

YOUNG WOMEN ACCUSED OF LARCENY POST BOND

Two young women, Bessie Richardson and Gladys Taylor, accused of larceny of $90 from Martin Henley, a resident of Wilson street, yesterday had been released from the parish jail under bond of $750 each.

Malcolm Price and Anna Belle Price, a young couple arrested last Monday and charged with the theft of $110 from Pete Belbas, local restaurant operator, were still held in the city jail last night.

HAPSBURG LAUNDRY VANISHES AS VIENNA PLANS RESTORATION

VIENNA, Sept. 7.—(AP)—Another small detail in the "little by little" movement toward putting the Hapsburgs back on the throne is the removal of the dynasty's name from laundry advertisements.

"Hapsburg launders for you!" is the blithe assurance printed in large letters on the back of every Vienna telephone directory.

It was only the name of a laundry but nevertheless it had its appeal.

SALES REPORT SHOWS GAIN DURING 1935

Percentage Of Increase Given For Twenty-Three Manufacturers

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Sales and earnings of 23 concerns in the air conditioning, refrigeration, electrical equipment, and oil burner industries have shown marked gains during the first half year of 1935 as compared with similar periods in 1934, according to information supplied to the Federal Housing administration.

While not representing the entire field of industries included, the reports indicate an appreciable upturn in their respective markets for household equipment.

Percentages of increase were reported in each case, ranging from 712 per cent in one instance to 10.4 per cent in another.

Particularly significant are huge gains shown by concerns manufacturing air conditioning and refrigerating equipment, with certain manufacturers in other categories also reporting gains well into three digits.

Act Makes New Home Possible For Family Of 5

KANSAS CITY, Mo.—Through the opportunities provided by the national housing act, Earnest Van Dyke, an employe of a traction company here, has been able to build a comfortable home for his wife and children. Until the long-term plan of payment was made possible by the act, Mr. Van Dyke, by force of economic necessity, had housed his family in a small, inadequate structure that now has become his chicken house.

Ten years ago Mr. Van Dyke built a tiny house on a lot in the outskirts of town. There he reared a family of four children, but the house was never sufficient to his family's needs.

When the federal housing administration's program was inaugurated, Mr. Van Dyke learned of the opportunity offered whereby funds could be obtained from private lending institutions for home building. The long-term, easy-repayment provisions made it possible for him to obtain a loan and meet his obligation out of his current income. Accordingly, he obtained $2,300 and built a home on the front of his lot.

The house is two stories high, with three rooms on the first floor and two bedrooms on the second. There is a concrete-block basement and numerous windows providing cross ventilation. The house is heated by hot air, wired for electricity, hardwood floors on the first floor, has a complete bathroom, and hot and cold water in the kitchen. The water is heated by electricity. With the $2,300 loan he was able to complete the house, not including window shades and screens.

Thus the Van Dyke family have been provided with adequate housing, and Mr. Van Dyke is repaying the loan at the rate of $19.01 per month.

Due to the huge flow of sediment along the 3,200-mile course of the Yangtze river in China, a new coastline and new islands are forming at its mouth, geologists say.

Built-In Beauty, Cleanliness, Charm

NEW CREDIT LIMIT BOON TO BUSINESS

Small Manufacturers Given Opportunities To Modernize Facilities

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Extension of the maximum amount of modernization credit insurable by the Federal Housing Administration to $50,000 is seen as a means of creating more equal competitive conditions between small and large manufacturers, according to Acting Federal Housing Administer Stewart McDonald.

"Bringing the little manufacturer into the market for machinery and equipment should be one of the big factors in the revival of the heavy industries," Mr. MacDonald said.

Aid Little Man

"The extension, under the recent amendment to the National Housing Act, should be the salvation of the little manufacturer who in the past has been treated like a red-headed stepchild and has had to get along with hand-me-downs and old equipment. He has had to look longer and harder than his competitors, but can now compete with them on even terms with new machinery and equipment bought under terms of the $50,000 amendment. He gets his cut at last."

The acting administrator pointed out that a wide market for equipment and machinery is to be found among small manufacturers, department stores, apartment buildings, hospitals, colleges, schools, orphanages—a field which was not eligible for modernization credit under the original limitation of $2,000 as applied to residential property.

F. H. A. Insures

The new regulations governing modernization of commercial-residential and industrial properties provide that the Federal Housing Administration may insure such credits advanced by approved lending institutions when the funds are used to purchase machinery or equipment "peculiarly adapted to the business conducted therein or necessary to the operation thereof."

The question of rating applicants for credit under the extension will be left largely to the discretion of the respective lending agencies, Mr. McDonald explained.

WALLED COURTYARD GIVES NEW PRIVACY

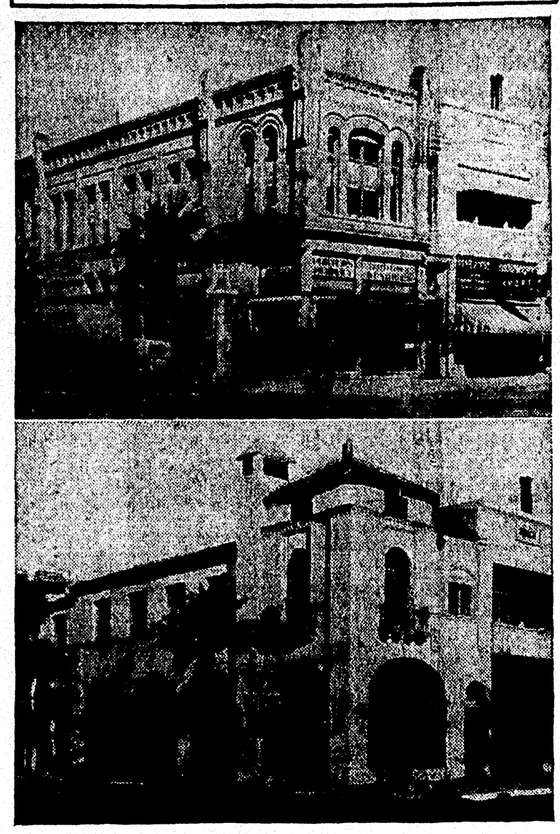

Many house owners in large cities are utilizing the small rear-yard space for a walled garden. This permits a greater degree of privacy in outdoor living than would be possible otherwise.

Many different materials may be used for these walls—concrete, brick, tile block, or other material which will not require expensive maintenance.

The top of a wall may be made more attractive if the wall is wide enough to hold a trough which may be filled with earth. Hedges or vines planted here will make the garden seem more separated from the surrounding buildings.

A drinking-room for the 250 royal servants at Buckingham Palace was established by Queen Victoria to prevent their gossip from spreading outside the palace walls. Here the servants still can buy a variety of fine wines and liquors.

Repaired With $12,500

A typical example of commercial modernization, that comes under the extended limits of the modernization credit plan of the Federal Housing Administration, is shown above. The maximum amount of credit that may be advanced by a private lending institution and be insured by the Federal Housing Administration was recently set at $50,000. The above project, recently completed at Riverside, Calif., involved the expenditure of $12,500. The building houses a pharmacy with office accommodations on the second floor. It was covered with cement stucco and a new tiled roof. New arches and window space increase lighting and display capacity in the pharmacy. Grilled ironwork used for second-floor balconies lends an informal note.

Retaining Walls Aid To Home Landscaping

One of the most trying tasks of the home gardener is keeping little terraces and embankments from washing away in heavy rains and frost break-ups. A month's work in sodding and planting can be ruined in one heavy deluge, and the whole process of rolling and tamping goes on again.

There's only one sure way to protect the landscaping that makes a yard or lawn look finished. That is a retaining wall. And just because a retaining wall is primarily a support for earthworks doesn't mean that it must be unsightly. A modern retaining wall is, or should be, a decorative feature of the landscape.

The height of a retaining wall depends upon the amount of earth that must be held up. If the embankment rises steeply from a sidewalk, the wall should be fairly high. If the slope is gentle, a very low wall will suffice. In either case a strong, good-looking, decorative wall can be built.

There are two kinds of retaining walls, generally speaking: The solid, monolithic type and the masonry type. Either of these is completely efficient, and choice between them will depend largely on the appearance of the house and yard. For instance, if the house is built with masonry walls, the retaining walls might be made to match it both in design and color. If the house is stucco finished or surfaced with some other even-textured material, the retaining walls can be of the monolithic or solid type. This, of course, depends upon personal taste.

For masonry walls, units of different sizes can be placed together in interesting patterns, with smooth-or rough-finished joints. In the solid wall, decorations may be formed in the wall when it is placed. Exposed aggregate or textured surface is often desirable. When modernizing your home, beauty and permanence should be one of the governing factors.

BATHROOM MAY BE EASILY IMPROVED

There is no room in the house which can be changed from drabness to beauty, from cheerfulness to enviable charm, and from prosaic utility to inviting usefulness with such ease, satisfaction and at such a reasonable cost as the bathroom.

With the major part of their efforts during the last three years concentrated on modernization work, plumbing contractors have perfected the technique of bathroom rejuvenation, according to the plumbing and heating industries bureau.

Replacement work has been speeded up, and the entire job can be accomplished with little or no inconvenience to family routine. Improved piping materials and fixtures especially adopted for modernization work, as well as more efficient methods of installation, all aid in speeding up the work and reducing the cost.

The entire cost of the handsome and colorful new bathroom may then be financed on the easy monthly payment plan established by the national housing act.

CALL BELL

A service call bell installed in the dining room is a great convenience.

A clapper bell rung at the table will often interrupt an interesting conversation. The push button, attached to the under part of the table at the hostess' place, will ring a buzzer in the kitchen. Thus calling the maid will not disturb dinner guests.

LIVING HABITS REVEALED BY FHA SURVEYS

Preference Shown For Single Family Dwellings And For City Life

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Here are some interesting facts on the residential habits of the people of the United States as revealed in a statistical study made by the Federal Housing administration:

As a nation we prefer to reside in single-family dwellings. Three times as many families live in individual residences as live in two-family houses and structures intended for the occupancy of three families or more. At the same time, the number of single-family dwellings is ten times as great as the number of structures housing two or more families.

We prefer to live in cities and towns rather than in the country. Four times as many families reside in communities with a population of 2,500 than on the farms of the nation. At the same time, the number of residential structures in the cities and towns is greater only by a small percentage than residential structures on the farms.

We prefer to live in houses we own rather than those that are rented. More than half of the dwellings, both in urban and rural sections, are owned in whole or in part by the people who reside in them. Owner occupancy is more the rule in rural than in urban areas, where multiple-family structures makes renting a business of its own.

The survey was made by the Federal Housing administration to assist in its efforts to improve living standards in the United States and at the same time promote the already apparent revival of the construction industry. The figures contained in it came from a variety of sources. The data on the residential habits of the people was collected to a large extent by the United States census bureau.

A dwelling, for the purpose of the tabulation, is considered to be a house or other residential structure intended for occupancy by one or more families. There are (or were at the time of the census of 1930) a total of 29,904,663 families in the country, and they were housed in 25,204,976 dwellings.

An urban area is one within the corporate limits of a city town with a population of 2,500 or more. A rural area is one comprising the smaller towns and the farms. The urban areas hold a total of 13,046,699 dwellings, whereas the rural areas hold 12,158,277. On the farms themselves there are 6,668,681 dwellings of the one-family type. Incidentally, there are 64,044 urban farms in the United States within the corporate limits of cities or towns with 2,500 inhabitants or more.

The number of one-family dwellings in the country is 22,833,110. The number of two-family dwellings is 1,728,087. The number of dwellings intended for three families or more is 643,779.

In the farm areas 3,498,688 dwellings were owned by their occupants in contrast with 2,968,268 that were rented. The status of 201,725 was not determined. In the urban areas, on the other hand, only 7,571,896 of the 18,536,295 dwellings were occupied by owners.

The figures on location, size and condition of ownership of residential property are considered by officials of the Federal Housing administration of importance in their efforts to make available to home owners and to renters the money necessary for repairs and modernization, which was allowed to lag during the uncertain years of the depression. This credit is available, not from the government or the Federal Housing administration but from private banks and other financial institutions in sums not in excess of $2,000, to be repaid in equal monthly installments for a period of as long as five years.

NEW LIGHTWEIGHT COPPER SHEETING

The individual who wishes to use copper for porch and other roofs and has hesitated in doing so because of the cost will be interested in learning that the industry has developed a lightweight sheet which is less expensive than the standard sheet ordinarily used.

The standard sheet weighs 16 ounces a square foot. The new sheet weighs 10 ounces. This, obviously, reduces the price, since copper is sold by weight.

SALES REPORT SHOWS GAIN DURING 1935

Percentage Of Increase Given For Twenty-Three Manufacturers

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Sales and earnings of 23 concerns in the air conditioning, refrigeration, electrical equipment, and oil burner industries have shown marked gains during the first half year of 1935 as compared with similar periods in 1934, according to information supplied to the Federal Housing administration.

While not representing the entire field of industries included, the reports indicate an appreciable upturn in their respective markets for household equipment.

Percentages of increase were reported in each case, ranging from 712 per cent in one instance to 10.4 per cent in another.

Particularly significant are huge gains shown by concerns manufacturing air conditioning and refrigerating equipment, with certain manufacturers in other categories also reporting gains well into three digits.

Act Makes New Home Possible For Family Of 5

KANSAS CITY, Mo.—Through the opportunities provided by the national housing act, Earnest Van Dyke, an employe of a traction company here, has been able to build a comfortable home for his wife and children. Until the long-term plan of payment was made possible by the act, Mr. Van Dyke, by force of economic necessity, had housed his family in a small, inadequate structure that now has become his chicken house.

Ten years ago Mr. Van Dyke built a tiny house on a lot in the outskirts of town. There he reared a family of four children, but the house was never sufficient to his family's needs.

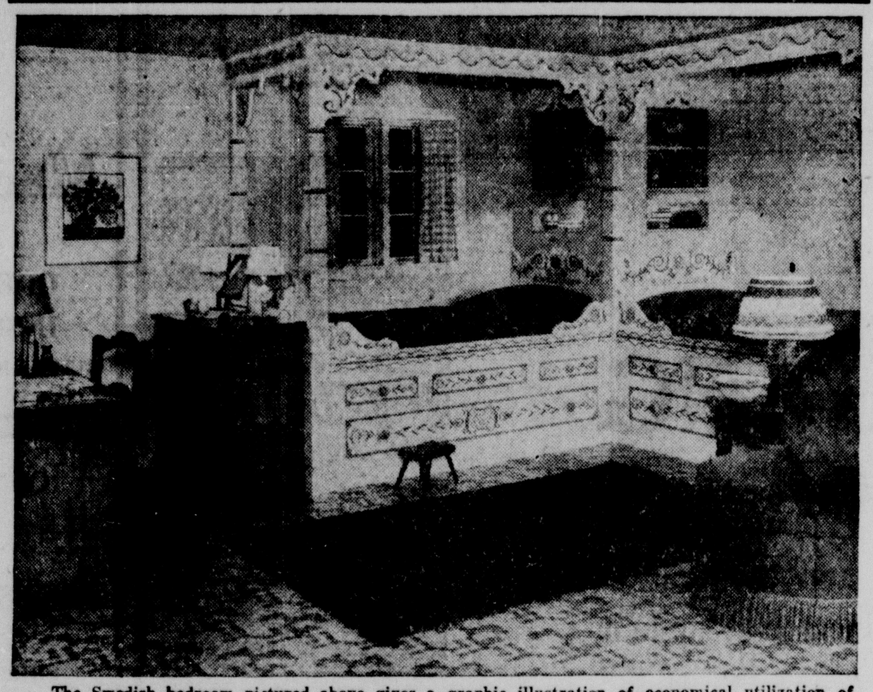

When the federal housing administration's program was inaugurated, Mr. Van Dyke learned of the opportunity offered whereby funds could be obtained from private lending institutions for home building. The long-term, easy-repayment provisions made it possible for him to obtain a loan and meet his obligation out of his current income. Accordingly, he obtained $2,300 and built a home on the front of his lot.

The house is two stories high, with three rooms on the first floor and two bedrooms on the second. There is a concrete-block basement and numerous windows providing cross ventilation. The house is, heated by hot air, wired for electricity, hardwood floors on the first floor, has a complete bathroom, and hot and cold water in the kitchen. The water is heated by electricity. With the $2,300 loan he was able to complete the house, not including window shades and screens.

Thus the Van Dyke family have been provided with adequate housing, and Mr. Van Dyke is repaying the loan at the rate of $19.01 per month.

Due to the huge flow of sediment along the 3,200-mile course of the Yangtze river in China, a new coastline and new islands are forming at its mouth, geologists say.

Built-In Beauty, Cleanliness, Charm

Small Manufacturers Given Opportunities To Modernize Facilities

FEDERAL SAVINGS AND LOAN GROUP LAUDED BY BURNS

Representative Of National Organization Praises Building Work Here

Following a visit here last week to offices of the First Federal Savings and Loan association, 118 South Grand street, an organization composed of local people and affiliated with the Federal Home Loan bank, Perry E. Burns, field representative of the national organization, commended officers of the local unit for its activities in creating employment in the national plan of financing, new home construction and in the remodeling and repairing of homes.

Twenty-nine loans have been made by the local organization. A four per cent per annum dividend has been established after the reserves required by the federal government were set up.

J. W. Kilbourne, the local secretary, summarized the benefits to be derived by the investor, the borrower and the community at large, as follows:

"Each investor's accounts are insured against loss by the government, up to $5,000. A liberal rate of earnings commensurate with safety is being paid. Savings and investments are received in either lump sums or may be purchased on an installment basis. There are no fines, penalties, forfeitures or assessments of any kind in connection with the shares of the association. The investments are recognized as lawful investments for trustees, guardians and other fiduciaries.

"The borrower is given a flexible and versatile type of loan plan with payments running over a period of from 5 to 20 years. A minimum rate of interest of 6 per cent is offered, being charged on the reducing monthly balance of loan. Expenses are small in the closing of loans. The plan offered is enabling borrowers to pay for a home practically like rent.

"More than $75,000 has been made available in federal funds for home financing in Monroe through the local association, the government offering to invest $3 of government funds in the association for every dollar invested locally. (The investment of the government is placed in the association on a common basis with other shareholders). Additional funds are available through the facilities of the Federal Home Loan bank system. Gainful employment is being created for contractors, craftsmen and laborers. Merchants are benefited by the spending of such funds disbursed through this institution. The community is made self-sustaining in accumulating the funds of the masses and in home financing. Real estate values are increased as a market is created in the association's operation."

Clyde R. Brown, president of the local association, in commenting on the accomplishments of the association stated, "It is an accepted fact that real estate forms the very backbone of our nation. The home is the foundation of civilization, and well-secured real estate mortgages on homes constitute the principal investments all over the country. Therefore, any step taken toward the restoration of real estate values is of the utmost importance in the rebuilding of prosperity.

"These Federal Savings and Loan associations, by providing investment safety, should stimulate the flow of capital into the real estate field. Money is also made available by the government's offer to place its own money in these associations. This new capital should greatly improve the condition of present homeowners, make it possible for thousands of additional people to become homeowners, and thus play a major part in the revival of real estate values and in the protection of those homes which lie back of the country's political and financial security."

Officers of the local association are: Clyde R. Brown, president and counsel; T. O. Bancroft, vice president; J. W. Kilbourne, secretary-treasurer; James Heard, Jr., assistant secretary-treasurer and directors. In addition to the above, are: W. D. Rodriguez, J. E. Marx, W. W. Kelly, Henry Biedenharn, S. J. Rogers, W. C. McDonald, and G. B. Cooley.

Realty Boards Plan Exhibits In Seven Cities

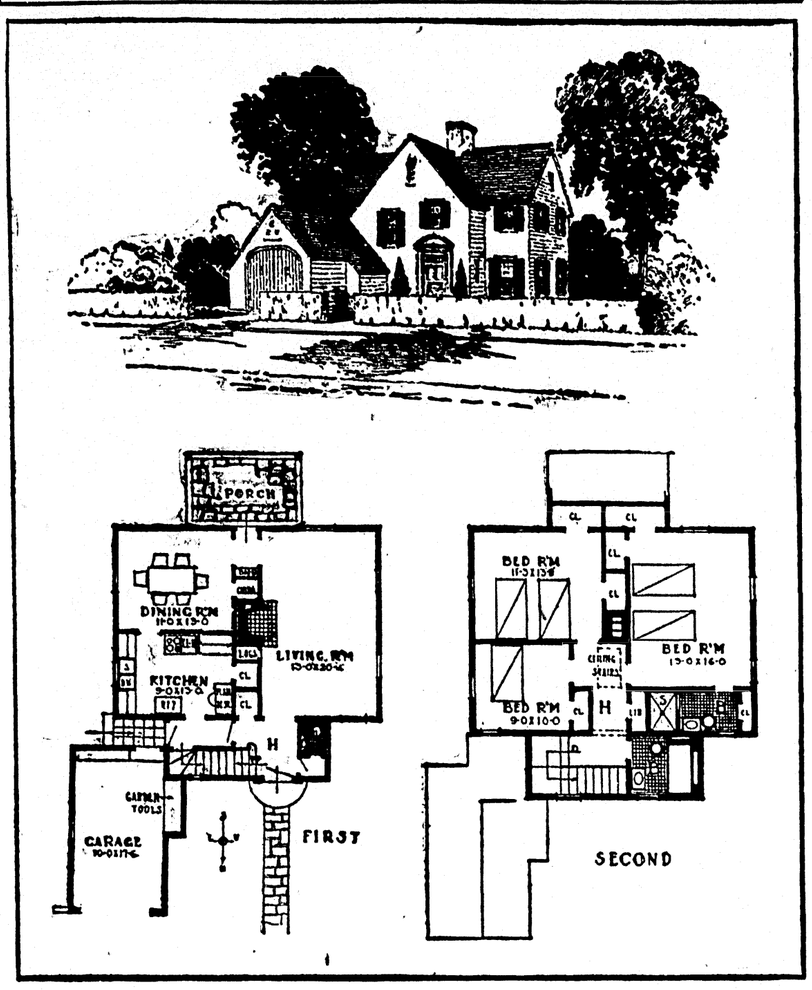

WASHINGTON, D. C.—A series of elaborate better housing shows conducted under the auspices of real estate boards in seven large cities are in process of organization, according to Henry A. Guthrie, chief of the exhibition section of the federal housing administration.

Housing shows are contemplated for St. Louis, Mo.; Kansas City, Mo.; Tulsa, Okla.; San Antonio, Texas; Houston, Texas; New Orleans La.; and Birmingham, Ala.

The shows will be arranged by the Exhibition Management Corporation, a private organization, in cooperation with the National Association of Real Estate Boards. Opening dates for these shows will be announced later.

According to reports, the shows will be elaborate and will embody the best developments in housing exhibitions. To date there have been 527 housing exhibits and shows conducted throughout the country since the beginning of the better housing program 10 months ago.

A Home of Comfort and Charm

Relation Of Wallpaper To Woodwork Studied

Knowledge of the convenience of built-in furnishings in a room has prompted numerous wallpaper manufacturers to make a careful study of the relationship of wallpapers to adjacent woodwork. Such improvements are eligible for modernization credit available at financial institutions approved by the federal housing administration.

The use of built-in furniture was popular as far back as the Elizabethan period. As a result, many room designs dating as far back as 400 years include built-in features. At the same time, wallpaper has been designed to fit any or all of these types of rooms.

Wallpaper manufacturers have made a careful study of the requirements for period rooms.

Harmony Desired

Where it is desired to build bookshelves, china closets, or similar devices into a home of an architectural period other than that we now call modern, it is important that harmony between the new work and the older part of the room be maintained. This can be achieved easily by the selection of the proper wallpaper and by so hanging it that the built-in feature merges with the rest of the room. First, in the case of a bookshelf, see that the edges are, as nearly as possible, flush with the wall. Then have the paper hanger cut the paper to the very edge of the opening. Paint all but the outer edge of the shelving the darkest color to be found in the wallpaper. The edge of the shelves can be painted with the predominating light color in the paper, or with the same shade and finish used for the paneling wherever paneling is in evidence.

Paneling in a room may be worked out in three ways. Either actual wood panel and molding can be installed—and this, though the most expensive way, is recommended for large, permanent homes. Or wallpaper simulating flat wood-grain panels can be applied and finished with actual wood trim of the wood simulated in the paper. This second method is quite satisfactory for smaller homes, apartments, and such public places as restaurants or hotel rooms.

Inexpensive Method

The third method, which is also the cheapest and permits of the most rapid change-over should changing fashions dictate, calls for one of the new washable wallpapers which are made to simulate painted paneling such as is found in colonial and modern-classic architecture. These papers are made for several color combinations. All doors, picture rails, window trim, shelf edges and other woodwork should be painted exactly the same color as this paneled wallpaper. Electrical outlets should be painted to match the woodwork or the wallpaper, depending upon their location.

Depth of the book cases may be balanced by shelving and a corner closet in an adjoining room. A flat-toned carpet, carried flush to the wall, and accented with one or two scattered rugs keeps a room simple and avoids undue attention to floor lines.

PAINTERS' INCOME SHOWS BIG GAINS

PUEBLO, Colo.—The income of the members of the painters' union here showed a marked upturn in the first six months of 1935, according to T. H. Morris, secretary of the organization. While the individual income of painters here did not average over $100 per member for the first six months of 1934, in the first six months of 1935 the average income was approximately $600. Mr. Morris also said that during the first six months of 1934 virtually the entire membership was on relief, while at the present time the number of members remaining on relief rolls is negligible. The secretary could not state exactly how much of an influence the Federal Housing administration's program had exerted on the upturn in the paint business, but he said there was no doubt that the house-to-house canvass of the city had been of great benefit.

It is the consensus among union members, according to Mr. Morris, that prospects for the remainder of 1935 are brighter than they have been in the past eight years.

An epidemic of borna disease, commonly known as "horse disease," killed more than 150 horses within a few weeks in San Joaquin county, Calif.

SALE OF PAINT CONTINUES TO SHOW INCREASE

Employment, Pay Rolls Also On The Upgrade In Building Trade

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Paint, varnish, and lacquer sales in the United States for the first six months of 1935 showed a 15.2 per cent gain of the corresponding period in 1934, according to data reported to the bureau of the census by 586 identical establishments.

In the month of June 1935 paint, varnish and lacquer sales were 15.5 per cent ahead of the same month last year.

Employment, total man-hours and pay rolls in the paint and varnish industry during June 1935 also showed a definite upturn when compared with the same factors in all industry. Taking the year 1923 as an index (100), employment in the paint and varnish industry in June 1935 was 110.2 per cent of normal; all industry, 82.9 per cent. By similar comparison, total man-hours in the paint and varnish industry, 90.7 per cent; all industry, 60.5 per cent. Pay rolls for the paint and varnish industry, 96.3 per cent; all industry, 66.8 per cent.

An insight into activity in the paint, varnish and lacquer industry of recent months is shown in figures for June compiled by the bureau of labor statistics. By their compilation, 26,888 wage earners were employed in the industry in June 1935. The pay roll for the industry for one week in June was estimated at $589,380.

While the paint industry was showing marked gains during the first half year of 1935, modernization credit extended by financial institutions holding federal housing administration insurance contracts totaled 224,731 separate loans of a total value of $91,987,077 as of June 30, 1935. Significantly, it is estimated by the housing administration that 16.5 per cent of the total of modernization jobs pledged was for exterior paint projects and 5 per cent for interior painting and decorating.

Commenting recently upon the general aspect of the paint industry at the present time, George H. Priest, editor of the American Paint Journal, said:

"It is interesting to note that in spite of generally unfavorable weather during the spring, when painting activity is usually at its peak, stocks continued to move from dealers' shelves and did not stand in the way of orders for replacement and new business during June. Incidentally, the impression is current that a much greater amount of deferred work than had been expected has developed into actual painting jobs since the first of July.

"The comparative freedom from intense heat and the ready availability of money for loans and building and modernization projects have doubtless been contributing factors."

AN OUTDOOR OVEN

An outdoor oven in the garden will prove to be an enjoyable addition to summer living and entertaining.

The oven may be constructed of brick, stone, concrete, or another material which will harmonize with the walls or other features in the garden. It is advisable to construct a masonry terrace around the oven so that the lawn will not be trampled or scorched near it.

Benches may be placed around the terrace, and a table may be built to match them. A solid bench may be constructed with a hinged top. Wood stored there will be kept dry and will not clutter up the garden.

FEDERAL SAVINGS AND LOAN GROUP LAUDED BY BURNS

Representative Of National Organization Praises Building Work Here

Following a visit here last week to offices of the First Federal Savings and Loan association, 118 South Grand street, an organization composed of local people and affiliated with the Federal Home Loan bank, Perry E. Burns, field representative of the national organization, commended officers of the local unit for its activities in creating employment in the national plan of financing, new home construction and in the remodeling and repairing of homes.

Twenty-nine loans have been made by the local organization. A four per cent per annum dividend has been established after the reserves required by the federal government were set up.

J. W. Kilbourne, the local secretary, summarized the benefits to be derived by the investor, the borrower and the community at large, as follows:

"Each investor's accounts are insured against loss by the government, up to $5,000. A liberal rate of earning commensurate with safety is being paid. Savings and investments are issued in either lump sums or may be purchased on an installment basis. There are no fines, penalties, forfeitures or assessments of any kind in connection with the shares of the association. The investments are recognized as lawful investments for trustees, guardians and other fiduciaries.

"The borrower is given a flexible and versatile type of loan plan with payments running over a period of from 5 to 20 years. A minimum rate of interest of 6 per cent is offered, being charged on the reducing monthly balance of loan. Expenses are small in the closing of loans. The plan offered is enabling borrowers to pay for a home practically like rent.

"More than $75,000 has been made available in federal funds for home financing in Monroe through the local association, the government offering to invest $3 of government funds in the association for every dollar invested locally. (The investment of the government is placed in the association on a common basis with other shareholders). Additional funds are available through the facilities of the Federal Home Loan bank system. Gainful employment is being created for contractors, craftsmen and laborers. Merchants are benefited by the spending of such funds disbursed through this institution. The community is made self-sustaining in accumulating the funds of the masses and in home financing. Real estate values are increased as a market is created in the association's operation."

Clyde R. Brown, president of the local association, in commenting on the accomplishments of the association stated, "It is an accepted fact that real estate forms the very backbone of our nation. The home is the foundation of civilization, and well-secured real estate mortgages on homes constitute the principal investments all over the country. Therefore, any step taken toward the restoration of real estate values is of the utmost importance in the rebuilding of prosperity.

"These Federal Savings and Loan associations, by providing investment safety, should stimulate the flow of capital into the real estate field. Money is also made available by the government's offer to place its own money in these associations. This new capital should greatly improve the condition of present homeowners, make it possible for thousands of additional people to become homeowners, and thus play a major part in the revival of real estate values and in the protection of those homes which lie back of the country's political and financial security."

Officers of the local association are: Clyde R. Brown, president and counsel; T. O. Bancroft, vice president; J. W. Kilbourne, secretary-treasurer; James Heard, Jr., assistant secretary-treasurer and directors, in addition to the above, are: W. D. H. Rodriguez, J. E. Marx, W. W. Kellogg, Henry Biedenharn, S. J. Rogers, M. C. McDonald, and G. B. Cooley.

Realty Boards Plan Exhibits In Seven Cities

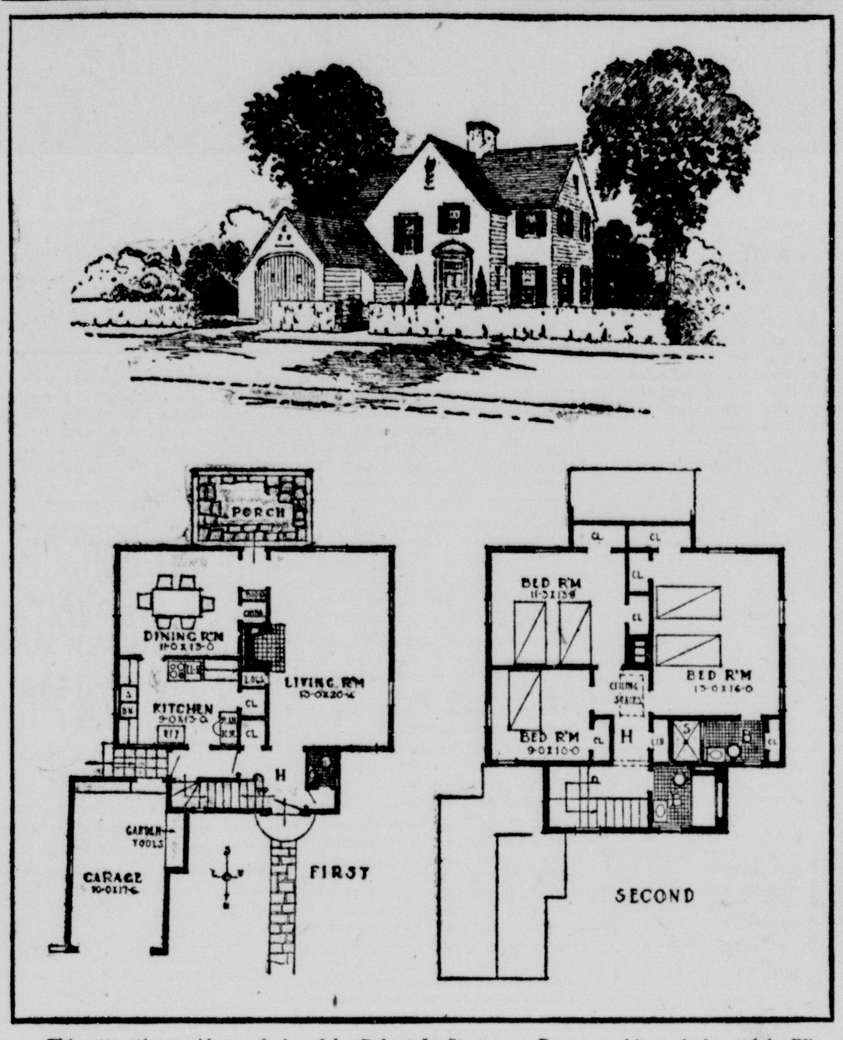

WASHINGTON, D. C.—A series of elaborate better housing shows conducted under the auspices of real estate boards in seven large cities are in process of organization, according to Henry A. Guthrie, chief of the exhibition section of the federal housing administration.

Housing shows are contemplated for St. Louis, Mo.; Kansas City, Mo.; Tulsa, Okla.; San Antonio, Texas; Houston, Texas; New Orleans La.; and Birmingham, Ala.

The shows will be arranged by the Exhibition Management Corporation, a private organization, in cooperation with the National Association of Real Estate Boards. Opening dates for these shows will be announced later.

According to reports, the shows will be elaborate and will embody the best developments in housing exhibitions. To date there have been 527 housing exhibits and shows conducted throughout the country since the beginning of the better housing program 10 months ago.

A Home of Comfort and Charm

This attractive residence, designed by Robert L. Stevenson, Boston architect, is located in Winchester, Mass., and was erected with funds obtained from a private lending institution under the Federal Housing Administration's Mutual Mortgage Insurance Plan. Derived from the Colonial style, it utilizes hand-split shingles which contrast pleasingly with dark shutters. One of its most attractive aspects is the facility with which the garage and kitchen may be reached from the main entrance hall without passing through a major room. FUNERAL PYRES DESTROY BODIES IN STORM AREAS

knocked together pine boxes. The bodies were stacked high, layers of driftwood separating the boxes.

National guardsmen fired three rounds over the mound. Clergymen said the last ties.

A pole, a bundle of flaming cotton waste affixed to its end, was run into the gasoline saturated driftwood at the base of the pyre. Flames shot high into the air.

The workers, carrying their cans of gasoline, trudged southward into the desolated area, toward the next place where bodies had been collected.

Final plans were whipped into shape for tomorrow's memorial services here for the veteran dead.

The services will begin at 7 p. m., in Miami's palm-set Bayfront park amphitheater, where a little more than two years ago an assassin fired five shots at Mr. Roosevelt, then president-elect.

Every officer of the nation's armed services who is here and can be spared from emergency duty in the keys will be present.

There was comment today from officials conducting two of the three separate investigations to determine whether 716 veterans were allowed to remain in three Matecumbe camps through negligence.

Governor Dave Sholtz, whose investigation is being directed by State Attorney G. V. Worley of Miami, said: "I'm not looking for a goat."

He was sure that if negligence entered into the disaster, "it certainly was not criminal, and I am sure no one could be blamed."

Aubrey Williams, assistant to Harry Hopkins, federal relief administrator, commented that as far as his investigation had progressed "I find no basis for disciplinary action against anyone."

"It is hard to arrive at a conclusion as to whether any branch of the federal government can be blamed for the key disaster," said Williams. The FERA spent approximately $250,000 in construction and maintenance of the three veterans rehabilitation corps camps since the first veterans were sent last December to build a bridge across one water gap in the overseas highway from the Florida mainland to Key West.

Williams, after questioning witnesses concerning weather reports and the special train which was caught in the hurricane, said:

"I am forced to the conclusion as far as my investigation has gone that the people of Miami do not take hurricane warnings seriously. I presume it is because of the cry of 'Wolf—Wolf' that has been raised here so often."

Williams said he would not attempt to fix responsibility, but to place the facts on record for transmission to President Roosevelt.

The American Legion, on behalf of its members in the key camps, also is investigating.

Ernest Carson, in charge of the Miami weather bureau, has been questioned by both Worley and Williams. Other witnesses have been trainmen and veterans.

Worley said his inquiry would continue into next week, when officers of the ill-fated camps would be called to testify. Their presence on the keys was so urgently needed today as to forbid summoning them to Miami.

Fingerprint records of many of the veterans reached here from Washington for checking against prints taken by identifications officers before the cremations.

Sheriff Coleman sent word 18 bodies held in coffins at Snake Creek had been sent to lower Matecumbe and with 11 others would be buried in the tiny seaside cemetery there.

That section of the cemetery utilized for the storm victim burials will become federal ground, it was announced by Conrad Van Hyning, Florida emergency relief administrator.

Van Hyning issued instructions full military honors were to be paid the dead at each Matecumbe burial. Graves are to be so marked that later removal of the coffins will be possible if relatives desire.

Sheriff Coleman said every possible identification means was being employed. A card index system giving physical measurements, dental peculiarities and identifying marks is being kept.

John L. Teets, field representative of the American Red Cross, said many thousands of dollars for storm rehabilitation work is needed by that organization and must be raised by public subscription.

Teets said the government has made no grant of money to the Red Cross, which has set a tentative goal of $75,000 for rehabilitation.

The field representative found some confusion existed because of funds allocated to the FERA for rehabilitation in the keys, but Teets said there was no conflict in the programs of the two organizations.

The local contribution roll reached $1,750. There were no available reports on national contributions.

MUTE EVIDENCE OF DEADLY STORM'S FURY

In this wrecked automobile, a man, his wife and their two children perished as the terrific West Indies hurricane roared across the Florida keys. The car was lifted bodily and blown far from the overseas highway connecting Miami and Key West. The number of dead on the keys was estimated at 200 to 500. Many were World war veterans concentrated in rehabilitation camps for employment in building bridges on the overseas highway. (Associated Press Photo)

HARLAN CITIZENS VOTE UNDER GUNS

terror," this mountain area voted quietly, in heavier volume than in August. Only trivial disputes arose and no shots were heard.

There was no recurrence of the turbulence which has in the past spilt blood in Harlan elections and burst out this week from a dynamite bomb planted in the automobile of County Attorney Elmon Middleton, blasting him to death. Seven persons are held for the crime.

Young Lt. Gov. A. B. "Happy" Chandler's struggle to wrest party control from the Laffoon administration faction by whipping its candidate for governor, Thomas S. Rhea, came to peaceful decision in most other parts of Kentucky. Voting was reported light with heavy balloting only in spots. Louisville had normal polling and some friction between agents of the city machine, supporting Rhea, and the county machine, supporting Chandler. Tabulation of the ballots starts Monday.

National guardsmen's trucks rolled into Harlan county last night and early today under the governor's orders to enforce peace but not interfere with the election. Squads of about ten each led by a captain or lieutenant deployed to most of the county's voting places. Lt. Col. John A. Polin, commanding, kept 100 men near the courthouse to answer emergency calls. Fifteen troopers held Wallins under virtual martial law last night. Capt. Diamond E. Perkins said this was done because Wallins had only one night policeman.

The soldiers appeared on friendly terms with Sheriff Theodore R. Middleton, who has been locked in a tooth and nail struggle with the Laffoon administration for months.

The governor blamed him for the "reign of terror" against union miners the governor charged existed in Harlan, citing shootings, dynamiting, shooting into homes and homicides to buttress his charges of lax law enforcement. Middleton retorted with attacks on the administration and denials of disorders.

Adjutant General Henry H. Denhardt, who was indicted after he occupied Harlan on primary day last month, did not appear in Harlan today.

The 30 indicted officers with him were reported left out of today's forces to lessen danger of a clash. General Denhardt was reported to have headquarters at Pineville.

Mrs. Goodson expressed the opinion to officers that the child was taken from the house by a midnight caller when the little girl went to the door to answer a knock.

Burke was taken to Jackson in custody of Chief Cruthirds and two other officers. They quoted the prisoner as admitting attacking the child after they had questioned him for an hour and a half in the coast woods.

The officers reported that a pair of blood-stained trousers were found in Burke's room at Gulfport and said it appeared an attempt had been made to wash stains from the garment.

Up to the time of the arrest of Burke the coast section was swarming with officers engaged in a spirited man-hunt for the attacker. Several other suspects questioned were later released.

Burial Ground Of Dog Is Now Pet Cemetery

WEST AVON, Conn., Sept. 7.—(AP)—Once resting alone, a German shepherd dog named Gray Lady now has as companions in death 29 other dogs, two cats and a canary.

These animals are buried on an acre of wooded land where ten years ago W. J. Hickmott, Jr., dug a grave for Gray Lady.

But friends soon were asking if they, too, could bury their pets on the plot on a slope of Huckleberry hill.

A rough granite boulder stands as a monument to the pets buried there. A bronze plate has this simple inscription:

"Here lie God's Greatest Gift to Man."

Long was vague about it.

"It just means that we'll have a state law to prohibit a federal government representative from violating the federal constitution," he said. "For instance, if the government lays a street in a town, and that's violative of the federal constitution, the law will cover it."

"What would be a violation?" he was asked.

"That would be for a lawyer to say," he answered. "I believe anyone could appeal from the state court to the federal court, however."

The measures designed to help the city of New Orleans meet payrolls would provide for the turning over by the state supervisor of public accounts of city revenues collected by the state to the city commission council for disbursement.

SEAT OF SENATOR IS DECLARED VACANT

BATON ROUGE, La., Sept. 7.—(AP)—The Louisiana senate met in special session tonight and adopted a resolution declaring the seat of Charles A. Byrne, who was recently appointed district attorney of New Orleans vacant, and providing for filling it by appointment of Governor O. K. Allen.

A lone senator, Joseph I. Boudreaux of Abbeville, objected, but the resolution was adopted by a vote of 29 to 1, with only Boudreaux opposing it.

Numerous recent vacancies in the senate have been filled by appointment of Governor Allen despite protest of anti-administrationists that such action is unconstitutional.

The present senate met with apparently only one senator, Boudreaux, opposing Senator Huey P. Long's latest legislative program.

Senator Byrne's desk already bore the name of Nicholas G. Carbajal of New Orleans and the printed roll call also bore his name although the senate has not yet acted on confirmation of the appointment of a successor to Byrne.

The senate went into executive session, confirmed the appointment of Carbajal, an attorney and prominent business man of New Orleans, and then adjourned until 8 p. m. Monday.

21 POINTS ARE CONTAINED IN CALL

BATON ROUGE, La., Sept. 7.—(AP)—Governor O. K. Allen, political ally of Senator Huey P. Long, today called the Louisiana legislature into special session tonight, and reliable sources declared that one of the objects was passage of laws under which Long might continue his fight against the national administration of President Franklin D. Roosevelt.

But Long commented that the session was called for "less important" things than that. He said it was a "Mother Hubbard" session which might pass anything, but in which there was "nothing very important or political" ahead.

Long came here today from New Orleans while legislators were streaming into the city and filling up the hotels. Shortly after his arrival the official call was issued by the governor for 10 o'clock tonight. A five-day session was forecast, the usual session under Long's command in which a bill can be introduced and enacted finally into law under minimum statute limit.

The greatest public interest in the 21-point official call issued by the governor centered on item 17, which authorized the body "to legislate for the preservation and protection of the powers reserved to the state of Louisiana and the people thereof by the tenth amendment to the constitution of the United States."

Asked what that clause meant, Long replied that he did not even know what the tenth amendment to the constitution of the United States was, and said the session would attempt to turn over to New Orleans money collected by the state forces under his rule to pay off salaries of city employes.

The amendment is that which assures preservation to the states all powers not contrarily vested in congress.

Long arrived here today fresh from attacks on the policies of the Roosevelt administration on the senate floor and in public speeches and radio addresses.

At past extraordinary sessions of the state legislature he had laws passed to "prevent expenditure of federal relief funds for political purposes" and to force state board approval of public works administration loans made to local officials, with a jail term the penalty for violation.

Secretary Ickes then told Long that no Louisiana loans or grants would be considered until his "obnoxious" legislative acts were repealed.

As the legislature met the senator was confronted with a report made by Edward M. Bobbert, New Orleans city attorney, showing that lately-passed laws had deprived the city of $1,953,600 in revenues and hope was expressed that some of the city taxes and revenues for New Orleans, now collected by the state, would be returned.

These laws were passed while Long was seeking to get Mayor T. Semmes Walmsley, his political foe, to resign and turn the city over to him. Walmsley refused to resign and declared last night that "Long is on the way to defeat."

Prior to the introduction of bills in the legislature Long declined to go into details on their purposes.

He said there would be a change in existing laws to permit the New Orleans city finance commissioner, A. Miles Pratt, to disburse revenues now collected by the state for city purposes.

He said now that the money was being turned over to city boards, "we are reasonably assured they will spend it properly."

In his earlier comment about intended legislation Long said "there'll be no politics, nothing important regarding the national administration."

But close associates of the senator later said that it would be "a big story" when the subject of "preservation of the powers reserved to the state of Louisiana" under the tenth amendment comes up.

Section 8 of the official call authorizes the body to "enact legislation relative to primary and general elections and other political subdivisions."

Enemies of Long have charged that he would delay the senatorial and congressional election next January until after the national conventions, but Long said today, "We aren't going to change any election dates."

"Why should we?" he asked. "We're going to win the next election and four or five after that." He said it was proposed to pass a law to prohibit the changing of precincts within 90 days before a primary election.

He declined to comment on another item in the call "relative to the selection of judges to succeed justices of the supreme court in the trial of causes where justices of the supreme court are recused."

The 21 sections of the official legislative call deal generally with subjects ranging from notarial commissions to the registration of arms and weapons.

Many of the items deal with supervision of local police and governing bodies, the judiciary, educationa, highways and elections.

Item 11 authorizes legislation "relative to the police power of the state; to protect and promote the public peace, safety and health; to provide for the registration of arms and weapons."

Another would permit amendment of the state debt moratorium law which suspends laws relating to the enforcement of debts.

league sub-committee of five nations strove to find a way out of war.

The sub-committee after a brief morning session issued a communique stating that it: "Relies on the governments concerned to refrain from any act that might compromise efforts."

As the week ended, it appeared the league's machinery had made but small progress on the steep and slippery road toward an Italo-Ethiopian solution.

Optimists, however, could point out that the peacemakers had at least arrived at the formation of a small committee charged with continuation of the delicate task of conciliation. This responsibility is shouldered by representatives of Great Britain, France, Poland, Turkey and Spain.

The communique today is far from being a mutual pledge not to resort to armed force, however, which some delegates hoped the council would demand from Italy and Ethiopia.

This fact emphasizes how completely Italy has preserved "freedom of action" toward Ethiopia which its spokesman, Baron Pompeo Aloisi, frankly warned the council would not be surrendered.

The departure of Premier Laval of France for Paris and Anthony Eden of Britain for the Swiss countryside for the week-end did not end rumors of various compromise solutions about to be offered to Italy. These included an offer to Italy of "international" occupation of Ethiopia, and Italian air bases in Ethiopia.

"For over eight years I had been miserable with kidney trouble so bad that I could not find anything to even relieve the severe pains in my back," continued Mr. Gaster. "I was compelled to get up at all hours of the night and got but little sleep or rest. I was worn-out continually and lacked the energy to do anything. Soon rheumatism developed and the pains in my limbs and joints crippled me until I could hardly get about. I actually thought my days of usefulness were at an end. I tried all kinds of medicines from all parts of the country—but met only with repeated failure, in spite of the hundreds of dollars I spent. I was of the opinion to give up all hope of ever getting well again when I suddenly realized that practically everyone was talking of this new Gly-Cas and of the wonders it had accomplished throughout this section, so I decided to put this new remedy to a severe test on my own case. It proved to be the very medicine I should have had years before."

"Gly-Cas actually surprised me with its quick action," said Mr. Gaster. "The pains left my back almost at once and my kidneys began to function normally again. The poisons of many years standing were easily eliminated and my entire system seemed to become toned from this new Gly-Cas. I began to get natural sleep and my bowels were regulated, but the easy way in which Gly-Cas took hold of my awful rheumatism was astonishing. Within two weeks I could hardly realize the way I had suffered with the dreadful pain and constant aching of rheumatism, it had vanished entirely. I am now enjoying the best health I have had in eight years and would not take anything for the wonderful accomplishments of Gly-Cas in my case. MALARIA NOW PREVALENT!

Kill the Disease in the Blood!

Malaria mosquitos are flying thick this year and biting right and left. Many persons are being infected and going down with the dread disease.

Be on your guard! Treated promptly and intelligently, Malaria can be quickly checked and you won't have to go through the terrible suffering—the teeth-chattering chills and the burning fever.

At the first sign of any attack of Malaria, adopt these intelligent measures.

Watch Diet!

Eat light foods, preferably liquids, such as fruit juices, milk, soups, etc. Keep your bowels open by using a mild cathartic if necessary.

After meals, and before going to bed, take a tablespoonful of Grove's Tasteless Chill Tonic. (Children smaller doses, as the directions say.)

Grove's Tasteless Chill Tonic is a noted remedy for Malaria. It contains quinidine or tasteless quinine, and iron. The two—the tasteless quinine and the iron—are contained in the form of a pleasant syrup that even children take willingly.

Quinine, as you know, is the only specific for Malaria and in Grove's Tasteless Chill Tonic you get quinine in tasteless form, without the bitterness. Combined with the tasteless quinine, you get IRON!

Grove's Tasteless Chill Tonic is not a mere palliative. It is a definite treatment for Malaria and the accompanying chills and fever! It attacks the infection in the blood and that is the only way to get rid of the disease.

Besides its remedial action, Grove's Tasteless Chill Tonic has a tonic effect of great value in overcoming the ravages of Malaria. You pick up much faster.

Taken during the Malaria season, Grove's Tasteless Chill Tonic is an excellent preventive measure. It will do much to combat infection. Many take a tablespoonful or two a day as a protection.

Play Safe!

Grove's Tasteless Chill Tonic is no new or untried preparation. It has been in use for nearly half a century and its harmlessness has been proven. This is a point to remember when you hear about, or are offered, some "magical" new preparation. The "cure" may be worse than the disease.

Grove's Tasteless Chill Tonic may be given even to little children—that's how harmless it is! Keep that in mind when taking a medicine for Malaria.

All drug stores sell Grove's Tasteless Chill Tonic in two sizes—50c and $1.00. The dollar size is by far the more economical. Adopt the course of wisdom and get a bottle today.

FUNERAL PYRES DESTROY BODIES IN STORM AREAS

knocked together pine boxes. The bodies were stacked high, layers of driftwood separating the boxes.

National guardsmen fired three rounds over the mound. Clergymen said the last ties.

A pole, a bundle of flaming cotton waste affixed to its end, was run into the gasoline saturated driftwood at the base of the pyre. Flames shot high into the air.

The workers, carrying their cans of gasoline, trudged southward into the desolated area, toward the next place where bodies had been collected.

Final plans were whipped into shape for tomorrow's memorial services here for the veteran dead.

The services will begin at 7 p. m., in Miami's palm-set Bayfront park amphitheater, where a little more than two years ago an assassin fired five shots at Mr. Roosevelt, then president-elect.

Every officer of the nation's armed services who is here and can be spared from emergency duty in the keys will be present.

There was comment today from officials conducting two of the three separate investigations to determine whether 716 veterans were allowed to remain in three Matecumbe camps through negligence.

Governor Dave Sholtz, whose investigation is being directed by State Attorney G. V. Worley of Miami, said: "I'm not looking for a goat."

He was sure that if negligence entered into the disaster, "it certainly was not criminal, and I am sure no one could be blamed."

Aubrey Williams, assistant to Harry Hopkins, federal relief administrator, commented that as far as his investigation had progressed "I find no basis for disciplinary action against anyone."

"It is hard to arrive at a conclusion as to whether any branch of the federal government can be blamed for the key disaster," said Williams. The FERA spent approximately $250,000 in construction and maintenance of the three veterans rehabilitation corps camps since the first veterans were sent last December to build a bridge across one water gap in the overseas highway from the Florida mainland to Key West.

Williams, after questioning witnesses concerning weather reports and the special train which was caught in the hurricane, said:

"I am forced to the conclusion as far as my investigation has gone that the people of Miami do not take hurricane warnings seriously. I presume it is because of the cry of 'Wolf—Wolf' that has been raised here so often."

Williams said he would not attempt to fix responsibility, but to place the facts on record for transmission to President Roosevelt.

The American Legion, on behalf of its members in the key camps, also is investigating.

Ernest Carson, in charge of the Miami weather bureau, has been questioned by both Worley and Williams. Other witnesses have been trainmen and veterans.

Worley said his inquiry would continue into next week, when officers of the ill-fated camps would be called to testify. Their presence on the keys was so urgently needed today as to forbid summoning them to Miami.

Fingerprint records of many of the veterans reached here from Washington for checking against prints taken by identifications officers before the cremations.

Sheriff Coleman sent word 18 bodies held in coffins at Snake Creek had been sent to lower Matecumbe and with 11 others would be buried in the tiny seaside cemetery there.

That section of the cemetery utilized for the storm victim burials will become federal ground, it was announced by Conrad Van Hyning, Florida emergency relief administrator.

Van Hyning issued instructions full military honors were to be paid the dead at each Matecumbe burial. Graves are to be so marked that later removal of the coffins will be possible if relatives desire.

Sheriff Coleman said every possible identification means was being employed. A card index system giving physical measurements, dental peculiarities and identifying marks is being kept.

John L. Teets, field representative of the American Red Cross, said many thousands of dollars for storm rehabilitation work is needed by that organization and must be raised by public subscription.

Teets said the government has made no grant of money to the Red Cross, which has set a tentative goal of $75,000 for rehabilitation.

The field representative found some confusion existed because of funds allocated to the FERA for rehabilitation in the keys, but Teets said there was no conflict in the programs of the two organizations.

The local contribution roll reached $1,750. There were no available reports on national contributions.

MUTE EVIDENCE OF DEADLY STORM'S FURY

In this wrecked automobile, a man, his wife and their two children perished as the terrific West Indies hurricane roared across the Florida keys. The car was lifted bodily and blown far from the overseas highway connecting Miami and Key West. The number of dead on the keys was estimated at 200 to 500. Many were World war veterans concentrated in rehabilitation camps for employment in building bridges on the overseas highway. (Associated Press Photo) terror," this mountain area voted quietly, in heavier volume than in August. Only trivial disputes arose and no shots were heard.

HARLAN CITIZENS VOTE UNDER GUNS

There was no recurrence of the turbulence which has in the past spilt blood in Harlan elections and burst out this week from a dynamite bomb planted in the automobile of County Attorney Elmon Middleton, blasting him to death. Seven persons are held for the crime.

Young Lt. Gov. A. B. "Happy" Chandler's struggle to wrest party control from the Laffoon administration faction by whipping its candidate for governor, Thomas S. Rhea, came to peaceful decision in most other parts of Kentucky. Voting was reported light with heavy balloting only in spots. Louisville had normal polling and some friction between agents of the city machine, supporting Rhea, and the county machine, supporting Chandler. Tabulation of the ballots starts Monday.

National guardsmen's trucks rolled into Harlan county last night and early today under the governor's orders to enforce peace but not interfere with the election. Squads of about ten each led by a captain or lieutenant deployed to most of the county's voting places. Lt. Col. John A. Polin, commanding, kept 100 men near the courthouse to answer emergency calls. Fifteen troopers held Wallins under virtual martial law last night. Capt. Diamond E. Perkins said this was done because Wallins had only one night policeman.

The soldiers appeared on friendly terms with Sheriff Theodore R. Middleton, who has been locked in a tooth and nail struggle with the Laffoon administration for months.

The governor blamed him for the "reign of terror" against union miners the governor charged existed in Harlan, citing shootings, dynamiting, shooting into homes and homicides to buttress his charges of lax law enforcement. Middleton retorted with attacks on the administration and denials of disorders.

Adjutant General Henry H. Denhardt, who was indicted after he occupied Harlan on primary day last month, did not appear in Harlan today.

The 30 indicted officers with him were reported left out of today's forces to lessen danger of a clash. General Denhardt was reported to have headquarters at Pineville.

The officers reported that a pair of blood-stained trousers were found in Burke's room at Gulfport and said it appeared an attempt had been made to wash stains from the garment.

Up to the time of the arrest of Burke the coast section was swarming with officers engaged in a spirited man-hunt for the attacker. Several other suspects questioned were later released.

Long was vague about it.

"It just means that we'll have a state law to prohibit a federal government representative from violating the federal constitution," he said. "For instance, if the government lays a street in a town, and that's violative of the federal constitution, the law will cover it."

"What would be a violation?" he was asked.

"That would be for a lawyer to say," he answered. "I believe anyone could appeal from the state court to the federal court, however."

The measures designed to help the city of New Orleans meet payrolls would provide for the turning over by the state supervisor of public accounts of city revenues collected by the state to the city commission council for disbursement.

SEAT OF SENATOR IS DECLARED VACANT

BATON ROUGE, La., Sept. 7.—(AP)—The Louisiana senate met in special session tonight and adopted a resolution declaring the seat of Charles A. Byrne, who was recently appointed district attorney of New Orleans vacant, and providing for filling it by appointment of Governor O. K. Allen.

A lone senator, Joseph I. Boudreaux of Abbeville, objected, but the resolution was adopted by a vote of 29 to 1, with only Boudreaux opposing it.

MALARIA NOW PREVALENT!

Kill the Disease in the Blood!

Malaria mosquitos are flying thick this year and biting right and left. Many persons are being infected and going down with the dread disease.

Be on your guard! Treated promptly and intelligently, Malaria can be quickly checked and you won't have to go through the terrible suffering—the teeth-chattering chills and the burning fever.

At the first sign of any attack of Malaria, adopt these intelligent measures.

Watch Diet!

Eat light foods, preferably liquids, such as fruit juices, milk, soups, etc. Keep your bowels open by using a mild cathartic if necessary.

After meals, and before going to bed, take a tablespoonful of Grove's Tasteless Chill Tonic. (Children smaller doses, as the directions say.)

Grove's Tasteless Chill Tonic is a noted remedy for Malaria. It contains quinidine or tasteless quinine, and iron. The two—the tasteless quinine and the iron—are contained in the form of a pleasant syrup that even children take willingly.

Quinine, as you know, is the only specific for Malaria and in Grove's Tasteless Chill Tonic you get quinine in tasteless form, without the bitterness. Combined with the tasteless quinine, you get IRON!

Grove's Tasteless Chill Tonic is not a mere palliative. It is a definite treatment for Malaria and the accompanying chills and fever! It attacks the infection in the blood and that is the only way to get rid of the disease.

Besides its remedial action, Grove's Tasteless Chill Tonic has a tonic effect of great value in overcoming the ravages of Malaria. You pick up much faster.

Taken during the Malaria season, Grove's Tasteless Chill Tonic is an excellent preventive measure. It will do much to combat infection. Many take a tablespoonful or two a day as a protection.

Play Safe!

Grove's Tasteless Chill Tonic is no new or untried preparation. It has been in use for nearly half a century and its harmlessness has been proven. This is a point to remember when you hear about, or are offered, some "magical" new preparation. The "cure" may be worse than the disease.

Grove's Tasteless Chill Tonic may be given even to little children—that's how harmless it is! Keep that in mind when taking a medicine for Malaria.

All drug stores sell Grove's Tasteless Chill Tonic in two sizes—50c and $1.00. The dollar size is by far the more economical. Adopt the course of wisdom and get a bottle today.

CARDINALS AND CUBS WIN AS REDS SINK GIANTS

CARDS PILE UP EARLY LEAD TO DEFEAT BRAVES

Paul Dean Touched For 12 Hits But Wins Behind Slugging Mates

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 7.—(AP)—The world champion Cardinals swept their four-game series with Boston by drubbing the last-place Braves 8 to 5 today for their 6th consecutive triumph.

Joe Medwick

The pace-setting Cardinals maintained their two-and-one-half game lead over the Chicago Cubs and increased their first-place margin over the Giants to four games.

Paul Dean was hit freely for 12 safeties, but the heavy artillery of his teammates enabled the younger member of the first family of baseball to register his 17th win of the season and swell his and Dizzy's total to forty-one, only 8 victories behind their combined 1934 record.

Joe Medwick, clouting St. Louis outfielder, drove in two runs with three singles to raise his season's hit total to 199, while Wally Berger, Boston centerfielder, led a futile Braves' rally in the eighth with a home run—his first of the year—that scored three of the visitors' runs.

After scoring once in the opening inning and adding another tally in the second on fluke plays, the Cardinals put the game away early with a 4-run drive in the third.

A double play nipped a brief one-run Boston rally in the fifth and, except for the short-lived threat in the eighth, the younger Dean coasted to victory behind his commanding lead.

PIRATES SHADE DODGERS

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 7.—(AP)—The Pirates came from behind today to make it three straight over the Brooklyn Dodgers with a 5 to 4 victory in their final clash of the season. The teams divided the year's 22 games.

Earl Grace's home run after Gus Suhr had doubled in the sixth inning produced the winning tallies. Jim Weaver, who started for the Bucs, was driven out in the second but Guy Bush checked the Dodgers with one more tally to earn his tenth victory of the season. Arky Vaughan, Pirate shortstop and league-leading batter, had a perfect day at the plate with four hits to raise his average to .402.

AIN'T IT SO!

Oftimes we bemoan the fact that we're off the main stem where something's happening all the time, but aren't you glad you weren't in New York the night Jack Doyle and Buddie Baer waltzed through their number? Buddie undoubtedly deserves a bout with Kingfish Levinsky now. That is, as soon as the Kingfish brushes up on his fish yodeling so he can match tenors with Maxie's little brother.

Suppose you had picked the Giants and Yankees to win their respective races? Suggestions will be noted in the order they are received.

Let's get to pleasanter subjects. . . . If you're a football fan and they'll let you in, drop over to Ruston and listen in on Alvin Bell's interpretation of the grid rules today. It will be well worth your time. . . . And if you're a baseball fan, go up to Sterlington and watch the All-Stars battle the Engineers. That will be a swell way to spend the afternoon, too.

Have you seen the new Intercollegiate Football Pictorial? There are lots of pictures of football stars and interesting stories by Bernie Bierman, Andy Kerr, Tiny Thornhill and other football authorities. . . . And while we're plugging for the mags, Frank Menke writes us that he's going to offer his All Sports Record Book at a bargain price shortly. It usually sells for a buck. And it's got just about all the useful information you'd want about any sport.

Have you ever seen football coaches so optimistic? Bernie Moore says his L. S. U. team is in great shape and should go places. Ted Cox is all smiles. A story in today's paper says Red Swanson believes Southeastern has the best team in its history. And Jim Malone says his Northeast Center eleven can whip any "greatest" team Red ever saw. Yessir, what's happened to the Gil Dobies?

EARL IS THROUGH

The news that the career of Earl Combs is about ended is received with genuine regret. A great fellow and a great ball player, Combs surprised everybody when he recovered sufficiently from his accident in St. Louis last year to play again. But the Kentucky Colonel is laid up again and it's feared his number's up this time. . . . Wally Moses, the former Monroe player who clicked in a big way with Connie Mack's Athletics this year, also rammed into a brick wall chasing a fly but he only broke his wrist and should be back next season. Who said outfielding was the easiest job on a ball team?

The new transparent "river runt" is said to be the "catchingest" bait on the market now. Elmer Meredith told us he made a fine catch with it the other morning. It's made in both under-waters and floaters. . . . Plans are under way for the organization of a professional softball league in Denver next year. Why doesn't someone engineer a softball series between the Masons and West Monroe Kiwanis, winners of the Twilight and City leagues?

Gilly Campbell recently kicked because the Sporting News carried a set of averages showing that he had made 15 errors during the current season. . . . A recent visitor was Bruce Hayes, veteran scout for the New Orleans Pelicans. Bruce is the most entertaining baseball man we know. . . . Speaking of scouts, Charley Barrett writes that he remembers with pleasure his associations here. With the Cards apparently heading for another world series, Charley should be in clover.

Tech's new stadium has about been completed. A new stadium and a hustling football squad have widened Eddie McLanes' smile. . . . A month ago the bugs were riding Pie Traynor. Now they're calling him another miracle man. What is more fickle than a baseball fan? . . . More than 200 college gridders of last year will be wearing pro football livery this season. There may be some all-Americans among them, but you never heard of most of the names.

Max Baer's father hopes his son will never win the heavyweight title again. He figures Maxie will return to the night life he dearly loves if he re-captures the crown. . . . Alabama has lost Don Hutson, Dixie Howell and Bill Lee, three all-Americans, yet the Tide is a hot favorite to win the Southeastern championship.

DO YOU REMEMBER?—

One Year Ago Today—Paul W. Hyatt, of Brooklyn, set a new world outboard record of 53.444 miles an hour as he won the Class F eastern amateur title at Middletown, Conn.

Five Years Ago Today—Bill Terry, Giants' first baseman, led both major leagues in batting with a mark of .405.

Ten Years Ago Today—Arne Borg, of Sweden, bettered two world records when he covered 500 yards in 5 minutes 38.1 seconds, and 500 meters 8.4 seconds at Stockholm.

VALLEY SERIES RESUMED TODAY

All-Stars And Engineers Battle Again At Sterlington Park

The Ouachita Valley league All-Stars, a picked squad from five teams of the circuit, will attempt to make it two straight over the champion Sterlington Engineers when the teams meet again at Sterlington this afternoon at 3:30 o'clock. The All-Stars won the first game Friday, 4 to 1.

Manager Duncan, of Sterlington, however, has different ideas about it and will send Still, his ace hurler, against the Stars. Still, diminutive former Louisiana Tech pitching celebrity, won 13 games during the regular season, while losing but two. His mound work was largely responsible for Sterlington sweeping both halves of the Ouachita Valley league race.

Manager Herb Steed, pilot of the All-Stars, will send either Mutt Pittard, of Swartz, or Cary Phillips, of Brown, against the league champs. Both were effective hurlers during the season and Manager Steed believes either can stretch the All-Stars' winning streak to two this afternoon.

Both teams boast some heavy hitters and it will take some tight hurling to keep either team in check this afternoon. Manager Duncan believes his sluggers will break loose against anybody the All-Stars trot out today and the Engineers are confident that they will even the count.

Following today's game, the scene of activities in the five-game series will move to Brownville, where the two teams play at the Brown Paper mill park Wednesday. Next Friday afternoon they go to Swartz and the series will end Sunday at Sterlington.

27 PLAYERS OUT FOR WISNER HIGH ELEVEN

WISNER, La., Sept. 7.—(Special)—Twenty-seven football players reported to Coach Peel and Faulk for their initial workout here Friday afternoon.

From all indications, according to both coaches, the Bulldogs this year will consist of plenty of man power. The line will average approximately 170 pounds.

The schedule of games for this year has not been completed but will be announced at an early date.

EVANGELINE LEAGUE

JEANERETTE WINS

JEANERETTE, La., Sept. 7.—(AP)—Jeanerette's powerful Blues were off to a flying start today in the series with the Lafayette White Sox to determine the championship of the Evangeline league, winning the opener handily 9 to 0, behind the four hit hurling of Clausen Vines.

The Blues, who led the league by a wide margin during the regular season, pounded two Sox pitchers for 14 blows and had the game safely tucked away after the third inning.

Manager Ivy Griffin led the locals' attack with three timely blows, including a triple and a homer.

Jeanerette hopped on the offerings of Segrest, starting Sox moundsman, for three tallies in the third, added another in the sixth and topped off the spree with a five run barrage off Siragusa in the eighth.

The Sox never seriously threatened. The four hits garnered off Vines were scattered and he was given sparkling support afield by his mates.

The teams will clash in the second game of the series tomorrow afternoon at Lafayette, lay off Monday and resume play here Tuesday.

Jeanerette entered the playoff finals by trouncing Opelousas in four straight, while the Sox downed the Alexandria Aces.

Score by innings:

Lafayette	000	000	000—0 4 1
Jeanerette	003	001	05x—9 14 2

S. E. C. COACHES HIGHLY PLEASED WITH PROGRESS

Some 700 Football Candidates Prepare For Heavy Scrimmages

ATLANTA, Ga., Sept. 7.—(AP)—Satisfaction bounded out of practically all football camps in the Southeastern conference today as coaches made ready to start the real grind Monday.

Some 700 candidates, closing their first week of training, prepared for heavy scrimmages next week in anticipation of another gala campaign.

With heavier grid togs replacing track trunks, coaches will continue blocking, tackling and group work, in all their rougher phases, starting Monday, and by mid-week virtually all will be in the midst of lively scrimmages. Some already have held light skirmishes.

Bernie Moore at Louisiana State, Frank Thomas at Alabama, Maj Ralph Sasse at Mississippi State, Jack Meagher at Auburn, Ray Morrison at Vanderbilt and Ed Walker at Mississippi were highly pleased with the progress their squads made. Ole Miss sounded the keynote, indicating its best physical trim in years.

Meanwhile, word came from Vandy that Coach Morrison is preparing his newly acquired Commodores for an aerial circus around Dixie. The Vandy mentor, whose S. M. U. elevens gained national prominence for their intricate forwards and laterals, spent the entire week on offensive plays.

L. S. U. in view of a tough opener with Rice, pushed its work at a fast pace with all Tigers except Tinsley, star end, in fine shape. Alabama was worried somewhat by injuries to Paul Bryant, another star wingman, and Lewis Bostwick, promising sophomore guard.

Ted Cox has one of the largest squads in Tulane history, numbering 62, and Capt. Barney Hintz is pleasing his coaches with long-distance punting. Wiltz Ott, soph quarter depended upon to do much kicking for the Greenies also, is on the sidelines with an injury, however.

An indication of serious workouts came from Florida, where Dutch Stanley rushed the 'Gators through three sessions today. Several were late reporting because of the storm, however. Mississippi State, apparently satisfied with offensive maneuvers, is working overtime to bolster a defensive weakness shown in early practices.

Sewanee, like Vanderbilt, gave much attention to its aerial game. Hek Clark was pleased with the place kicking ability of Rush, halfback, and Colmore, tackle. Georgia and Georgia Tech also polished up their kickers. Harry Mehre at Athens was pleased with the punting of Alf Anderson, but Coach Alexander appears somewhat gloomy.

Chet Wynne, with a small squad at Kentucky, and Maj Bill Britton, with a large turnout at Tennessee, also finished the week with brisk sessions. Coach Wynne is spending his time building an attack around the great Bert Johnson.

Tennessee is in good condition with exception of Doe Silberman, 214-pound tackle, J. T. Craig, soph quarter, and Sam Sharpe, new halfback. Phil Dickens has gladdened hearts of Vol followers with work in punting and passing drills. Coach Britton felt certain Dickens would be able to play this year.

Kentucky held its first scrimmage today at Greentree farm, Coach Wynne chiefly seeking replacement for Joe Rupert, an end. Jim Goforth, a soph, may solve the problem.

FORMER STAR DIES

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., Sept. 7.—(AP)—Phil Magevney, former star center on the University of Chattanooga football team, died of double pneumonia at a hospital here today. He was a native of Memphis, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh M. Magevney.

SOFTBALL TEAMS MEET

NAVIN 'GAMBLING' DETROIT WILL WIN

DETROIT, Sept. 7.—(AP)—Frank J. Navin has $55,000 that says his Detroit Tigers will be in the world series next month, but, don't try to get him to admit that the hustling Bengals have anything like a strangle-hold on the American league flag.

The Tiger club president isn't willing to bet the $55,000 that his club wins the pennant. But he is laying that sum "on the line," at the rate of $300 an hour for improvements to Navin field necessary for the staging of baseball's annual classic.

"It's a gamble we have to make, we can't wait any longer," he said today. "I'm not saying the Tigers will win the American league flag—that's not certain until they're mathematically the winners. Too many things can happen in baseball to say a team is a certain winner before it actually is."

Navin said it cost the Detroit Baseball company approximately $65,000 to build extra bleachers, condition the field and make other improvements for the 1934 world series.

THEY GROW 'EM BIG AT VANDY

Speaking of football poundage, Vanderbilt will have much to say when the boys start the annual Southeastern conference race. Just for example, here's "Baby" Buford Ray, 270-pound tackle, taking a bit of setting up exercises by hoisting Sam Brown, 230-pound guard, and Rann Throgmorton, a tackle who tips the scales at 220. Ouachita To Have Strong Line And Light Backfield

First Week's Practice Reveals Shortage Of Experienced Backs

After one week of hard work under the tutorship of Vernon "Lefty" Haynes, former Tulane end, who has begun his first year as coach of the Ouachita parish high school eleven, it is evident that the Lions will have a huge, powerful line and a light, practically inexperienced backfield of undetermined qualities.

Almost constant drilling with the squad during each day of the past week has practically convinced Coach Haynes that he will have a strong and experienced line to carry the Ouachita colors, but the backfield situation is far below par, and, at this time, is causing most concern in the building of the new machine.

A practically all-veteran line, averaging 170 pounds per man, is the bright spot of the team, and the hope of Ouachita fans. The backfield, on the other hand, is light, averaging hardly more than 145 pounds per man, and there is a decided lack of experienced reserve material.

However, there are a dozen or more new backfield aspirants available for Coach Haynes to select from and he almost assuredly will find at least two, or maybe three, in this bunch who will be able to add to the team any needed qualities.

Almost to a man, the leading contenders for the line positions are members of last year's team. The only absentee is Monroe Trimble, end, who was lost through graduation.

Earl Cobb, Jack Warren and John Renwick, all capable and experienced, are working for the terminal posts again, and all three will no doubt get to share the wingmen's burdens. Cobb tips the scales at 162; Warren weighs 155 and Renwick hits around 160 pounds. James Bates, up from the Ouachita freshman team, is another candidate for an end position, along with Ted Potter and Russell Jordan, two new prospects.

The tackle jobs are without a doubt sewed up by Billy Trimble, 185-pound veteran, and the 190-pound F. C. Eason, providing the two continue with the work they have been doing this week. Floyd Van, a 155-pound lad from Arkansas, is trying hard for a tackle berth and appears to be the best prospect of the new crop. J. C. Black and Bill Gattis, two boys who did well on the freshman eleven, are also seeking recognition as tackles. Jule Parks and Albert Gerson, newcomers, complete the list of candidates for the tackle positions.

The veteran Wheeler Mitchell leads the race for a guard selection and is the only letterman trying for a guard spot. He weighs 185 pounds. Moise Peters, a 165-pound newcomer, is making a strong bid for a guard place but is being pushed for the berth by Bernard Van, another green recruit, and Clyde Roye, who was on the reserve list last season. C. S. Barrett is another guard candidate.

The 1934 pair of Rudolph Vandenburg and Joe Butler, centers, are back to handle the pivot duties. Vandenburg, at 160 pounds, is the most likely candidate for the position, but Butler, 145, who saw plenty of action last year, is capable of doing just as well. James Brothers, who centered for the freshman squad last fall, is a new addition to the center roster.

The backfield crop is practically devoid of experienced material, with the exception of Sol Mayer, Eddie Bowles and Bob Staples, and Staples has had no backfield experience.

On the shoulders of stocky little 145-pound Sol Mayer will probably fall the mantle of quarterback, while Bowles, 134, is trying for his old halfback position.

Staples, who was one of the best linemen on the Lion squad last fall, has graduated to the backfield, where he will try to fill the shoes of his brother, Truman Staples, at fullback. Bob weighs 165 pounds, somewhat lighter than his line-smashing brother, but he is being depended on to give the backfield added power.

Harvey Gregg, 140-pound reserve from last year, Alvin Fleming, 132-pound newcomer, and W. B. Stewart, 155, up from the freshman team, are the most promising of the new prospects. One of them is almost assured, from the present outlook, of getting in the starting lineup. Gregg got a taste of what it was all about last season with the Lions. Stewart was a star of the freshman squad, while Fleming is showing up exceptionally well for an inexperienced man, although it is yet to be seen what he will be able to do under fire.

Other candidates for the backfield are Watson Strong, James Peters, Wilbur Usrey, Norman McGinnis, Durwood Cann, Norrell Sawyer, Fred Newton, James McQuiller and Lucian Priou, Jr. Indications were yesterday

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 7.—(AP)—Mickey Cochrane's dynamiting Tigers smeared the Athletics in both ends of a doubleheader today, winning the first game 9 to 7 and then rubbing it in with a 15 to 1 conquest.

Elden Auker

A six-run Detroit rally in the fifth, aided by Marvin Owen's homer with two on, featured the first game along with Jimmy Foxx's pair of four-baggers, but the real hero of the day was Pitcher Elden Auker with his nightcap twirling.

He knocked at the door of the hall of fame by hurling perfect ball for seven innings, allowing no Mackmen to reach first. Then in the eighth, Foxx touched him for a double and McNair garnered a single to spoil his no-hit chances.

Twelve thousand fans saw the double bill, which lengthened the Tiger lead over the New York Yankees in the American league standings.

The first game pitching victory went to Tommy Bridges, his 19th of the season. Only Foxx, who brought his season's homer total to 31, could do anything consistently against Bridges' elbowing.

In the nightcap, it was Detroit all the way, with Connie Mack taking a chance, and losing, on Bill Dietrich and Rookie Turbeville.

Every man on the Detroit lineup hit safely at least once in the second game, and the Tigers scored in six of the nine innings. Cochrane and Owen each got three hits in four trips to the plate, Mickey connecting for a trio of doubles, while Gehringer registered four for six chances.

Baer Realizes It's A 'Do Or Die' Attempt In Battle With Louis

By John J. Romano

Max Baer does not hesitate to blow his own horn. There is nothing the Californian likes better than an audience to get him started on a long-winded, sarcastic tirade against his knockers and disparagement of his opponent's ability. It so happens that Max knows he will be on the spot when he faces Joe Louis at the Yankee stadium on the twenty-fourth of the month, and the things some folks have said about an abrupt trip to the canvas has nettled him more than anything that was ever said about him during his entire career.

Max cannot understand why he should be such an easy sucker for the negro's punching.

"Sure Louis belted out Carnera and Levinsky. But who softened them up? The Italian and the Kingfish never got over the hammering I gave them. When they went in the ring they were scared to death. Here is one guy who won't be scared stiff when the bell rings. If anyone is scared, it will be the other guy."

Baer points out that he has met some punchers in his time, notably Max Schmeling and the late Ernie Schaaf. He has never been knocked out and for that matter has never been on the floor. The only time he came close to taking a count was when he slipped on the floor in his fight with Frankie Campbell, which, incidentally, ended in the death of Dolph Camilli's brother.

Withstood Hardest

If there was the slightest flaw in Baer's courage to stand up under fire the first fight between Max and Schaaf and the Californian against Schmeling would have brought it out.

Schaaf was a hard, punching hitter. His left hook was his best blow. Time after time he landed solidly on Baer's jaw and while Max showed some effect from the blows, he walked steadily in and returned a little better than he received.

In the first round of the Schmeling fight Baer was hit a solid smash on the chin and it looked as though he would go down and call it a day. Instead, the amazing Californian actually laughed in the German's face and brazenly dared him to do it again. Schmeling forced the pace because that was the only way he knew how to fight. But it was noticeable that he would not shoot the right, and when Baer followed a left with a round house right Schmeling went to the floor and actually turned his back on his foe rather than risk another blow from the man who dared laugh off his pet blow. That one instance was probably the reason Schmeling did not care to risk a return engagement with Baer last month.

Hands In Perfect Shape

Baer's saving grace is complete confidence in his wallop and ability to absorb a punch without going down. He feels that if his antagonist cannot floor him in a bad way, he can come back with his fists and turn defeat into victory.

The way he has been hammering the heav

CARDINALS AND CUBS WIN AS REDS SINK GIANTS

CARDS PILE UP EARLY LEAD TO DEFEAT BRAVES

Paul Dean Touched For 12 Hits But Wins Behind Slugging Mates

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 7.—(AP)—The world champion Cardinals swept their four-game series with Boston by drubbing the last-place Braves 8 to 5 today for their 6th consecutive triumph.

Joe Medwick

The pace-setting Cardinals maintained their two-and-one-half game lead over the Chicago Cubs and increased their first-place margin over the Giants to four games.

Paul Dean was hit freely for 12 safeties, but the heavy artillery of his teammates enabled the younger member of the first family of baseball to register his 17th win of the season and swell his and Dizzy's total to forty-one, only 8 victories behind their combined 1934 record.

Joe Medwick, clouting St. Louis outfielder, drove in two runs with three singles to raise his season's hit total to 199, while Wally Berger, Boston centerfielder, led a futile Braves' rally in the eighth with a home run—his 31st of the year—that scored three of the visitors' runs.

After scoring once in the opening inning and adding another tally in the second on fluke plays, the Cardinals put the game away early with a 4-run drive in the third.

A double play nipped a brief one-run Boston rally in the fifth and, except for the short-lived threat in the eighth, the younger Dean coasted to victory behind his commanding lead.

PIRATES SHADE DODGERS

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 7.—(AP)—The Pirates came from behind today to make it three straight over the Brooklyn Dodgers with a 5 to 4 victory in their final clash of the season. The teams divided the year's 22 games.

Earl Grace's home run after Gus Suhr had doubled in the sixth inning produced the winning tallies. Jim Weaver, who started for the Bucs, was driven out in the second but Guy Bush checked the Dodgers with one more tally to earn his tenth victory of the season. Arky Vaughan, Pirate shortstop and league-leading batter, had a perfect day at the plate with four hits to raise his average to .402.

AIN'T IT SO!

Oftimes we bemoan the fact that we're off the main stem where something's happening all the time, but aren't you glad you weren't in New York the night Jack Doyle and Buddie Baer waltzed through their number? Buddie undoubtedly deserves a bout with Kingfish Levinsky now. That is, as soon as the Kingfish brushes up on his fish yodeling so he can match tenors with Maxie's little brother.

Suppose you had picked the Giants and Yankees to win their respective races? Suggestions will be noted in the order they are received.

Let's get to pleasanter subjects. . . . If you're a football fan and they'll let you in, drop over to Ruston and listen in on Alvin Bell's interpretation of the grid rules today. It will be well worth your time. . . . And if you're a baseball fan, go up to Sterlington and watch the All-Stars battle the Engineers. That will be a swell way to spend the afternoon, too.

Have you seen the new Intercollegiate Football Pictorial? There are lots of pictures of football stars and interesting stories by Bernie Bierman, Andy Kerr, Tiny Thornhill and other football authorities. . . . And while we're plugging for the mags, Frank Menke writes us that he's going to offer his All Sports Record Book at a bargain price shortly. It usually sells for a buck. And it's got just about all the useful information you'd want about any sport.

Have you ever seen football coaches so optimistic? Bernie Moore says his L. S. U. team is in great shape and should go places. Ted Cox is all smiles. A story in today's paper says Red Swanson believes Southeastern has the best team in its history. And Jim Malone says his Northeast Center eleven can whip any "greatest" team Red ever saw. Yessir, what's happened to the Gil Dobies?

EARL IS THROUGH

The news that the career of Earl Combs is about ended is received with genuine regret. A great fellow and a great ball player, Combs surprised everybody when he recovered sufficiently from his accident in St. Louis last year to play again. But the Kentucky Colonel is laid up again and it's feared his number's up this time. . . . Wally Moses, the former Monroe player who clicked in a big way with Connie Mack's Athletics this year, also rammed into a brick wall chasing a fly but he only broke his wrist and should be back next season. Who said outfielding was the easiest job on a ball team?

The new transparent "river run" is said to be the "catchingest" bait on the market now. Elmer Meredith told us he made a fine catch with it the other morning. It's made in both under-waters and floaters. . . . Plans are under way for the organization of a professional softball league in Denver next year. Why doesn't someone engineer a softball series between the Masons and West Monroe Kiwanis, winners of the Twilight and City leagues?

Gilly Campbell recently kicked because the Sporting News carried a set of averages showing that he had made 15 errors during the current season. . . . A recent visitor was Bruce Hayes, veteran scout for the New Orleans Pelicans. Bruce is the most entertaining baseball man we know. . . . Speaking of scouts, Charley Barrett writes that he remembers with pleasure his associations here. With the Cards apparently heading for another world series, Charley should be in clover.

Tech's new stadium has about been completed. A new stadium and a hustling football squad have widened Eddie McLanes' smile. . . . A month ago the bugs were riding Pie Traynor. Now they're calling him another miracle man. What is more fickle than a baseball fan? . . . More than 200 college gridders of last year will be wearing pro football livery this season. There may be some all-Americans among them, but you never heard of most of the names.

Max Baer's father hopes his son will never win the heavyweight title again. He figures Maxie will return to the night life he dearly loves if he re-captures the crown. . . . Alabama has lost Don Hutson, Dixie Howell and Bill Lee, three all-Americans, yet the Tide is a hot favorite to win the Southeastern championship.

DO YOU REMEMBER?—

One Year Ago Today—Paul W. Hyatt, of Brooklyn, set a new world outboard record of 53.444 miles an hour as he won the Class F eastern amateur title at Middletown, Conn.

Five Years Ago Today—Bill Terry, Giants' first baseman, led both major leagues in batting with a mark of .405.

Ten Years Ago Today—Arne Borg, of Sweden, bettered two world records when he covered 500 yards in 5 minutes 38.1 seconds, and 500 meters 8.4 seconds at Stockholm.

VALLEY SERIES RESUMED TODAY

All-Stars And Engineers Battle Again At Sterlington Park

The Ouachita Valley league All-Stars, a picked squad from five teams of the circuit, will attempt to make it two straight over the champion Sterlington Engineers when the teams meet again at Sterlington this afternoon at 3:30 o'clock. The All-Stars won the first game Friday, 4 to 1.

Manager Duncan, of Sterlington, however, has different ideas about it and will send Still, his ace hurler, against the Stars. Still, diminutive former Louisiana Tech pitching celebrity, won 13 games during the regular season, while losing but two. His mound work was largely responsible for Sterlington sweeping both halves of the Ouachita Valley league race.

Manager Herb Steed, pilot of the All-Stars, will send either Mutt Pittard, of Swartz, or Cary Phillips, of Brown, against the league champs. Both were effective hurlers during the season and Manager Steed believes either can stretch the All-Stars' winning streak to two this afternoon.

Both teams boast some heavy hitters and it will take some tight hurling to keep either team in check this afternoon. Manager Duncan believes his sluggers will break loose against anybody the All-Stars trot out today and the Engineers are confident that they will even the count.

Following today's game, the scene of activities in the five-game series will move to Brownville, where the two teams play at the Brown Papet mill park Wednesday. Next Friday afternoon they go to Swartz and the series will end Sunday at Sterlington.

27 PLAYERS OUT FOR WISNER HIGH ELEVEN

WISNER, La., Sept. 7.—(Special)—Twenty-seven football players reported to Coach Peel and Faulk for their initial workout here Friday afternoon.

From all indications, according to both coaches, the Bulldogs this year will consist of plenty of man power. The line will average approximately 170 pounds.

The schedule of games for this year has not been completed but will be announced at an early date.

EVANGELINE LEAGUE

JEANERETTE WINS

JEANERETTE, La., Sept. 7.—(AP)—Jeanerette's powerful Blues were off to a flying start today in the series with the Lafayette White Sox to determine the championship of the Evangeline league, winning the opener handily 9 to 0, behind the four hit hurling of Clausen Vines.

The Blues, who led the league by a wide margin during the regular season, pounded two Sox pitchers for 14 blows and had the game safely tucked away after the third inning.

Manager Ivy Griffin led the locals' attack with three timely blows, including a triple and a homer.

Jeanerette hopped on the offerings of Segrest, starting Sox moundsman, for three tallies in the third, added another in the sixth and topped off the spree with a five run barrage off Siragusa in the eighth.

The Sox never seriously threatened. The four hits garnered off Vines were scattered and he was given sparkling support afield by his mates.

The teams will clash in the second game of the series tomorrow afternoon at Lafayette, lay off Monday and resume play here Tuesday.

Jeanerette entered the playoff finals by trouncing Opelousas in four straight, while the Sox downed the Alexandria Aces.

S. E. C. COACHES HIGHLY PLEASED WITH PROGRESS

Some 700 Football Candidates Prepare For Heavy Scrimmages

ATLANTA, Ga., Sept. 7.—(AP)—Satisfaction bounded out of practically all football camps in the Southeastern conference today as coaches made ready to start the real grind Monday.

Some 700 candidates, closing their first week of training, prepared for heavy scrimmages next week in anticipation of another gala campaign.

With heavier grid togs replacing track trunks, coaches will continue blocking, tackling and group work, in all their rougher phases, starting Monday, and by mid-week virtually all will be in the midst of lively scrimmages. Some already have held light skirmishes.

Bernie Moore at Louisiana State, Frank Thomas at Alabama, Maj Ralph Sasse at Mississippi State, Jack Meagher at Auburn, Ray Morrison at Vanderbilt and Ed Walker at Mississippi were highly pleased with the progress their squads made. Ole Miss sounded the keynote, indicating its best physical trim in years.

Meanwhile, word came from Vandy that Coach Morrison is preparing his newly acquired Commodores for an aerial circus around Dixie. The Vandy mentor, whose S. M. U. elevens gained national prominence for their intricate forwards and laterals, spent the entire week on offensive plays.

L. S. U. in view of a tough opener with Rice, pushed its work at a fast pace with all Tigers except Tinsley, star end, in fine shape. Alabama was worried somewhat by injuries to Paul Bryant, another star wingman, and Lewis Bostwick, promising sophomore guard.

Ted Cox has one of the largest squads in Tulane history, numbering 62, and Capt. Barney Hintz is pleasing his coaches with long-distance punting. Wiltz Ott, soph quarter depended upon to do much kicking for the Greenies also, is on the sidelines with an injury, however.

An indication of serious workouts came from Florida, where Dutch Stanley rushed the 'Gators through three sessions today. Several were late reporting because of the storm, however. Mississippi State, apparently satisfied with offensive maneuvers, is working overtime to bolster a defensive weakness shown in early practices.

Sewanee, like Vanderbilt, gave much attention to its aerial game. Hek Clark was pleased with the place kicking ability of Rush, halfback, and Colmore, tackle. Georgia and Georgia Tech also polished up their kickers. Harry Mehre at Athens was pleased with the punting of Alf Anderson, but Coach Alexander appears somewhat gloomy.

Chet Wynne, with a small squad at Kentucky, and Maj Bill Britton, with a large turnout at Tennessee, also finished the week with brisk sessions. Coach Wynne is spending his time building an attack around the great Bert Johnson.

Tennessee is in good condition with exception of Doe Silberman, 214-pound tackle, J. T. Craig, soph quarter, and Sam Sharpe, new halfback. Phil Dickens has gladdened hearts of Vol followers with work in punting and passing drills. Coach Britton felt certain Dickens would be able to play this year.

Kentucky held its first scrimmage today at Greentree farm, Coach Wynne chiefly seeking replacement for Joe Rupert, an end. Jim Goforth, a soph, may solve the problem.

FORMER STAR DIES

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., Sept. 7.—(AP)—Phil Magevney, former star center on the University of Chattanooga football team, died of double pneumonia at a hospital here today. He was a native of Memphis, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh M. Magevney.

SOFTBALL TEAMS MEET

The Phi Kappa softball team of the City softball league, will meet the Swartz softball club in an exhibition game Monday night at 7:30 o'clock at Forsythe park, it was announced last night.

NAVIN 'GAMBLING' DETROIT WILL WIN

DETROIT, Sept. 7.—(AP)—Frank J. Navin has $55,000 that says his Detroit Tigers will be in the world series next month, but, don't try to get him to admit that the hustling Bengals have anything like a strangle-hold on the American league flag.

The Tiger club president isn't willing to bet the $55,000 that his club wins the pennant. But he is laying that sum "on the line," at the rate of $300 an hour for improvements to Navin field necessary for the staging of baseball's annual classic.

"It's a gamble we have to make, we can't wait any longer," he said today. "I'm not saying the Tigers will win the American league flag—that's not certain until they're mathematically the winners. Too many things can happen in baseball to say a team is a certain winner before it actually is."

Navin said it cost the Detroit Baseball company approximately $65,000 to build extra bleachers, condition the field and make other improvements for the 1934 world series.

THEY GROW 'EM BIG AT VANDY

Speaking of football poundage, Vanderbilt will have much to say when the boys start the annual Southeastern conference race. Just for example, here's "Baby" Buford Ray, 270-pound tackle, taking a bit of setting up exercises by hoisting Sam Brown, 230-pound guard, and Rann Throgmorton, a tackle who tips the scales at 220. Ouachita To Have Strong Line And Light Backfield

First Week's Practice Reveals Shortage Of Experienced Backs

After one week of hard work under the tutorship of Vernon "Lefty" Haynes, former Tulane end, who has begun his first year as coach of the Ouachita parish high school eleven, it is evident that the Lions will have a huge, powerful line and a light, practically inexperienced backfield of undetermined qualities.

Almost constant drilling with the squad during each day of the past week has practically convinced Coach Haynes that he will have a strong and experienced line to carry the Ouachita colors, but the backfield situation is far below par, and, at this time, is causing most concern in the building of the new machine.

A practically all-veteran line, averaging 170 pounds per man, is the bright spot of the team, and the hope of Ouachita fans. The backfield, on the other hand, is light, averaging hardly more than 145 pounds per man, and there is a decided lack of experienced reserve material.

However, there are a dozen or more new backfield aspirants available for Coach Haynes to select from and he almost assuredly will find at least two, or maybe three, in this bunch who will be able to add to the team any needed qualities.

Almost to a man, the leading contenders for the line positions are members of last year's team. The only absentee is Monroe Trimble, end, who was lost through graduation.

Earl Cobb, Jack Warren and John Renwick, all capable and experienced, are working for the terminal posts again, and all three will no doubt get to share the wingmen's burdens. Cobb tips the scales at 162; Warren weighs 155 and Renwick hits around 160 pounds. James Bates, up from the Ouachita freshman team, is another candidate for an end position, along with Ted Potter and Russell Jordan, two new prospects.

The tackle jobs are without a doubt sewed up by Billy Trimble, 185-pound veteran, and the 190-pound F. C. Eason, providing the two continue with the work they have been doing this week. Floyd Van, a 155-pound lad from Arkansas, is trying hard for a tackle berth and appears to be the best prospect of the new crop. J. C. Black and Bill Gattis, two boys who did well on the freshman eleven, are also seeking recognition as tackles. Jule Parks and Albert Gerson, newcomers, complete the list of candidates for the tackle positions.

The veteran Wheeler Mitchell leads the race for a guard selection and is the only letterman trying for a guard spot. He weighs 185 pounds. Moise Peters, a 165-pound newcomer, is making a strong bid for a guard place but is being pushed for the berth by Bernard Van, another green recruit, and Clyde Roye, who was on the reserve list last season. C. S. Barrett is another guard candidate.

The 1934 pair of Rudolph Vandenburg and Joe Butler, centers, are back to handle the pivot duties. Vandenburg, at 160 pounds, is the most likely candidate for the position, but Butler, 145, who saw plenty of action last year, is capable of doing just as well. James Brothers, who centered for the freshman squad last fall, is a new addition to the center roster.

The backfield crop is practically devoid of experienced material, with the exception of Sol Mayer, Eddie Bowles and Bob Staples, and Staples has had no backfield experience.

On the shoulders of stocky little 145-pound Sol Mayer will probably fall the mantle of quarterback, while Bowles, 134, is trying for his old halfback position.

Staples, who was one of the best linemen on the Lion squad last fall, has graduated to the backfield, where he will try to fill the shoes of his brother, Truman Staples, at fullback. Bob weighs 165 pounds, somewhat lighter than his line-smashing brother, but he is being depended on to give the backfield added power.

Harvey Gregg, 140-pound reserve from last year, Alvin Fleming, 132-pound newcomer, and W. B. Stewart, 155, up from the freshman team, are the most promising of the new prospects. One of them is almost assured, from the present outlook, of getting in the starting lineup. Gregg got a taste of what it was all about last season with the Lions. Stewart was a star of the freshman squad, while Fleming is showing up exceptionally well for an inexperienced man, although it is yet to be seen what he will be able to do under fire.

Other candidates for the backfield are Watson Strong, James Peters, Wilbur Usrey, Norman McGinnis, Durwood Cann, Norrell Sawyer, Fred Newton, James McQuiller and Lucian Priou, Jr. Indications were yesterday

TIGERS INCREASE LEAD WITH TWO WINS OVER A'S

Auker Allows But Two Hits In Nightcap; Yanks Split Pair

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 7.—(AP)—Mickey Cochrane's dynamiting Tigers smeared the Athletics in both ends of a doubleheader today, winning the first game 9 to 7 and then rubbing it in with a 15 to 1 conquest.

Elden Auker

A six-run Detroit rally in the fifth, aided by Marvin Owen's homer with two on, featured the first game along with Jimmy Foxx's pair of four-baggers, but the real hero of the day was Pitcher Elden Auker with his nightcap twirling.

He knocked at the door of the hall of fame by hurling perfect ball for seven innings, allowing no Mackmen to reach first. Then in the eighth, Foxx touched him for a double and McNair garnered a single to spoil his no-hit chances.

Twelve thousand fans saw the double bill, which lengthened the Tiger lead over the New York Yankees in the American league standings.

The first game pitching victory went to Tommy Bridges, his 19th of the season. Only Foxx, who brought his season's homer total to 31, could do anything consistently against Bridges' elbowing.

In the nightcap, it was Detroit all the way, with Connie Mack taking a chance, and losing, on Bill Dietrich and Rookie Turbeville.

Every man on the Detroit lineup hit safely at least once in the second game, and the Tigers scored in six of the nine innings. Cochrane and Owen each got three hits in four trips to the plate, Mickey connecting for a trio of doubles, while Gehringer registered four for six chances.

Baer Realizes It's A 'Do Or Die' Attempt In Battle With Louis

By John J. Romano

Max Baer does not hesitate to blow his own horn. There is nothing the Californian likes better than an audience to get him started on a long-winded, sarcastic tirade against his knockers and disparagement of his opponent's ability. It so happens that Max knows he will be on the spot when he faces Joe Louis at the Yankee stadium on the twenty-fourth of the month, and the things some folks have said about an abrupt trip to the canvas has nettled him more than anything that was ever said about him during his entire career.

Max cannot understand why he should be such an easy sucker for the negro's punching.

"Sure Louis belted out Carnera and Levinsky. But who softened them up? The Italian and the Kingfish never got over the hammering I gave them. When they went in the ring they were scared to death. Here is one guy who won't be scared stiff when the bell rings. If anyone is scared, it will be the other guy."

Baer points out that he has met some punchers in his time, notably Max Schmeling and the late Ernie Schaaf. He has never been knocked out and for that matter has never been on the floor. The only time he came close to taking a count was when he slipped on the floor in his fight with Frankie Campbell, which, incidentally, ended in the death of Dolph Camilli's brother.

Withstood Hardest

If there was the slightest flaw in Baer's courage to stand up under fire the first fight between Max and Schaaf and the Californian against Schmeling would have brought it out.

Schaaf was a hard, punching hitter. His left hook was his best blow. Time after time he landed solidly on Baer's jaw and while Max showed some effect from the blows, he walked steadily in and returned a little better than he received.

In the first round of the Schmeling fight Baer was hit a solid smash on the chin and it looked as though he would go down and call it a day. Instead, the amazing Californian actually laughed in the German's face and brazenly dared him to do it again. Schmeling forced the pace because that was the only way he knew how to fight. But it was noticeable that he would not shoot the right, and when Baer followed a left with a round house right Schmeling went to the floor and actually turned his back on his foe rather than risk another blow from the man who dared laugh off his pet blow. That one instance was probably the reason Schmeling did not care to risk a return engagement with Baer last month.

Hands In Perfect Shape

Baer's saving grace is complete confidence in his wallop and ability to absorb a puneh without going down. He feels that if his antagonist cannot floor him in a bad way, he can come back with his fists and turn defeat into victory.

The way he has been hammering the heavy bag in training and cutting loose on his sparring partners deprives him of an alibi. If anything happens to prevent him from reaching Louis' jaw with a right he will not

LITTLE OPENS DEFENSE OF AMATEUR TITLE MONDAY

Foreign Stars Augment List Of Star Golfers In Quest Of Title

CLEVELAND, Sept. 7.—(AP)—On one of the sportiest courses in the nation, youth and the "patriarchs" and the small foreign list will battle for the national amateur golf championship here starting Monday with W. Lawson Little, Jr., of California, attempting to stretch his dominance over the world's "simon pure" field for the second consecutive year.

The country club layout, studded with treacherously yawning traps and bunkers and threaded with creeks, is the scene of the 1935 classic, in which a field of 200 stands as a multiple threat to Little's hopes to repeat as American amateur champion.

The stalwart Californian has an opportunity here to annex his fourth straight amateur triumph. He has won the British amateur crown twice in addition to taking the U. S. title at Brookline a year ago. A victory here would give him the greatest record for consistency since Bob Jones' "grand slam" feat of 1930, the year the Atlantan retired and started a new order in the amateur ranks.

Aligned against Little are five invaders from foreign shores who were excused from the sectional qualifying tests, along with the "patriarchs," the former amateur kings returning for another try.

In the foreign list are T. A. Torrance, Brig. Gen. A. C. Critchley and Robert Sweeny, all of Great Britain; J. A. Wright, Scotland, and P. J. Clifford, Mexico City.

The nine who escaped the necessity of qualifying because they have won the title in former years are George T. Dunlay, Jr., Francis Ouimet, H. Chandler Egan, who first won the title before many of the young contenders were born; Jess Guilford, Dave Herron, C. R. (Sandy) Somerville, the Canadian; Charles (Chick) Evans, Jr., Bob Gardner, and Max Marston.

1934 Runnerup Returns

The field of 200, reduced from an original total of nearly 1,000 by the sectional qualifying rounds, is the largest ever authorized by the United States Golf association.

On the side of the youngsters are David Goldman of Dallas, runnerup to Little at Brookline last year, who gave notice of his comeback by qualifying from his district with a 36-hole total of 143; Charley Yates, recent graduate of Georgia Tech, the reigning western amateur champion and former collegiate titleholder; Johnny Goodman of Omaha, trans-Mississippi champion; Ed White of Bonham, Texas, the present college champion; Rod Bliss, the 1935 western medalist from Omaha, and Oklahoma's ever-threatening young brigade, listing such stars as Zell Eaton, one of the nation's crack medal players, and Walter Emery, the 1933 intercollegiate champion. Eaton and Emery qualified with scores of 141 each. Tied with them for low in the sectional tests was Albert (Scotty) Campbell of Seattle, the 1933-34 Canadian amateur champion, who let that title go by default this year.

The tournament-wise also take into reckoning the sensational game of Reynolds Smith, the dogged Dallas linksman who gained the semi-finals last year in a string of extra-hole battles.

Billy Burke, the country club professional, asserts the course will provide even the veteran amateurs with "plenty to think about" in the way of hazards. The club lengthened the course to 6,800 yards by moving back a number of tees from their original positions.

Two Problem Holes

Edward L. Cheney, general chairman of the tournament, says the contestants will find two holes particularly interesting—the par-3 fifth and the par-4 twelfth.

"Number five is a one-shot hole," says Cheney, "200 yards with a plateau green. The fairway slopes sharply from directly beneath the tee. Number twelve is unique in my experience. It's a dog-leg with the turn after the second shot instead of the first. To be in position for the approach requires better than normal accuracy."

Airlines using planes having capacity of 15 passengers or more, or where a pilot flies five hours or more a day without a rest period, are required to have a co-pilot.

LITTLE FAVORED TO KEEP NATIONAL AMATEUR TITLE

W. Lawson Little, Jr., is quoted by Jack Doyle, New York betting commissioner, as a 5-to-1 favorite to win the national amateur golf championship again, at Cleveland, September 9-14, but Doyle admits he isn't taking bets either on or against the husky Californian. If Little should be sidetracked, Doyle says, it's a wide-open affair among the youngsters. Above are shown Little, with a scene from and a map of the Cleveland course.

TECH SQUADMEN END FIRST WEEK OF GRID DRILLS

Forty Members Of Varsity Squad Given Stiff Practice Work

RUSTON, La., Sept. 7.—(Special)—Starting with light workouts for shorts-clad gridiron candidates, fall football practice at Louisiana Tech had reached the sore-spot stage as 40 varsity Techmen called it a week.

Advancement from the earlier easy going to the rougher phases of the game resulted from the convenience of cool weather, in collaboration with the impatience of Head Coach Eddie McLane, who is anxious to find out all he can about his prospects. At the end of the first week of drill, the pigskin performers had tasted dummy tackling, punt blocking, line charging and other such aspects of the sport.

Developments of the first week also have changed the complexion of the weight sheet posted in the gymnasium. Since the boys first put their names in the pot at the Tech dining hall, all have scaled appreciable gains. Two of the players, John Wyss, guard, and Carl Gardner, quarterback, each gained nine pounds in four days.

Sunday afternoon the gridmen will be taken for a hike in a five-mile limbering-up procedure. These Sabbath leaves of the town will be regular occurrences this fall, with Trainer Eddie Wojecki leading the procession.

The three teams and seven now on the varsity rolls at Tech are as follows:

Ends—Fred Beckett, Monroe; Louis Chronister, Ruston; Homer Coody, Coushatta; Alton Dunaway, Ferriday; Clyde Funderburk, Winner; Gene Hasha, Monroe; "Mohawk" Phillips, Glenmora; Allen Woodard, Ringgold, and Bill Lewis, Ruston.

Tackles—Houston Beaumont, Birmingham, Ala.; "Wimpy" Giddens, Ringgold; "Bunker" Hill, Minden; James Mize, Shreveport; Ras Neal, Monroe, and Henry Stamm, Bonita.

Guards—McLane Borland, Ruston; Thomas Deas, Arcadia; W. C. Johnston, Ruston; Lloyd Milam, Monroe; George Rajcan, Monroe; Oscar Wells, Winner; John Wyss, Hodge, and Bill Ruple, Ruple.

Centers—Aloys Adkins, Homer; Captain Madison Brooks, Rhinehart; Howard Kidd, Gibsland, and Irvin Causey, Monroe.

Quarterbacks—Don Darling, Ruston; Carl Gardner, Shreveport, and Charles Hoover, Ruston.

Fullbacks—Herbert Massey, Tallulah, and Archie Turner, Ferriday.

Brown Reports 'Open Race' For Positions At Neville

Line Wrecked By Graduations But Tigers Have Strong Backfield

With two weeks of the training period covered by the 1935 Tiger squad at Neville high school, the situation is still a "wide open" race for positions on the Bengal eleven, Coach Percy Brown said last night. The line is in its worst condition of all time, having been practically wrecked by graduations, while the backfield is experiencing its most prosperous season as the flock of passers, punters, ball carriers and blockers, although light, are providing keen competition for the backfield posts, the Tiger mentor reported.

Having lost six lettermen from the line by graduation, Coach Brown is having to move what few lettermen are left from their former positions and scatter them through the makeshift line to balance its strength. With fifteen candidates for the backfield, assuring of at least two good combinations, the Bengals in that division of the squad are staging a hard battle among themselves to get the initial calling when the team begins its season campaign.

The loss of three ends, two tackles and a guard slashed deeply into the Tigers' forward wall. The men lost were James Summerall, Tom Gillen and William Causey, ends; Isaac Lutfey and George Vanzile, tackles, and Norris "Country" Hampton, guard.

The line can hardly be expected to average more than 160 pounds per man, and the backfield will probably scale around a 150-pound average, Coach Brown said.

For ends Coach Brown will have only one man with any experience at that position. He is Urbane Kelly, who was a reserve last year. Edward Tonore, veteran tackle, is being tried at a wing position. Kelly weighs but 140 pounds while Tonore tips 160. H. Davis, 145, and B. Prophit, 140, J. Lanham, 135, and Adler, a 135-pound newcomer, are among the other candidates for terminal positions.

Edward Endom, 175, and Henry Biedenharn, 170, although reserves last year, are making strong bids for the tackle posts. However, Coach Brown is considering the possibility of shifting high 185-pound center, P. A. Poag, Jr., to one of the tackle slots and leaving R. C. White, reserve center, in charge of the pivot post. White is also being groomed for the tackle job in the event he may be needed there. J. Cole, 165, and "Shorty" Earl, 135, are also aspirants for the tackle posts and will probably see some service.

Only Darius Crews, 160-pound veteran guard, remains to battle for his old post with the reserves of last season, and he seems assured of his place. Bob Hanna, 140, Nick Danna, 145, and G. C. Kelly, 138, are staging a fight for the other position. The three were reserves last year.

Poag or White, when not employed on a tackle job, will no doubt be at the pivot post. "Shorty" Green, 130, is a center candidate and may be used should Poag or White need relief.

Only three lettermen were lost to the backfield by graduation. They were Baur and Apgar, halfbacks, and "Pug" Pierce, fullback.

It would be a hard job to pick the starting Tiger backfield at this time. Pete Haddad, 138, is leading the race for the quarterback post. He was an exceptionally good ball carrier last year and goes in for just about everything expected of a backfield man, from carrying the ball and blocking to passing and punting. Andrew Pappas, at 162 pounds, is reported to be better than he ever was and will no doubt be back at full.

Harris Bell, 145, a good halfback possibility is playing a strong defensive game that may stand him in good stead, and Richard Basco, a 150-pound halfback, is showing up better than in previous years, and is another addition to the flock of capable passers.

Joe Gimler, 140, can pass and punt well enough to please Coach Brown, and another candidate for the team who stands a chance to be under fire frequently is Marvin Spaugh, 118-pounder, who is a classy little left-handed passer. J. Davis, 155, is a good punter, and can also be expected to break into the Tiger lineup.

Cason Mitchell, 138, Milo Mattinson, 120, and B. B. McClendon, 128, are among those who will probably rate high in the Neville backfield. Others are Billy Bendel, 168-pound new addition, and J. Reitzell, 125, L. E. Wells, 120, Gilliland, 123, and E. Pierce, 125.

The Tigers' first game will be played at Camden, Ark., on September 20, against the Camden high school Panthers. Their first home game will follow a week later, September 27, against Minden. Other games included on the Neville schedule will be against Lafayette, Haynesville, Oak Grove, Winnfield, Natchez, Miss., Vicksburg, Miss., Ruston and Bastrop. Only the Camden, Lafayette, Ruston and Bastrop games will be played away from home.

The first hard scrimmage of the Neville training period is scheduled for tomorrow night when the squad will be divided for a practice game to be played at Forsythe park at 8 p.m.

FULL SQUAD OUT AT WATERPROOF

Return Of Kyfes, Hudnall And Marron Bolsters Tigers' Chances

WATERPROOF, La., Sept. 7.—(Special)—Coach Stathum Crosby's Waterproof high school gridsters begin their second week of fall training with a full squad out for duty. All regulars from last season have reported, with the exception of the four lost by graduation, and the men are ready for rougher work, which will probably begin by the last of the week.

Crosby is being aided in his work by Murry Lambre, a former Louisiana Normal letterman, who is coaching the linemen. Lambre played three years of varsity ball for the Demons at end and should be able to give the Tiger linemen some valuable pointers in the grid game.

Last week saw the Tigers in uniforms and getting the regular first week training—limbering up exercises and signals, but no regular formations. Now, with his full team out, Crosby will devote his time to shaping up his team for the opening battle with the strong Mangham Dragons on September 28.

Joe Kyfes, sensation at guard for the Tigers last season, changed his mind about staying out of school this season, and reported for work last Thursday. Raymond Hudnall, who gives promise of being a fine running back, and Alden Marron, who will likely team up with Kyfes at the guard posts, also reported Thursday. All three men were in fine condition. It is highly probable that Hudnall may develop into a regular before many games are played.

The Tigers' candidates for all-state posts, Big Bob Fife and Parker Wiggins, fullback and end, have already shown the form that made them two of the best men in the state last season. Fife has put on about 15 pounds weight and Wiggins is also heavier than last year.

Carneal Goldman, L. Stockstill, P. Stockstill and Bill Hunter all reported in much better shape than last season, and with added experience will prove valuable men.

SOUTHEASTERN TO HAVE STRONGEST TEAM IN HISTORY

Veteran Squad And New Material Make Red Swanson Optimistic

HAMMOND, La., Sept. 7.—(AP)—Southeastern Louisiana college has what Coach A. H. (Red) Swanson believes is the finest football outlook in its history.

The Hammond institution is all set to go places with a veteran squad, and a lot of new material which is being counted upon to do big things.

Only a few men were lost from the varsity ranks.

Southeastern will need everything available, however, to get through its hard schedule creditably. Lapse of only 18 days between the first practice session and the opener with Louisiana Normal isn't helping much, either.

With veteran backs like Dantone, Hart, Hayden and Galloway, Coach Swanson has little to worry about as far as halftoters are concerned.

Any one of these four is as fleet as the other and both Dantone and Hart can hold down the quarterback position.

Hayden proved himself an outstanding back last season and Galloway showed up well in every game until he suffered a leg injury. "Bucket" Bayles is another ballcarrier who is expected to turn in another good season.

In the line Swanson will have such veterans as Costanza and Edwards, boys who showed up well last year at tackle; Stroble and Grandeury, who are capable ends, and Thomas, Joiner, Pendarvis, Johnson, Shea and Miller are all good guard material.

As far as the new material goes, it's not certain what can be expected.

"You can not tell what a new man will do until after he has performed in a major game and you can not tell whether you have got him until after the season has begun," Swanson says.

"We are counting more on the boys who have already proven what they can do than on the propects. We'll know about them after they have performed."

Southeastern's schedule is the toughest yet attempted, and includes trips to Florida for games with four-year universities.

The chart follows:

Sept. 20, Louisiana Normal at Hammond (x); Sept. 27, Louisiana State university freshmen at Hammond (x); Oct. 4, Southwestern Louisiana institute at Lafayette; Oct. 11, University of Miami at Miami; Oct. 18, Southwest Mississippi college at Hammond (x); Oct. 25, Rollins college at Orlando, Fla.; Nov. 1, open Nov. 8, Loyola (New Orleans) freshmen at Hammond (x); Nov. 15, Louisiana State university (x); Nov. 22, Pearl River college at Northeast Center at Hammond (x)—Night games.

RAYVILLE FACES STIFF SCHEDULE

Coach Whatley Has Inexperienced Squad For Hornet Eleven

RAYVILLE, La., Sept. 7.—(Special)—The Rayville Hornets face their most difficult season in the history of the school. There will be only one veteran on the squad, that faces a 10-game schedule, with two home games.

The first game is to be played in Ferriday on Sept. 20. School opens on Sept. 16, so the Hornets will have only four days, from the opening of school, to prepare for their first game. There will be about 20 boys to report on that date and the coaches hope to have a team lined up by Sept. 20.

Several uniforms have already been issued and several boys who showed up well in spring practice, are expected to become good players before the season is over.

Rayville hopes by playing strong teams with these new men to develop a team that will be a real power by the end of the season and next year will be a threat in this part of the state. The majority of the boys will be freshmen and sophomores, with two or three more years in school.

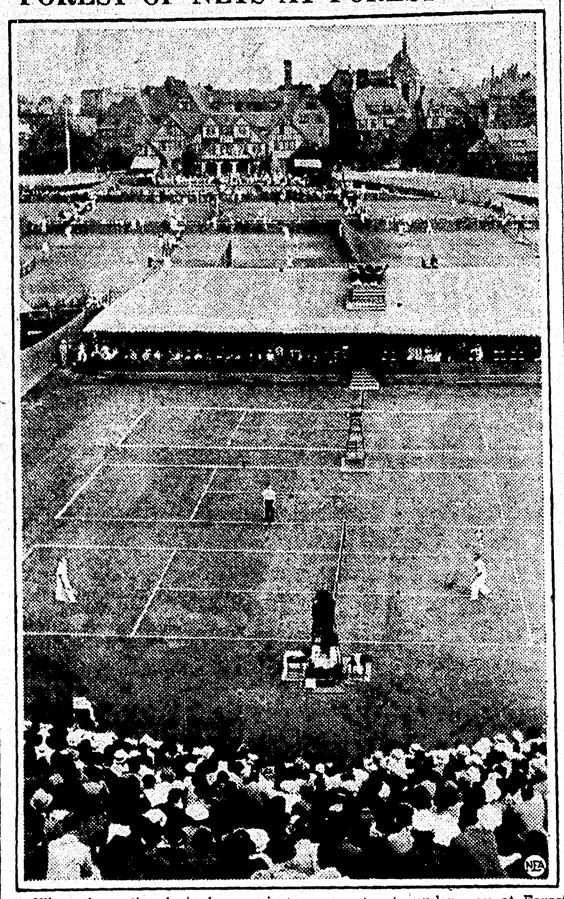

The schedule for 1935 includes games with Haynesville, Bolton, Ouachita Parish, Bastrop, Mangham, Winnsboro, Oak Grove, Delhi and Tallulah. The Mangham and Winnsboro games are to be played at Rayville, the others on the road.

HOMER HIGH SCHOOL TO PLAY NIGHT BALL

HOMER, La., Sept. 7.—(Special)—A flood lighting system will be installed on the Homer high school athletic field next week so that it will be possible to play night football here, it has been announced. The project is sponsored by the Homer Lions club and will be installed jointly by the Lions club, the city and school.

The equipment is to be purchased Monday and will include 32 lights at an estimate cost of $2,000. The plan was approved Thursday afternoon when submitted by a committee, composed of Dr. J. A. Foster, chairman, and R. C. Rogers, principal of the school, to the Lions club. C. B. Kitchen, president of the club, announced the acceptance of the proposition Thursday.

COACHES TO MEET AT RUSTON TODAY

Alvin Bell To Preside At Rules Interpretation Session

North Louisiana's first football rules "clinic" will be held at Ruston today, under the sponsorship of the North Louisiana Coaches' association. Alvin Bell, of Little Rock, well known football official of the Southwest and Southeastern conferences, will conduct the session, which starts at 2 o'clock this afternoon. A night meeting of the association also will be held.

Bell, considered one of the outstanding football authorities in the nation, will explain the changes in the rules for 1935 and interpret the code throughout.

Practically every high school coach in North Louisiana, as well as several college mentors, will attend the meeting, according to Joe Aillet, of Haynesville, president of the coaches' association. High school officials also will be present. A uniform procedure of officiating likely will be adopted and other technicalities will be gone into. As near as possible, officials for coming high school games also will be selected, President Aillet has announced.

It is planned to make the rules interpretation meeting an annual affair, it was said.

"Red" Plummer, Ruston high school coach, is secretary of the association.

BAER EXHIBITS VICIOUS PUNCH

Sparring Partner Deserts Camp When Maxie Gets Too Rough

SPECULATOR, N. Y., Sept. 7.—(AP)—Cecil Harris, a sparring partner, deserted Max Baer's training camp today as the former world's heavyweight champion put on another exhibition of vicious punching.

Baer sparred two rounds each with Willie McGee and Tony Cancela and one with Lou Scozza and looked extremely good. The former champion was particularly impressive with his right-hand punches to the head. Four rounds of exercises completed the drill.

Max will go through the same sort of a workout tomorrow in preparation for his Sept. 24 battle with Joe Louis but will rest on Monday.

BAPTISTS SEE LOUIS

POMPTON LAKES, N. J., Sept. 7.—(AP)—Donning the gloves for the second time since he started training for his Sept. 24 battle with Max Baer at the Yankee stadium, Joe Louis staged one of his typical workouts today for the benefit of a crowd of 1,000, some 200 of whom were delegates from the annual National Colored Baptists convention in session in New York.

The brown bomber loafed through two rounds with Larry Johnson and then stepped up the tempo against Lou Flowers and Bobby Dean of Newark. He staggered Flowers several times during the two-round session and dropped Dean once in the first round and twice in the second before sending the Newark boy down for the count of 10.

Mrs. Bilyeu limped from the game wearing only one shoe and what was described as "an underthing." Several other contestants retired in various stages of undress.

L. S. U. GRIDMEN OPEN SCRIMMAGE SESSION MONDAY

Coach Moore Reports Much Progress During First Week Of Work

BATON ROUGE, La., Sept. 7.—(Special)—Bernie Moore, head coach of football at Louisiana State university, tonight announced scrimmage for his 55-man squad for either Monday or Tuesday.

"We have advanced tremendously in the first week of practice," said Coach Moore. "First of all, the candidates reported in excellent physical condition. This fact permitted us to go forward rapidly. Drills of the past week, designed to help wind and endurance, harden muscles and aid the development of fundamental techniques, went off with smoothness, and we are ready for rough stuff."

Effective blocking, foundation of successful football, will receive the first attention of the coaches in the week of practice coming, Coach Moore says.

To date only three players have become casualties, but two of these, Arnold Bryan and Charles Casperson, reserve ends, are permanent. Neither will play football with L. S. U. this season, due to scholastic injuries and not to grid bumps. The third player, Gaynell Tinsley, star flanker, is out with a slightly pulled muscle, but Trainer Mike Chambers explained tonight that Tinsley will be ready for scrimmage by Tuesday at the latest.

So rapid has been the advancement of the Tigers' this past week that Coach Moore was able to devote much time which ordinarily would have gone to individuals to complete teams in coordination drills.

Every practice session to date has ended with dummy scrimmage for 15 minutes, with mechanical dummies lined up on defense and four L. S. U. teams running through cycles of plays.

The lineup of the first team in this afternoon's rough practice: Jeff Barrett and Frank Mihalich alternating at the other wing; Shelby Calhoun at one end; Tinsley and Basil Myrick and Clarence Strange, at one tackle, with Justin Rukas and Frank Stupka at the other; four guards, Audra Brown, Osborn Helveston, Charles Leisk and Marvin Baldwin; two centers, Marvin Stewart and Roy Knight; Ernie Seago and Bill May, quarters; four halves, Abe Mickal, "Rock" Reed, Charles Rohm and Joe Lawrie; two fullbacks, Bill Crass and Junior Bowman.

LITTLE OPENS DEFENSE OF AMATEUR TITLE MONDAY

Foreign Stars Augment List Of Star Golfers In Quest Of Title

CLEVELAND, Sept. 7.—(AP)—On one of the sportiest courses in the nation, youth and the "patriarchs" and the small foreign list will battle for the national amateur golf championship here starting Monday with W. Lawson Little, Jr., of California, attempting to stretch his dominance over the world's "simon pure" field for the second consecutive year.

The country club layout, studded with treacherously yawning traps and bunkers and threaded with creeks, is the scene of the 1935 classic, in which a field of 200 stands as a multiple threat to Little's hopes to repeat as American amateur champion.

The stalwart Californian has an opportunity here to annex his fourth straight amateur triumph. He has won the British amateur crown twice in addition to taking the U. S. title at Brookline a year ago. A victory here would give him the greatest record for consistency since Bob Jones' "grand slam" feat of 1930, the year the Atlantan retired and started a new order in the amateur ranks.

Aligned against Little are five invaders from foreign shores who were excused from the sectional qualifying tests, along with the "patriarchs," the former amateur kings returning for another try.

In the foreign list are T. A. Torrance, Brig. Gen. A. C. Critchley and Robert Sweeny, all of Great Britain; J. A. Wright, Scotland, and P. J. Clifford, Mexico City.

The nine who escaped the necessity of qualifying because they have won the title in former years are George T. Dunlay, Jr., Francis Ouimet, H. Chandler Eagan, who first won the title before many of the young contenders were born; Jess Guilford, Dave Herron, C. R. (Sandy) Somerville, the Canadian; Charles (Chick) Evans, Jr., Bob Gardner, and Max Marston.

1934 Runnerup Returns

The field of 200, reduced from an original total of nearly 1,000 by the sectional qualifying rounds, is the largest ever authorized by the United States Golf association.

On the side of the youngsters are David Goldman of Dallas, runnerup to Little at Brookline last year, who gave notice of his comeback by qualifying from his district with a 36-hole total of 143; Charley Yates, recent graduate of Georgia Tech, the reigning western amateur champion and former collegiate titleholder; Johnny Goodman of Omaha, trans-Mississippi champion; Ed White of Bonham, Texas, the present college champion; Rod Bliss, the 1935 western medalist from Omaha, and Oklahoma's ever-threatening young brigade, listing such stars as Zell Eaton, one of the nation's crack medal players, and Walter Emery, the 1933 intercollegiate champion. Eaton and Emery qualified with scores of 141 each. Tied with them for low in the sectional tests was Albert (Scotty) Campbell of Seattle, the 1933-34 Canadian amateur champion, who let that title go by default this year.

The tournament-wise also take into reckoning the sensational game of Reynolds Smith, the dogged Dallas linksman who gained the semi-finals last year in a string of extra-hole battles.

Billy Burke, the country club professional, asserts the course will provide even the veteran amateurs with "plenty to think about" in the way of hazards. The club lengthened the course to 6,800 yards by moving back a number of tees from their original positions.

Two Problem Holes

Edward L. Cheney, general chairman of the tournament, says the contestants will find two holes particularly interesting—the par-3 fifth and the par-4 twelfth.

"Number five is a one-shot hole," says Cheney, "200 yards with a plateau green. The fairway slopes sharply from directly beneath the tee. Number twelve is unique in my experience. It's a dog-leg with the turn after the second shot instead of the first. To be in position for the approach requires better than normal accuracy."

LITTLE FAVORED TO KEEP NATIONAL AMATEUR TITLE

W. Lawson Little, Jr., is quoted by Jack Doyle, New York betting commissioner, as a 5-to-1 favorite to win the national amateur golf championship again, at Cleveland, September 9-14, but Doyle admits he isn't taking bets either on or against the husky Californian. If Little shou'd be sidetracked, Doyle says, it's a wide-open affair among the youngsters. Above are shown Little, with a scene from and a map of the Cleveland course.

TECH SQUADMEN END FIRST WEEK OF GRID DRILLS

Forty Members Of Varsity Squad Given Stiff Practice Work

RUSTON, La., Sept. 7.—(Special)—Starting with light workouts for shorts-clad gridiron candidates, fall football practice at Louisiana Tech had reached the sore-spot stage as 40 varsity Techmen called it a week.

Advancement from the earlier easy going to the rougher phases of the game resulted from the convenience of cool weather, in collaboration with the impatience of Head Coach Eddie McLane, who is anxious to find out all he can about his prospects. At the end of the first week of drill, the pigskin performers had tasted dummy tackling, punt blocking, line charging and other such aspects of the sport.

Developments of the first week also have changed the complexion of the weight sheet posted in the gymnasium. Since the boys first put their names in the pot at the Tech dining hall, all have scaled appreciable gains. Two of the players, John Wyss, guard, and Carl Gardner, quarterback, each gained nine pounds in four days.

Sunday afternoon the gridmen will be taken for a hike in a five-mile limbering-up procedure. These Sabbath leaves of the town will be regular occurrences this fall, with Trainer Eddie Wojecki leading the procession.

The three teams and seven now on the varsity rolls at Tech are as follows:

Tackles—Houston Beaumont, Birmingham, Ala.; "Wimpy" Giddens, Ringgold; "Bunker" Hill, Minden; James Mize, Shreveport; Ras Neal, Monroe, and Henry Stamm, Bonita.

Guards—McLane Borland, Ruston; Thomas Deas, Arcadia; W. C. Johnston, Ruston; Lloyd Milam, Monroe; George Rajcan, Monroe; Oscar Wells, Wisner; John Wyss, Hodge, and Bill Ruple, Ruple.

Centers—Aloys Adkins, Homer; Captain Madison Brooks, Rhinehart; Howard Kidd, Gibsland, and Ivvin Causey, Monroe.

Quarterbacks—Don Darling, Ruston; Carl Gardner, Shreveport, and Charles Hoover, Ruston.

Brown Reports 'Open Race' For Positions At Neville

Line Wrecked By Graduations But Tigers Have Strong Backfield

With two weeks of the training period covered by the 1935 Tiger squad at Neville high school, the situation is still a "wide open" race for positions on the Bengal eleven, Coach Percy Brown said last night. The line is in its worst condition of all time, having been practically wrecked by graduations, while the backfield is experiencing its most prosperous season as the flock of passers, punters, ball carriers and blockers, although light, are providing keen competition for the backfield posts, the Tiger mentor reported.

Having lost six lettermen from the line by graduation, Coach Brown is having to move what few lettermen are left from their former positions and scatter them through the makeshift line to balance its strength. With fifteen candidates for the backfield, assuring of at least two good combinations, the Bengals in that division of the squad are staging a hard battle among themselves to get the initial calling when the team begins its season campaign.

The loss of three ends, two tackles and a guard slashed deeply into the Tigers' forward wall. The men lost were James Summerall, Tom Gillen and William Causey, ends; Isaac Luffey and George Vanzile, tackles, and Norris "Country" Hampton, guard.

The line can hardly be expected to average more than 160 pounds per man, and the backfield will probably scale around a 150-pound average, Coach Brown said.

For ends Coach Brown will have only one man with any experience at that position. He is Urbane Kelly, who was a reserve last year. Edward Tonore, veteran tackle, is being tried at a wing position. Kelly weighs but 140 pounds while Tonore tips 160. H. Davis, 145, and B. Prophit, 140, J. Lanham, 135, and Adler, a 135-pound newcomer, are among the other candidates for terminal positions.

Edward Endom, 175, and Henry Biedenharn, 170, although reserves last year, are making strong bids for the tackle posts. However, Coach Brown is considering the possibility of shifting high 185-pound center, P. A. Poag, Jr., to one of the tackle slots and leaving R. C. White, reserve center, in charge of the pivot post. White is also being groomed for the tackle job in the event he may be needed there. J. Cole, 165, and "Shorty" Earl, 135, are also aspirants for the tackle posts and will probably see some service.

Only Darius Crews, 160-pound veteran guard, remains to battle for his old post with the reserves of last season, and he seems assured of his place. Bob Hanna, 140, Nick Danna, 145, and G. C. Kelly, 138, are staging a fight for the other position. The three were reserves last year.

Poag or White, when not employed on a tackle job, will no doubt be at the pivot post. "Shorty" Green, 130, is a center candidate and may be used should Poag or White need relief.

Only three lettermen were lost to the backfield by graduation. They were Baur and Apgar, halfbacks, and "Pug" Pierce, fullback.

It would be a hard job to pick the starting Tiger backfield at this time. Pete Haddad, 138, is leading the race for the quarterback post. He was an exceptionally good ball carrier last year and goes in for just about everything expected of a backfield man, from carrying the ball and blocking to passing and punting. Andrew Pappas, at 162 pounds, is reported to be better than he ever was and will no doubt be back at full.

Harris Bell, 145, a good halfback possibility is playing a strong defensive game that may stand him in good stead, and Richard Basco, a 150-pound halfback, is showing up better than in previous years, and is another addition to the flock of capable passers.

Joe Gimler, 140, can pass and punt well enough to please Coach Brown, and another candidate for the team who stands a chance to be under fire frequently is Marvin Spaugh, 118-pounder, who is a classy little left-handed passer. J. Davis, 155, is a good punter, and can also be expected to break into the Tiger lineup.

Cason Mitchell, 138, Milo Mattinson, 120, and B. B. McClendon, 128, are among those who will probably rate high in the Neville backfield. Others are Billy Bendel, 168-pound new addition, and J. Reitzell, 125, L. E. Wells, 120, Gilliland, 123, and E. Pierce, 125.

The Tigers' first game will be played at Camden, Ark., on September 20, against the Camden high school Panthers. Their first home game will follow a week later, September 27, against Minden. Other games included on the Neville schedule will be against Lafayette, Haynesville, Oak Grove, Winnfield, Natchez, Miss., Vicksburg, Miss., Ruston and Bastrop. Only the Camden, Lafayette, Ruston and Bastrop games will be played away from home.

The first hard scrimmage of the Neville training period is scheduled for tomorrow night when the squad will be divided for a practice game to be played at Forsythe park at 8 p.m.

FULL SQUAD OUT AT WATERPROOF

Return Of Kyfes, Hudnall And Marron Bolsters Tigers' Chances

WATERPROOF, La., Sept. 7.—(Special)—Coach Stathum Crosby's Waterproof high school gridsters begin their second week of fall training with a full squad out for duty. All regulars from last season have reported, with the exception of the four lost by graduation, and the men are ready for rougher work, which will probably begin by the last of the week.

Crosby is being aided in his work by Murry Lambre, a former Louisiana Normal letterman, who is coaching the linemen. Lambre played three years of varsity ball for the Demons at end and should be able to give the Tiger linemen some valuable pointers in the grid game.

Last week saw the Tigers in uniforms and getting the regular first week training—limbering up exercises and signals, but no regular formations. Now, with his full team out, Crosby will devote his time to shaping up his team for the opening battle with the strong Mangham Dragons on September 28.

Joe Kyfes, sensation at guard for the Tigers last season, changed his mind about staying out of school this season, and reported for work last Thursday. Raymond Hudnall, who gives promise of being a fine running back, and Alden Marron, who will likely team up with Kyfes at the guard posts, also reported Thursday. All three men were in fine condition. It is highly probable that Hudnall may develop into a regular before many games are played.

The Tigers' candidates for all-state posts, Big Bob Fife and Parker Wiggins, fullback and end, have already shown the form that made them two of the best men in the state last season. Fife has put on about 15 pounds weight and Wiggins is also heavier than last year.

Carneal Goldman, L. Stockstill, P. Stockstill and Bill Hunter all reported in much better shape than last season, and with added experience will prove valuable men.

BATON ROUGE, La., Sept. 7.—(Special)—Bernie Moore, head coach of football at Louisiana State university, tonight announced scrimmage for his 55-man squad for either Monday or Tuesday.

"We have advanced tremendously in the first week of practice," said Coach Moore. "First of all, the candidates reported in excellent physical condition. This fact permitted us to go forward rapidly. Drills of the past week, designed to help wind and endurance, harden muscles and aid the development of fundamental techniques, went off with smoothness, and we are ready for rough stuff."

Effective blocking, foundation of successful football, will receive the first attention of the coaches in the week of practice coming, Coach Moore says.

To date only three players have become casualties, but two of these, Arnold Bryan and Charles Casperson, reserve ends, are permanent. Neither will play football with L. S. U. this season, due to scholastic injuries and not to grid bumps. The third player, Gaynell Tinsley, star flanker, is out with a slightly pulled muscle, but Trainer Mike Chambers explained tonight that Tinsley will be ready for scrimmage by Tuesday at the latest.

So rapid has been the advancement of the Tigers' this past week that Coach Moore was able to devote much time which ordinarily would have gone to individuals to complete teams in coordination drills.

Every practice session to date has ended with dummy scrimmage for 15 minutes, with mechanical dummies lined up on defense and four L. S. U. teams running through cycles of plays.

The lineup of the first team in this afternoon's rough practice: Jeff Barrett and Frank Mihalich alternating at the other wing; Shelby Calhoun at one end; Tinsley and Basil Myrick and Clarence Strange, at one tackle, with Justin Rukas and Frank Stupka at the other; four guards, Audra Brown, Osborn Helveston, Charles Leisk and Marvin Baldwin; two centers, Marvin Stewart and Roy Knight; Ernie Seago and Bill May, quarters; four halves, Abe Mickal, "Rock" Reed, Charles Rohm and Joe Lawrie; two fullbacks, Bill Crass and Junior Bowman.

KELLY, STRONGBERG MEET AT STADIUM WEDNESDAY

PAIR OF LOCAL FAVORITES HEAD WRESTLING CARD

Clean, Scientific Match Expected As Two Youngsters Meet

A match wrestling fans have been waiting a long time to see at Roosevelt stadium finally has been booked. Promoter Charlie Bruscato announced last night that Ernest Kelly, the 212 pound Tennessean who long has reigned as the top drawing card here, has been matched with Rudy Strongberg, the husky German youth who has been making heavy inroads on Kelly's supporters lately, as Wednesday night's main event.

The fans have been requesting this match for several weeks. Strongberg's popularity has been mounting steadily, due to his clever work in the local ring, and wrestling enthusiasts hereabouts have come to the conclusion that a Strongberg-Kelly match would be something worth seeing. Bruscato has been attempting to book the two for several weeks but only last week was able to get them both on a Wednesday night.

The popular youngsters have signed a contract for a percentage of the gate. Each will be "putting out," because the winner will get 37 1-2 per cent and the loser 12 1-2.

Strongberg, who weighs 221 pounds, will have a nine pound advantage in weight over the former Tennessee football lineman, but Kelly is powerful enough to take care of himself. A little matter of nine pounds won't make a great deal of difference.

The match is certain to be a clean, scientific affair. Neither has shown a tendency to pull the usual rough tactics seen in modern wrestling, although each has been known to take a retaliating sock or two at his opponent when said opponent continually refused to obey the rules.

Kelly hasn't performed here in more than a month and his appearance Wednesday night will be welcome, to say the least. Ernest never fails to keep things moving at a fast pace, breaking holds quickly and demonstrating a wide variety of grips. His favorite hold is the hook scissors, and he's likely to give the German youngster plenty of trouble with that Wednesday night.

Strongberg also is well versed in the game, although he's young in age as far as wrestlers go. Rudy's record just about equals that of Kelly and the two are evenly matched in other respects.

With the Kelly-Strongberg match topping the show, Bruscato announced that he would make a double main event program out of it to give the fans the best card seen here in months. He said he hadn't completed arrangements for the first match but that two rough boys would be booked to add the necessary fireworks to the card.

Both matches will be best two out of three falls, with each having a two-hour time limit. In view of the fact that the Kelly-Strongberg battle is expected to go a greater part of the two hours, if they're able to settle the issue at all in that time, the fans may be prepared to spend a large part of the evening at the stadium.

Bruscato said a competent referee would be engaged to handle the bouts. He promised an announcement concerning the first half of the double main bill Monday.

MYER ADVANCES TO SECOND PLACE IN BATTING RACE

Little Activity Recorded In Major League Hitting Battles

NEW YORK, Sept. 7.—(AP)—What with steady rains and correspondingly few games, there was very little action in the battles for the major league batting titles during the past week, and what there was didn't go far toward settling the arguments.

The biggest stir was provided by the Washington veteran, Buddy Myer, who clambered from fourth place to second among the American league's leaders.

Myer added three points to his average, bringing it up to .343.

MANERO LEADS IN GLEN FALLS OPEN

Carolina Pro Adds 70 To Previous 69 For One Stroke Margin

GLEN FALLS, N. Y., Sept. 7.—(AP)—Blazing home with a two under par 70 to add with his first round 69, dapper Tony Manero of Greensboro, N. C., 1930 winner, today gained undisputed leadership at the half-way mark in the $3,500 72-hole Glens Falls open golf tournament.

Tied at the end of the first 18 holes yesterday with three other sharp shooters, the little Italian's 36-hole aggregate of 139, five under par for the distance, gave him a single stroke lead over hard belting Jimmy Hines of Garden City, N. Y., victor here in 1933.

Hines, one of the quartet sharing the lead when the second round began, shot a par shattering 71 today to add with his 69 for a total 140, good enough to nose out Willie Macfarlane of Tuckahoe, erstwhile national open king, and Herman Barron of White Plains by a single stroke. Macfarlane had rounds of 69 and 72 and Barron 70 and 71.

Gene Kunes of Norristown, Pa., recent Canadian open winner, experienced putter trouble on the second round and took a 73 to add with his lead sharing 69 of the previous day, an aggregate 142 equalled by Jack Patoni of New Rochelle and Joe Turnesa of West Hartford, Conn.

Patoni, who paced the field at the half-way mark last year on the mountainous course here, and Turnesa, a dark horse, each came home with sub-par 69's, two of the seven who succeeded in besting regulation figures.

Tied at 143 were Louis Barbaro of Harrison, West Chester caddie master champion, and Jerry Glanferante of East Lexington, Mass., each with rounds of 71 and 72.

opener, but he steadied down and Washington pounded out seven runs to take the lead.

The second contest was a pitchers' battle between Knott and Whitehill. Washington put across two runs on a double, a walk, and two singles in the eighth to tie the count. Both teams had men on base in the 10th but could not produce the winning run.

INDIANS TAKE PAIR

BOSTON, Sept. 7.—(AP)—The Cleveland Indians smothered a ninth-inning rally by the Boston Red Sox with a triple play today in the first game of a doubleheader, both games of which they won, 5 to 3, and 5 to 4.

The Red Sox, going into the ninth inning of the opener with the score 5 to 1 against them, managed to push two runs across the plate and keep the bases full with no outs.

Manager Joe Cronin then smashed a liner to Third Baseman Hale, who couldn't hold the ball, but deflected it toward Shortstop Knickerbocker. Knickerbocker caught it before it touched the ground, tossed it to Second Baseman Hughes, who stepped on the bag before Werber could return. Hughes then relayed the ball to First Baseman Trosky before Almada could get back.

The Red Sox cuthit the Indians 13 to 9, in the first game, but home runs by Hale and Wright and two doubles by Vosmik provided the needed extra punch.

YANKS, CHISOX SPLIT

NEW YORK, Sept. 7.—(AP)—The Yankees and the White Sox split a doubleheader to wind up their season's affairs today before a crowd of 21,738 cash customers. Chicago won the opener 3 to 2, behind the five-hit flinging of Ted Lyons, and the Yanks took the second game 5 to 2.

Lyons helped himself along to his 14th victory of the season by driving in one of Chicago's two second-inning runs. The Yanks evened the score in that inning on Bill Dickey's homer, but the Sox won out in the sixth on Zeke Bonura's triple and Manager Jimmy Dykes' single.

Charley Ruffing blanked Chicago for eight innings of the after-piece, but had to be relieved in the ninth when Vernon Washington's homer started a two-run rally. The Yanks pounded Monte Stratton for ten timely blows, Blondy Ryan driving in three runs.

COE SELLS SHOSHONE STUD FOR $400,000

LEXINGTON, Ky., Sept. 7.—(AP)—W. R. Coe today sold his 836-acre farm, Shoshone Stud, near here to Mrs. Miles Frank Yount, Beaumont, Texas, owner of the Spindletop stable, which boasts some of the finest saddle horses in the world. The price was reported to be approximately $400,000.

Coe is retiring from racing, his resident manager, Hugh Fontaine, announced, and will sell his 80 thoroughbreds.

sweep of the four-game series.

Galan hit home runs twice to win Wednesday's game and came up with a triple and the game winning homer in yesterday's contest. Today he drove in the first two runs with a fifth inning single after Rookie Hugh Mulcahy had passed Hack and Jurges and both runners had advanced on a passed ball.

Lee hurled his season's 16th victory as against six defeats.

REDS DROP GIANTS

CINCINNATI, Sept. 7.—(AP)—Gene Schott, young Cincinnati right-hander, pitched the Giants down into third place in the National league standing today when he and the rest of the Reds trimmed New York 4 to 2 in their final encounter of the season. Leading Chicago by two percentage points up to today, the Giants wound up a game and a half behind the Cubs who defeated the Phillies.

Schott gave three hits in the first inning then only one more up to the ninth, when Hank Leiber's double brought in Travis Jackson, who had singled.

Fred Fitzsimmons, making his first start since July 5, was belted out in the second inning when a walk, singles by Ernie Lombardi and Ival Goodman and Alex Kampouris' double netted three runs.

KELLY, STRONGBERG MEET AT STADIUM WEDNESDAY

Clean, Scientific Match Expected As Two Youngsters Meet

A match wrestling fans have been waiting a long time to see at Roosevelt stadium finally has been booked. Promoter Charlie Bruscato announced last night that Ernest Kelly, the 212 pound Tennesseean who long has reigned as the top drawing card here, has been matched with Rudy Strongberg, the husky German youth who has been making heavy inroads on Kelly's supporters lately, as Wednesday night's main event.

The fans have been requesting this match for several weeks. Strongberg's popularity has been mounting steadily, due to his clever work in the local ring, and wrestling enthusiasts hereabouts have come to the conclusion that a Strongberg-Kelly match would be something worth seeing. Bruscato has been attempting to book the two for several weeks but only last week was able to get them both on a Wednesday night.

The popular youngsters have signed a contract for a percentage of the gate. Each will be "putting out," because the winner will get 37 1-2 per cent and the loser 12 1-2.

Strongberg, who weighs 221 pounds, will have a nine pound advantage in weight over the former Tennessee football lineman, but Kelly is powerful enough to take care of himself. A little matter of nine pounds won't make a great deal of difference.

The match is certain to be a clean, scientific affair. Neither has shown a tendency to pull the usual rough tactics seen in modern wrestling, although each has been known to take a retaliating sock or two at his opponent when said opponent continually refused to obey the rules.

Kelly hasn't performed here in more than a month and his appearance Wednesday night will be welcome, to say the least. Ernest never fails to keep things moving at a fast pace, breaking holds quickly and demonstrating a wide variety of grips. His favorite hold is the hook scissors, and he's likely to give the German youngster plenty of trouble with that Wednesday night.

Strongberg also is well versed in the game, although he's young in age as far as wrestlers go. Rudy's record just about equals that of Kelly and the two are evenly matched in other respects.

With the Kelly-Strongberg match topping the show, Bruscato announced that he would make a double main event program out of it to give the fans the best card seen here in months. He said he hadn't completed arrangements for the first match but that two rough boys would be booked to add the necessary fireworks to the card.

Both matches will be best two out of three falls, with each having a two-hour time limit. In view of the fact that the Kelly-Strongberg battle is expected to go a greater part of the two hours, if they're able to settle the issue at all in that time, the fans may be prepared to spend a large part of the evening at the stadium.

Bruscato said a competent referee would be engaged to handle the bouts. He promised an announcement concerning the first half of the double main bill Monday.

MYER ADVANCES TO SECOND PLACE IN BATTING RACE

Little Activity Recorded In Major League Hitting Battles

NEW YORK, Sept. 7.—(AP)—What with steady rains and correspondingly few games, there was very little action in the battles for the major league batting titles during the past week, and what there was didn't go far toward settling the arguments.

The biggest stir was provided by the Washington veteran, Buddy Myer, who clambered from fourth place to second among the American league's leaders.

Myer added three points to his average, bringing it up to .343.

MANERO LEADS IN GLEN FALLS OPEN

Carolina Pro Adds 70 To Previous 69 For One Stroke Margin

GLEN FALLS, N. Y., Sept. 7.—(AP)—Blazing home with a two under par 70 to add with his first round 69, dapper Tony Manero of Greensboro, N. C., 1930 winner, today gained undisputed leadership at the half-way mark in the $3,500 72-hole Glens Falls open golf tournament.

Tied at the end of the first 18 holes yesterday with three other sharp shooters, the little Italian's 36-hole aggregate of 139, five under par for the distance, gave him a single stroke lead over hard belting Jimmy Hines of Garden City, N. Y., victor here in 1933.

Hines, one of the quartet sharing the lead when the second round began, shot a par shattering 71 today to add with his 69 for a total 140, good enough to nose out Willie Macfarlane of Tuckahoe, erstwhile national open king, and Herman Barron of White Plains by a single stroke. Macfarlane had rounds of 69 and 72 and Barron 70 and 71.

Gene Kunes of Norristown, Pa., recent Canadian open winner, experienced putter trouble on the second round and took a 73 to add with his lead sharing 69 of the previous day, an aggregate 142 equalled by Jack Patoni of New Rochelle and Joe Turnesa of West Hartford, Conn.

Patoni, who paced the field at the half-way mark last year on the mountainous course here, and Turnesa, a dark horse, each came home with sub-par 69's, two of the seven who succeeded in besting regulation figures.

Tied at 143 were Louis Barbaro of Harrison, West Chester caddie master champion, and Jerry Gianferante of East Lexington, Mass., each with rounds of 71 and 72.

opener, but he steadied down and Washington pounded out seven runs to take the lead.

The second contest was a pitchers' battle between Knott and Whitehill. Washington put across two runs on a double, a walk, and two singles in the eighth to tie the count. Both teams had men on base in the 10th but could not produce the winning run.

INDIANS TAKE PAIR

BOSTON, Sept. 7.—(AP)—The Cleveland Indians smothered a ninth-inning rally by the Boston Red Sox with a triple play today in the first game of a doubleheader, both games of which they won, 5 to 3, and 5 to 4.

The Red Sox, going into the ninth inning of the opener with the score 5 to 1 against them, managed to push two runs across the plate and keep the bases full with no outs.

Manager Joe Cronin then smashed a liner to Third Baseman Hale, who couldn't hold the ball, but deflected it toward Shortstop Knickerbocker. Knickerbocker caught it before it touched the ground, tossed it to Second Baseman Hughes, who stepped on the bag before Werber could return. Hughes then relayed the ball to First Baseman Trosky before Almada could get back.

The Red Sox cuthit the Indians 13 to 9, in the first game, but home runs by Hale and Wright and two doubles by Vosmik provided the needed extra punch.

YANKS, CHISOX SPLIT

NEW YORK, Sept. 7.—(AP)—The Yankees and the White Sox split a doubleheader to wind up their season's affairs today before a crowd of 21,738 cash customers. Chicago won the opener 3 to 2, behind the five-hit flinging of Ted Lyons, and the Yanks took the second game 5 to 2.

Lyons helped himself along to his 14th victory of the season by driving in one of Chicago's two second-inning runs. The Yanks evened the score in that inning on Bill Dickey's homer, but the Sox won out in the sixth on Zeke Bonura's triple and Manager Jimmy Dykes' single.

Charley Ruffing blanked Chicago for eight innings of the after-piece, but had to be relieved in the ninth when Vernon Washington's homer started a two-run rally. The Yanks pounded Monte Stratton for ten timely blows, Blondy Ryan driving in three runs.

COE SELLS SHOSHONE STUD FOR $400,000

LEXINGTON, Ky., Sept. 7.—(AP)—W. R. Coe today sold his 836-acre farm, Shoshone Stud, near here to Mrs. Miles Frank Yount, Beaumont, Texas, owner of the Spindletop stable, which boasts some of the finest saddle horses in the world. The price was reported to be approximately $400,000.

Coe is retiring from racing, his resident manager, Hugh Fontaine, announced, and will sell his 80 thoroughbreds.

The greatest amount of earth's surface ever covered in one exposure was in an aerial photograph taken from an army plane at an altitude of 23,000 feet. It is estimated that 7,2000 square miles of terrain is actually visible in the picture.

Lee hurled his season's 16th victory as against six defeats.

REDS DROP GIANTS

CINCINNATI, Sept. 7.—(AP)—Gene Schott, young Cincinnati right-hander, pitched the Giants down into third place in the National league standing today when he and the rest of the Reds trimmed New York 4 to 2 in their final encounter of the season.

Leading Chicago by two percentage points up to today, the Giants wound up a game and a half behind the Cubs who defeated the Phillies.

Schott gave three hits in the first inning then only one more up to the ninth, when Hank Leiber's double brought in Travis Jackson, who had singled.

Fred Fitzsimmons, making his first start since July 5, was belted out in the second inning when a walk, singles by Ernie Lombardi and Ival Goodman and Alex Kampouris' double netted three runs.

MRS. DEVINE IS SPEAKER AT CLUB

State Officer Of Federation Of Garden Clubs Guest Here Friday

The Monroe Garden club entertained as guest speaker at its Friday meeting here, Mrs. Augusta Devine of Tallulah, second vice-president of the Louisiana Federation of Garden clubs, who talked on "Judging and Judges of Flower Shows." Her talk was illustrated with roses and other flowers furnished by Mrs. T. C. Rowland, Mrs. F. C. Reynolds and Mrs. John Breard.

She stressed the importance of the proper organization and cooperation of flower show committees through study and knowledge of the standard duties of such committees; also the importance of interesting the exhibitors; of having definite rules and classifications with interesting entries, and of securing educational information for the public.

Exhibitors, she said, need to study the entries so as to avoid making mistakes in qualifying, to avoid disqualifying and knowing how to avoid elimination, by learning to groom the flowers for exhibit by cleaning and removing a defective leaf or petal in an artistic arrangement, to remove the lower leaves from stems to avoid the disarranged look of the leaves below the water line in the glass.

She advised an institute of instruction of two days before flower shows are held, to be held in four sections for the committee as well as for the exhibitors.

To be able to be an efficient judge, she said that a person must have knowledge, impartiality, courtesy and poise to enjoy and make a show a success.

Cooperation and willingness to help on the part of every club member she explained as being essential for the making of a complete success of all garden shows.

WPA LOAN ASKED FOR SANITARIUM

Building Project Is Being Sought For Local Area To Cost $65,000

The first large project in the way of building construction for Ouachita parish, under the WPA, will be that of the erection of a tuberculosis sanitarium, provided approval is given to the plan which calls for an investment of approximately $65,000.

Proper papers seeking the approval of the project were sent in to New Orleans from Monroe last Tuesday. From there they will go to PWA headquarters in Washington, D. C., and it is hoped that in less than 30 days requisite approval will be received here.

The site for the new hospital is out the White Ferry road near the D'Arbonne, about six miles from West Monroe, which has been approved by medical men as well suited to the purposes. It consists of 26 acres and was purchased some years ago by the Ouachita Tuberculosis and Public Health association and paid out in full.

Plans for the sanitarium, drawn by J. W. Smith and associates, call for two large buildings, each about 225 feet long and 20 feet in width. One building will be devoted to white patients and the other to negro patients. Construction will be quite similar with adequate X-ray and diagnosis equipment and abundance of baths, sun parlors and all the latest appurtenances for an institution of this kind.

In all about 46 patients can be accommodated, according to present plans and there will be ample quarters for administration and special rooms and baths for nurses.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Sept. 7.—(Special)—The average citizen's real income for July, 1935, was higher than a year ago, according to the Investors Syndicate Consumer's study. It was the first time since the studies were started four months ago that this has been the case.

In the main, this trend in favor of greater real income is accounted for by the continued decline in food costs, which as of August 1st showed a decline for the second successive month in contrast to last year when prices were rising. Food prices are now lower than they were in April, in contrast to 1934, when the figure for August 1 was about 3 per cent higher than on April 1. Clothing costs, also, have receded slightly and in fact are below those of last year.

While income in all its phases has declined through the summer, this recession has been largely seasonal, according to Investors Syndicate. Investment income has done especially well, standing about 7 per cent above its level on April 1, whereas last year on August 1 it was about 6 per cent below its mark on April 1, 1934.

The district office of the Investors Syndicate is located here in Monroe with offices in the Bernhardt building. Their representatives will be glad to discuss in detail the complete plan for "Living Protection."

APPROVED PLAN FOR MECHANICS

Chevrolet Offers Course To Help Keep Mechanics Up-To-Date

Striking evidence of the distance the automotive industry has traveled, since the day when an aptitude for "tinkering" was about all a service mechanic needed, may be gained from a recent announcement by William E. Holler, vice president and general sales manager of the Chevrolet Motor Co., of a plan whereby mechanics who make a serious effort to improve themselves will receive recognition by Chevrolet.

The plan requires of the mechanic a thorough and constant study of the numerous service department helps issued regularly by Chevrolet. The aspirant to the Approved Service Mechanic's badge which the company will issue must keep himself up to date on the repair manual, the Service News, slide films and bulletins, must attend the weekly shop meetings which are held throughout the organization, pass two written examinations with a high average, and re-qualify in the same manner for a new badge each year.

This most recent evidence of growing stress on service is in line with Chevrolet's recognition of the vital importance of the subject—a recognition which inspired Mr. Holler to coin the now famous slogan: "Never Forget a Customer. Never Let Him Forget you."

"Service," said Mr. Holler, commenting on the approved mechanics plan, "plays a greater part than is generally supposed, in the selling of automobiles. An owner may buy his first car of a given make for any one of a number of reasons; but whether or not he buys another car of the same make will depend very largely on the service he received during his use of the first. The Chevrolet Motor company is keenly aware of this fact. Lee-Rogers Chevrolet company in Monroe has always made service the by-word of their organization. The third important agency—the service mechanic — without whose cooperation no effort of this sort can be effective has also awakened to this fact.

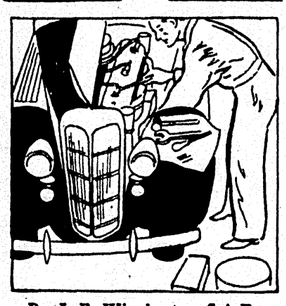

That the service mechanic has come to sense his importance in the organization is proved, Mr. Holler said, by the effort he is making to equip himself for his job. A few months ago, with Chevrolet's approval, a correspondence course for service men was offered throughout the field. Between 3,000 and 4,000 of these courses have been purchased to date, by Chevrolet service men, and the publisher reports that orders are still pouring in.

Mileage Hints

By J. F. Winchester, S.A.E.
Supervisor of Motor Vehicle Equipment, Standard Oil Company of Louisiana

I WOULD like to pass on to motorists just a few of the instructions we give operators of our own large fleet of motor vehicles. If they will heed these major recommendations, which are based on an experience of many years covering millions of miles of motor vehicle operation, they will save themselves time, money and trouble.

First, and foremost, be systematic in the care and lubrication of your car. This is the real secret of car-care. Neglect this and all other rules will be more or less valueless. Use oils and greases of the recommended quality and grade and in the recommended quantities. Keep your motor, transmission, brake mechanism and rear axle clean. Keep your steering system adjusted and in good working order, your tires inflated, your battery filled with distilled water; and your spring clips, water connections and tire lug bolts tight.

Always repair lights, light wires and broken springs. Don't fail to replace missing grease cups and remember that "failure to lubricate your vehicle will be considered wilful neglect." These rules guide the conduct of our thousands of drivers. Their observance helps to keep our fleet operating costs down and adds miles to the lives of our vehicles. Quite obviously it will pay the average car owner to follow these rules in operating his own car.

LASALLE PARISH SHERIFF AGAIN WILL BE CANDIDATE

P. S. Gaharan, Jr., Jena attorney, is the only candidate announced for the position of representative, while W. F. Mackey, of Jena, is in the race for the position of police juror member from ward four.

LATEST METHODS USED BY LUTHER,

Bear System Aligns Automobiles, And The Latest Methods Are Used

Fourteen years ago J. L. Luther came to Monroe from Shreveport, and started in the garage business. Then the shop was very meagerly equipped, but Mr. Luther preferred to give quality to the jobs that he did.

Today Luther-Reed Garage, located at 211 North Second street, is the product of a dream that Mr. Luther had when he started in the mechanical line of business. It is the finest equipped garage in this territory. He has installed all of the new equipment that it takes to work on automobiles the modern way. He has always tried to put quality before price, and he attributes the success of his business to this policy.

In installing the latest equipment, the Bear System of alignment was purchased three years ago. It was the first in this part of the country, and at that time Monroe was the smallest city to have acquired such a device. New York, Chicago, and like cities were the only ones to have it, Mr. Luther stated. Many people did not know about this new method, but Luther-Reed garage pioneered this part of the mechanical field here.

The Bear System makes strict requirements for the firm that becomes one of their authorized stations such as Luther-Reed. Every thirty days books are sent out by the System on the latest types of work, and each authorized station must keep abreast of the times. Special representatives of the Bear System are sent personally to check up on these garages. Those who do not meet the requirements are taken off the authorized list. This feature assures the motoring public expert service when they drive in an authorized Bear System garage.

In the past twelve months the latest equipment has been installed in order to align trucks. Up to that time only passenger cars could be repaired by that process.

The value of this system is that axles can be straightened without being removed from the car. Wheels can be aligned and the chassis straightened. This way is more accurate since the weight of the car is on the wheels just exactly in the position that the car will ride.

This company does all kinds of mechanical work even though alignment is their specialty. They keep up with every change that is taking place in the motor car industry and they know their business. Luther-Reed can be located by calling 4000.

MRS. DEVINE IS SPEAKER AT CLUB

State Officer Of Federation Of Garden Clubs Guest Here Friday

The Monroe Garden club entertained as guest speaker at its Friday meeting here, Mrs. Augusta Devine of Tallulah, second vice-president of the Louisiana Federation of Garden clubs, who talked on "Judging and Judges of Flower Shows." Her talk was illustrated with roses and other flowers furnished by Mrs. T. C. Rowland, Mrs. F. C. Reynolds and Mrs. John Breard.

She stressed the importance of the proper organization and cooperation of flower show committees through study and knowledge of the standard duties of such committees; also the importance of interesting the exhibitors; of having definite rules and classifications with interesting entries, and of securing educational information for the public.

Exhibitors, she said, need to study the entries so as to avoid making mistakes in qualifying, to avoid disqualifying and knowing how to avoid elimination, by learning to groom the flowers for exhibit by cleaning and removing a defective leaf or petal in an artistic arrangement, to remove the lower leaves from stems to avoid the disarranged look of the leaves below the water line in the glass.

She advised an institute of instruction of two days before flower shows are held, to be held in four sections for the committee as well as for the exhibitors.

To be able to be an efficient judge, she said that a person must have knowledge, impartiality, courtesy and poise to enjoy and make a show a success.

Cooperation and willingness to help on the part of every club member she explained as being essential for the making of a complete success of all garden shows.

WPA LOAN ASKED FOR SANITARIUM

Building Project Is Being Sought For Local Area To Cost $65,000

The first large project in the way of building construction for Ouachita parish, under the WPA, will be that of the erection of a tuberculosis sanitarium, provided approval is given to the plan which calls for an investment of approximately $65,000.

Proper papers seeking the approval of the project were sent in to New Orleans from Monroe last Tuesday. From there they will go to PWA headquarters in Washington, D. C., and it is hoped that in less than 30 days requisite approval will be received here.

The site for the new hospital is out the White Ferry road near the D'Arbonne, about six miles from West Monroe, which has been approved by medical men as well suited to the purposes. It consists of 26 acres and was purchased some years ago by the Ouachita Tuberculosis and Public Health association and paid out in full.

Plans for the sanitarium, drawn by J. W. Smith and associates, call for two large buildings, each about 225 feet long and 20 feet in width. One building will be devoted to white patients and the other to negro patients. Construction will be quite similar with adequate X-ray and diagnosis equipment and abundance of baths, sun parlors and all the latest appurtenances for an institution of this kind.

In all about 46 patients can be accommodated, according to present plans and there will be ample quarters for administration and special rooms and baths for nurses.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Sept. 7.—(Special)—The average citizen's real income for July, 1935, was higher than a year ago, according to the Investors Syndicate Consumer's study. It was the first time since the studies were started four months ago that this has been the case.

In the main, this trend in favor of greater real income is accounted for by the continued decline in food costs, which as of August 1st showed a decline for the second successive month in contrast to last year when prices were rising. Food prices are now lower than they were in April, in contrast to 1934, when the figure for August 1 was about 3 per cent higher than on April 1. Clothing costs, also, have receded slightly and in fact are below those of last year.

While income in all its phases has declined through the summer, this recession has been largely seasonal, according to Investors Syndicate. Investment income has done especially well, standing about 7 per cent above its level on April 1, whereas last year on August 1 it was about 6 per cent below its mark on April 1, 1934.

The district office of the Investors Syndicate is located here in Monroe with offices in the Bernhardt building. Their representatives will be glad to discuss in detail the complete plan for "Living Protection."

APPROVED PLAN FOR MECHANICS

Chevrolet Offers Course To Help Keep Mechanics Up-To-Date

Striking evidence of the distance the automotive industry has traveled, since the day when an aptitude for "tinkering" was about all a service mechanic needed, may be gained from a recent announcement by William E. Holler, vice president and general sales manager of the Chevrolet Motor Co., of a plan whereby mechanics who make a serious effort to improve themselves will receive recognition by Chevrolet.

The plan requires of the mechanic a thorough and constant study of the numerous service department helps issued regularly by Chevrolet. The aspirant to the Approved Service Mechanic's badge which the company will issue must keep himself up to date on the repair manual, the Service News, slide films and bulletins, must attend the weekly shop meetings which are held throughout the organization, pass two written examinations with a high average, and re-qualify in the same manner for a new badge each year.

This most recent evidence of growing stress on service is in line with Chevrolet's recognition of the vital importance of the subject—a recognition which inspired Mr. Holler to coin the now famous slogan: "Never Forget a Customer. Never Let Him Forget you."

"Service," said Mr. Holler, commenting on the approved mechanics plan, "plays a greater part than is generally supposed, in the selling of automobiles. An owner may buy his first car of a given make for any one of a number of reasons; but whether or not he buys another car of the same make will depend very largely on the service he received during his use of the first. The Chevrolet Motor company is keenly aware of this fact. Lee-Rogers Chevrolet company in Monroe has always made service the by-word of their organization. The third important agency—the service mechanic — without whose cooperation no effort of this sort can be effective has also awakened to this fact.

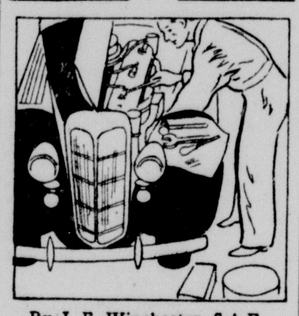

That the service mechanic has come to sense his importance in the organization is proved, Mr. Holler said, by the effort he is making to equip himself for his job. A few months ago, with Chevrolet's approval, a correspondence course for service men was offered throughout the field. Between 3,000 and 4,000 of these courses have been purchased to date, by Chevrolet service men, and the publisher reports that orders are still pouring in.

Mileage Hints

By J. F. Winchester, S.A.E.
Supervisor of Motor Vehicle Equipment, Standard Oil Company of Louisiana

I WOULD like to pass on to motorists just a few of the instructions we give operators of our own large fleet of motor vehicles. If they will heed these major recommendations, which are based on an experience of many years covering millions of miles of motor vehicle operation, they will save themselves time, money and trouble.

First, and foremost, be systematic in the care and lubrication of your car. This is the real secret of car-care. Neglect this and all other rules will be more or less valueless. Use oils and greases of the recommended quality and grade and in the recommended quantities. Keep your motor, transmission, brake mechanism and rear axle clean. Keep your steering system adjusted and in good working order, your tires inflated, your battery filled with distilled water; and your spring clips, water connections and tire lug bolts tight.

Always repair lights, light wires and broken springs. Don't fail to replace missing grease cups and remember that "failure to lubricate your vehicle will be considered wilful neglect." These rules guide the conduct of our thousands of drivers. Their observance helps to keep our fleet operating costs down and adds miles to the lives of our vehicles. Quite obviously it will pay the average car owner to follow these rules in operating his own car.

LATEST METHODS USED BY LUTHER

Bear System Aligns Automobiles, And The Latest Methods Are Used

Fourteen years ago J. L. Luther came to Monroe from Shreveport, and started in the garage business. Then the shop was very meagerly equipped, but Mr. Luther preferred to give quality to the jobs that he did.

Today Luther-Reed Garage, located at 211 North Second street, is the product of a dream that Mr. Luther had when he started in the mechanical line of business. It is the finest equipped garage in this territory. He has installed all of the new equipment that it takes to work on automobiles the modern way. He has always tried to put quality before price, and he attributes the success of his business to this policy.

In installing the latest equipment, the Bear System of alignment was purchased three years ago. It was the first in this part of the country, and at that time Monroe was the smallest city to have acquired such a device. New York, Chicago, and like cities were the only ones to have it, Mr. Luther stated. Many people did not know about this new method, but Luther-Reed garage pioneered this part of the mechanical field here.

The Bear System makes strict requirements for the firm that becomes one of their authorized stations such as Luther-Reed. Every thirty days books are sent out by the System on the latest types of work, and each authorized station must keep abreast of the times. Special representatives of the Bear System are sent personally to check up on these garages. Those who do not meet the requirements are taken off the authorized list. This feature assures the motoring public expert service when they drive in an authorized Bear System garage.

In the past twelve months the latest equipment has been installed in order to align trucks. Up to that time only passenger cars could be repaired by that process.

The value of this system is that axles can be straightened without being removed from the car. Wheels can be aligned and the chassis straightened. This way is more accurate since the weight of the car is on the wheels just exactly in the position that the car will ride.

This company does all kinds of mechanical work even though alignment is their specialty. They keep up with every change that is taking place in the motor car industry and they know their business. Luther-Reed can be located by calling 4000.

Cotton

New Orleans

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 7.—(AP)—Cotton held in a narrow range during today's short session. While it was bought and sold freely final prices showed but small net declines.

The distant months came in for more liquidation today as longs took profits in these positions.

Activity of the government cotton pool in switching from October to the more distant options had caused firmness in May and July during the early part of the week.

October closed at 10.32, off but two points, while May at 10.48 was down five points and July at 10.52, was off seven points. Some pre-bureau liquidation was also noted in the market today, but pressure never reached important proportions and the general tone of the market was steady.

Reports that currency negotiations were being undertaken with Germany to facilitate purchases in this country by the reich came in for attention in the trade.

Exports of cotton to Germany in the past few months have declined drastically, largely the result of currency restriction.

Cotton futures closed steady at net declines of 2 to 7 points.

NEW YORK, Sept. 7.—(AP)—A somewhat irregular opening in cotton was followed by declines today under Southern selling and liquidation which became more active in the late trading. December sold off from 10.45 to 10.33 and closed at that figure with the general market closing barely steady at net declines of 5 to 8 points.

Cotton futures closed barely steady, 5 to 8 lower.

New York Stocks

By Victor Eubank
(Associated Press Financial Writer)

NEW YORK, Sept. 7.—(AP)—The stock market rode over heavy profit taking barriers today and again pranced confidently into new high territory for the year or longer.

Gains of fractions to around four points were scattered over a wide front. The president's "breathing spell" letter still acted as the main buying stimulant. The close was strong. Transfers approximated 1,250,000 shares.

It was one of the most active Saturday sessions in some time. Blocks of 1,000 to 10,000 shares changed hands at the opening and the ticker tape soon fell several minutes behind floor transactions. The first hour's turnover of 730,000 shares was the largest since May 28, last.

After half an hour of excited dealings, the trading pace slowed as profit takers began to appear in force. Yesterday's leaders, while resistant, were restricted generally in their advances.

Among the active gainers were American Can, Air Reduction, Westinghouse, Western Union, Auburn, American Telephone, Allied Chemical, Case, Du Pont, Deere, Spiegel-May-Stern, Union Pacific, Santa Fe, Radio preferred 'B' and common, U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, National Steel, Sears Roebuck and American Chain. Such issues as General Motors, Chrysler, Consolidated Gas, General Electric, Johns-Manville, Schenley and National Distillers were narrow. The metals and oils were backward.

Wheat pushed ahead at Chicago and cotton was fairly steady. Secondary bonds followed stocks at a more leisurely pace. Foreign exchanges were mixed, with sterling a bit heavy.

Another stock exchange seat was transferred today for $135,000, an advance of $15,000 over a sale announced yesterday. It was the best price recorded for a membership since April 12, last year, and indicated to optimists high hopes for better business in Wall Street.

Steel production in August, it was officially estimated, topped the best previous month of this year and was 110 per cent ahead of the same 1934 month. It was the first time in a number of years that operations in August exceeded preceding months of the year.

Chain stores sales for August increased substantially for nine companies and only two showed a slight decrease for the eight months' period. The rise in industry was exemplified by another decline in stocks of zinc in the United States during the past month. The total at the end of the month amounted to 112,445 short tons against 115,723 at the end of July.

The Associated Press index of industrial activity this week slipped back for the second consecutive week. The composite was affected by the more than season setback in the production of automobiles, steel and electric power.

Chicago Grain

CHICAGO, Sept. 7.—(AP)—Wheat values rose buoyantly in Chicago today right at the outset. The main reason apparent was that the minimum price guaranteed last night to Canadian farmers by their government for this year's crop was decidedly higher than most traders here had expected.

Opening all the way from 1 1-8 to 2 cents a bushel overnight gain, December 93 7-8-94 1-8, the Chicago wheat market late held near to the top of the initial range. Corn started 3-8-3-4 up, December 56 5-8-3-4, and then altered little.

Cotton

New Orleans

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 7.—(AP)—Cotton held in a narrow range during today's short session. While it was bought and sold freely final prices showed but small net declines.

The distant months came in for more liquidation today as longs took profits in these positions.

Activity of the government cotton pool in switching from October to the more distant options had caused firmness in May and July during the early part of the week.

October closed at 10.32, off but two points, while May at 10.48 was down five points and July at 10.52, was off seven points. Some pre-bureau liquidation was also noted in the market today, but pressure never reached important proportions and the general tone of the market was steady.

Reports that currency negotiations were being undertaken with Germany to facilitate purchases in this country by the reich came in for attention in the trade.

Exports of cotton to Germany in the past few months have declined drastically, largely the result of currency restriction.

Cotton futures closed steady at net declines of 2 to 7 points.

New York

NEW YORK, Sept. 7.—(AP)—A somewhat irregular opening in cotton was followed by declines today under Southern selling and liquidation which became more active in the late trading. December sold off from 10.45 to 10.35 and closed at that figure with the general market closing barely steady at net declines of 5 to 8 points.

Cotton futures closed barely steady, 5 to 8 lower.

New York Stocks

By Victor Eubank

(Associated Press Financial Writer)

NEW YORK, Sept. 7.—(AP)—The stock market rode over heavy profit taking barriers today and again pranced confidently into new high territory for the year or longer.

Gains of fractions to around four points were scattered over a wide front. The president's "breathing spell" letter still acted as the main buying stimulant. The close was strong. Transfers approximated 1,250,000 shares.

It was one of the most active Saturday sessions in some time. Blocks of 1,000 to 10,000 shares changed hands at the opening and the ticker tape soon fell several minutes behind floor transactions. The first hour's turnover of 730,000 shares was the largest since May 28, last.

After half an hour of excited dealings, the trading pace slowed as profit takers began to appear in force. Yesterday's leaders, while resistant, were restricted generally in their advances.

Among the active gainers were American Can, Air Reduction, Westinghouse, Western Union, Auburn, American Telephone, Allied Chemical, Case, Du Pont, Deere, Spiegel-May-Stern, Union Pacific, Santa Fe, Radio preferred 'B' and common, U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, National Steel, Sears Roebuck and American Chain. Such issues as General Motors, Chrysler, Consolidated Gas, General Electric, Johns-Manville, Schenley and National Distillers were narrow. The metals and oils were backward.

Wheat pushed ahead at Chicago and cotton was fairly steady. Secondary bonds followed stocks at a more leisurely pace. Foreign exchanges were mixed, with sterling a bit heavy.

Another stock exchange seat was transferred today for $135,000, an advance of $15,000 over a sale announced yesterday. It was the best price recorded for a membership since April 12, last year, and indicated to optimists high hopes for better business in Wall Street.

Steel production in August, it was officially estimated, topped the best previous month of this year and was 110 per cent ahead of the same 1934 month. It was the first time in a number of years that operations in August exceeded preceding months of the year.

Chain stores sales for August increased substantially for nine companies and only two showed a slight decrease for the eight months' period. The rise in industry was exemplified by another decline in stocks of zinc in the United States during the past month. The total at the end of the month amounted to 112,445 short tons against 115,723 at the end of July.

The Associated Press index of industrial activity this week slipped back for the second consecutive week. The composite was affected by the more than season setback in the production of automobiles, steel and electric power.

Chicago Grain

CHICAGO, Sept. 7.—(AP)—Wheat values rose buoyantly in Chicago today right at the outset. The main reason apparent was that the minimum price guaranteed last night to Canadian farmers by their government for this year's crop was decidedly higher than most traders here had expected.

Opening all the way from 1 1-8 to 2 cents a bushel overnight gain, December 93 7-8-94 1-8, the Chicago wheat market late held near to the top of the initial range. Corn started 3-8-3-4 up, December 56 5-8-3-4, and then altered little.

RELIEF CLIENTS MUST TAKE WORK

Employment Offered Must Be Accepted, Peterman Declares

Persons on relief are expected to accept any regular employment, however temporary, that is offered, according to word received from Frank H. Peterman, state FERA administrator.

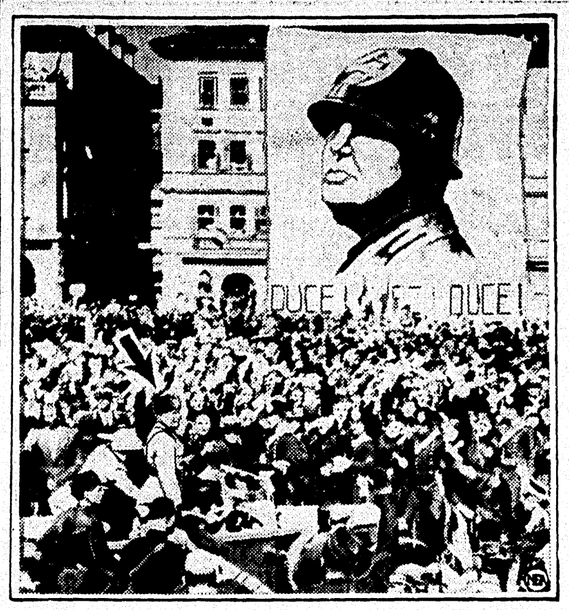

Those who fail to accept such work that is offered will be dropped from the relief rolls, he stated.

Those who do accept such employment will not impair their status with the FERA or WPA, but will be given work through these organizations when their temporary work plays out.

Mr. Peterman has sent a special bulletin to social service supervisors in all parishes telling them to give assurance that their status will not be impaired if they accept other employment, and to drop clients who refuse to accept outside work when offered them.

The FERA allotment for September is considerably lower than for the previous month which indicates that many persons should endeavor to find temporary employment. Cotton picking will give work to many in the southern states for some weeks, it is pointed out, and other fall jobs are likely to develop, taking care of many persons on relief.

IL DUCE FANS ITALIAN WAR SPIRIT

Fever heat to which war enthusiasm has risen in Italy is strikingly demonstrated by this immense throng acclaiming Premier Mussolini as he reached Bolzano, to direct the gigantic military maneuvers in which half a million Italian troops participated. High above the throng is a huge poster of Il Duce, and the arrow indicates the dictator as he addressed the crowd.

Of each 100 bushels of corn produced in the United States, 42 bushels are fed to hogs, 18 bushels fed to cattle, 14 to horses, 10 to poultry, 1 to sheep, 2 are consumed by livestock in cities, and 9 go into industrial use, with the remainder used for seed or exported.

BUSES WILL BE RUN TO COLLEGE

Cities And Towns East And South Of Monroe Will Have Service

Definite arrangement was made the past week for the operation of a daily bus out of Alexandria to Monroe for the exclusive use of students of Northeast Center of Louisiana State university, it was stated by Dean C. C. Colvert Saturday. The rate for the round trip each school day will be very low and will be such as to accommodate students from Clarks, Olla, Columbia and other places en route who desire to attend college here.

Another bus has been arranged from Delhi, in Richland parish to Monroe, accommodating Rayville and other places on the line.

Dean Colvert spent Friday in Columbia, Clarks and Olla and had interviews with a number of prospective students. The number was sufficiently large to warrant the operation of the bus that is planned.

The college will be a busy place this week when the finishing touches to the property and to the interior arrangements will be given to enable opening in another week.

Indications are such as to promise a banner year ahead in all activities, stated Dean Colvert.

An average of 50,000,000 pounds of foreign grown dates are imported into the United States each year.

IL DUCE FANS ITALIAN WAR SPIRIT

Fever heat to which war enthusiasm has risen in Italy is strikingly demonstrated by this immense throng acclaiming Premier Mussolini as he reached Bolzano, to direct the gigantic military maneuvers in which half a million Italian troops participated. High above the throng is a huge poster of Il Duce, and the arrow indicates the dictator as he addressed the crowd.

Of each 100 bushels of corn produced in the United States, 42 bushels are fed to hogs, 18 bushels fed to cattle, 14 to horses, 10 to poultry, 1 to sheep, 2 are consumed by livestock in cities, and 9 go into industrial use, with the remainder used for seed or exported.

BUSES WILL BE RUN TO COLLEGE

Cities And Towns East And South Of Monroe Will Have Service

Definite arrangement was made the past week for the operation of a daily bus out of Alexandria to Monroe for the exclusive use of students of Northeast Center of Louisiana State university, it was stated by Dean C. C. Colvert Saturday. The rate for the round trip each school day will be very low and will be such as to accommodate students from Clarks, Olla, Columbia and other places en route who desire to attend college here.

Another bus has been arranged from Delhi, in Richland parish to Monroe, accommodating Rayville and other places on the line.

Dean Colvert spent Friday in Columbia, Clarks and Olla and had interviews with a number of prospective students. The number was sufficiently large to warrant the operation of the bus that is planned.

The college will be a busy place this week when the finishing touches to the property and to the interior arrangements will be given to enable opening in another week.

Indications are such as to promise a banner year ahead in all activities, stated Dean Colvert.

An average of 50,000,000 pounds of foreign grown dates are imported into the United States each year.

Late Summer Social Lull Is Nearing End

Important Events In Making As Vacationists Return Home; Travelers Back From Far Away Places; Fall Is Here

Eve C. Bradford

September! "A haze on the far horizon, the infinite, tender sky, the ripe, rich tint of the cornfields and the wild geese sailing high." Some call it autumn, but we, like many others, "call it God."

There is something in these lovely, hazy days of early autumn that sets the gypsy blood astir. The yellow, scarlet and purple of the world has the power to "shake us like the cry of bugles going by."

The sad, sweet days of September are here and seem quiet on the surface, but set your ear to the ground and you'll hear crescendo rumblings of activity which soon will explode into important social and club affairs.

To one who thrives on printers' ink and to whom the roar of the printing presses is sweet music, this particular season of the year is simply divine. Everyone we know is back in town and ready for anything the gods have to offer in the way of pleasure.

To see again lights streaming from that charming, hospitable home of the Walter Meyers in Fairview is good for eyes that will never become accustomed to the darkened windows. Edith, the perfect hostess, is again glorifying this menage after an entire summer spent with her daughter, Violet, in Lake Placid.

The John Fox hospitable home, where friends while away many happy hours, is also taking on a different aspect with Irene and two splendid children back from Long Island, New York.

Katie Mae Thornhill, back from Los Angeles, sun-tanned and "peppy," is trotting out the demi-tasse cups in readiness for the casual visitor who always finds warmth of hospitality awaiting them in her charming drawing room.

Edward Seymour, that affable, genial fellow, is back from New York City. We ran across him in the coffee room of the Sherman hotel in Chicago two weeks ago (he was en route home) and he told us about his embarrassing moment. It seems that he was privileged to inspect the Normandie while in New York but was denied the request to view the de luxe suites. Undaunted, he did a little exploring on his own, and opening a closed door, he came face to face with the French consul and his wife. Bowing low and bringing into command his very best French, he hurriedly left the scene.

Lida Oliver, visiting in Chicago, was the victim of a pocketbook thief. Being the wife of a banker, she obeyed his instructions and placed valuables and money in her possession safely in the hotel safe before sauntering forth. Consequently the thief, in the old familiar words of Shakespeare, "stole trash."

Sam and Bill McClary, back from their Mediterranean cruise, spent every waking moment, while in Venice, gliding along the canal in flower bedecked gondolas. The only thing left in life to wish for was that their friends might have seen him.

Saw Jean Dryburgh, just home from the far north, with a shaggy scottie tugging at the leash. It is the gift of an ardent male admirer, so we hear.

Carl McHenry, back from the Oscar Nelson palatial farm near White Sulphur Springs, Va., looks as though he had been feasting on Vitamin A and B, and C as well. And no wonder—riding horses brought around to the door every morning for guests who like an early morning canter, private golf links, tennis courts, to say nothing of the exotic fruits, vegetables and what not raised on the farm.

There will be a distinct gap in the social ranks when Cordelia Wolf packs her duds, closes her home on the scene of so many delightful little social affairs this summer and, with her two handsome sons, leaves for Austin, Texas, where she will keep the home fires burning while Gilbert and Burton delve into their books at Texas university.

The choicest cuts are getting a good searing over the coals of the barbecue pit at Lakeside Country club these days. At sundown, almost every night, you can see a group of club members, under the old oak trees, enjoying supper al fresco. Reports from last week-end festivities at Lakeside continue to come in. The handsome golf trophies were well worth all the practice necessary for the fierce competition. Joe Washburn won that gorgeous leather golf bag, you know. He certainly does swing a wicked driver.

Have you ever noticed how Mary Flournoy's face lights up when she talks to you? We never cease to marvel at the radiance of her eyes and especially so when she talks about those nightly outings on board their house boat. Summer for Mary and Eugene and their little family group is a long season of delight, as they are quite fascinated by "the sea."

river," and float along on the placid waters nightly.

Blanche Oliver is quite the most versatile person we know of. Guess her latest craze—painting and interior decorating. When Florence Ziegler and Estelle Sanders took over the rooms on South Grand street for their new studio, Blanche was right there to give the master stroke. A bizarre screen placed in the background attracted our attention and was told that Blanche transformed it from a drab, unattractive thing to a work of art. Even the fireplace in the reception suite boomed into new beauty under her magic brush.

Book About Quilts

"Quilt lovers everywhere, world without end," is the all-embracing dedication of Mrs. Carrie A. Hall's book on the Romance of the Patchwork Quilt in America, which Mrs. Hall and Mrs. Rose G. Kretsinger, have written. The volume is the labor of love of many years on the part of Mrs. Hall, a dressmaker.

For forty years she has made scrap books on quilts, on Lincoln relics, on poetry and on medals granted to persons living in Kansas. During the busy period of her life, Mrs. Hall dreamed of assembling all this collected material into a book on quilts. The revival of the last decade on the gentle art of making quilts kindled anew her interest. With the forty years of dressmaking behind her, an accurate knowledge of materials and an appreciation of color, she set about collecting from every source the material for her book.

It is illustrated with half-tones of old quilts, the cherished possessions of her friends and with cuts from the quilt collection at the Thayer museum, as well as photographs of the many original quilts made by Mrs. Kretsinger, who contributed part 3 of the book.

Mrs. Kretsinger is an artist who creates her own designs and has made up the quilts herself in order to carry out faithfully the delicate color effects she sought. One of her quilts that has excited much comment is the orchid wreath in three shades of purple, three of green, yellow, pink, cerise and black. Her "Calendula" and her adaptation of the rose tree are challenges to the woman who would look for artistry in quilt-making. Unfortunately, there are no color plates in this book, yet the half-tones are well able to stir the imagination.

How much of interest Mrs. Hall found for her book in her own home town is attested to by the names below the photographs of quilts. A woolen crazy quilt is from the collection of Fern Bauersfeld. "The Rising Sun" was made by Mrs. D. D. Spencer, mother of the owner, Mrs. Dora Spencer Holman, Leavenworth.

A chapter has been given over to the art of quilting and to the origin of quilt-making, in the colonies where patchwork rose to an art in 1750, and in the next 100 years became the pastime and hobby of thousands of American women. The revival which began shortly after World war crystallized with the vogue for colonial furniture, which swept the country about ten years ago.

Mrs. Hall's book has the loving interest in quilts, not only for themselves, but as a craft truly American. She quotes Claude Callan on quilts and her book proves its truth:

"The children and the grandchildren soon spend the money grandpa leaves, but they hold on to the quilts grandma makes and hands down to them."

'Rah, Rah' Era Gone

Visits to colleges and university campuses this fall by students of a former era in the history of higher education in America, may startle the visitors, if findings of the Carnegie foundation are correct.

The foundation is authority for the statement that the once typical "rah, rah" boy is no longer to be found, and that the campus "country club" atmosphere of the boom days has gone into a long decline.

According to Dr. Walter A. Jessup, president of the foundation, the new atmosphere has been engendered chiefly by the depression. There is an entirely different attitude today on the part of both students and institutions.

"The student of today," said Dr. Jessup, "is no longer the blase, sophisticated youth so prevalent at colleges during the boom years. He is a hard working, serious minded person who demands more of the college library, the laboratory and the instructors than did his brother of a decade ago.

"He is increasingly a patron of the seminar, the serious lecture, the symphony concert. He has a different attitude toward scholarship, research, athletics, fraternities and student activities.

"It is a fact that every serious minded experiment on the part of educational institutions to attain a new level of effectiveness is being met by the students with intelligent cooperation. This has been notably true at Chicago, Harvard, Minnesota and Princeton.

"It is altogether likely that the students will do their part in maintaining colleges as 'seats of learning' if the colleges—executives and staff—can forget the educational fantasies of the nineteen twenties and face the present in a spirit of reality."

In the struggle for academic existence, Dr. Jessup said, the survivors would not necessarily be the colleges with the most money. Conditioning factors, he said, were "intelligent leadership, high morale, and the courage to be sincere with students."

Candy Making Time

Now is the time to make fruit paste candy for use, for sale, or to be stored for Christmas presents, says the New York state college of home economics.

This candy may be made from apples, pears, plums, grapes, peaches, or any fruit used for fruit butter. The peeled fruit is cooked with enough water to keep it from sticking until it is fairly tender. Then it is put through a sieve or a strainer and the pulp measured, and heated for five minutes. Next add the sugar to the pulp. Use one cup to each two cups of pulp. Boil the whole mixture until it is thick and clear. Since this mixture burns easily stir it frequently while cooking. Also cook it rapidly because long, slow cooking destroys some of the original fruit flavor and darkens the color.

The paste, when it is thick and clear, is put on a platter greased with unsalted fat and allowed to stand until a film forms over the top. Next place it on a wire screen or a cloth and allow to stand until the paste loses its stickiness. The firm paste may be cut into one inch squares or in 2 by 4 inch strips which are fashioned into rolls and rolled in granulated sugar. Cover the candy with paraffin paper and pack it in tin boxes or glass jars and store in a cool, dry place. Heavy paraffin paper is preferred to the thin oiled paper which may stick to the paste. If small pieces are not wanted the paste may also be rolled like a jelly roll, wrapped in paraffin paper, packed, and used when needed.

Besides its use as a candy, fruit paste may be served as a garnish; it may be used in salads, fruit cocktails, and not sugar, in cakes, cookies, and puddings.

Monroe Residents Feted

Mrs. Johnnie Smith Elbert and niece, Mrs. DeWitt Milam, returned home last week from Saginaw, Michigan, where they were the much feted guests of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Schust at their beautiful country home on Schust road.

A lovely likeness of Mrs. Elbert and Mrs. Milam appeared on the social page of the Saginaw Sunday News and the columns were overflowing with accounts of social events given in their honor. One article, in particular, will be of interest to Monroe friends. It reads:

"One of the prettiest and most elaborate social gatherings of the 1935 summer season was the tea which Mrs. Edward Schust and her daughter, Katherine, gave honoring Mrs. DeWitt Milan and Mrs. John Smith Elbert, of Monroe, La., guests at the Schust home.

"The party took about 80 guests to the beautiful home of the hostesses, for an afternoon of chatting, swimming in the private pool, and tea, served al fresco.

"The attractive tea table, over which Mrs. Ella Schust and Mrs. V. E. Libby, both of Saginaw, presided, was daintily charming in its summery pastels. The white-draped table was centered with a bouquet of dephinium and shell-pink zinnias, flanked by shell-pink tapers.

"Receiving the guests were the hostesses and the honored guests. Mrs. Milan wore a formal afternoon pink lace gown, given charm and dignity by its flowing floor-length lines. The starched lace was trimmed only with a bouquet of pastel flowers at the waistline and the soft, full skirt was slit in back and front.

"Mrs. Elbert wore a floor-length white crepe frock with a smart black lace jacket, fashioned mannishly, short in front and a long, draped back, with a tightly fitted bodice. With it she wore black accessories. Mrs. Schust was costumed in a tailored white two-piece suit, which included a long, white gown, over which she wore a three-quarter length white coat, given striking quality by full sleeves of brown silk with white polka dots. She wore white accessories. Miss Schust wore a navy blue sheer gown of medium length, given poise by a high ruff neck and sleeves fashioned of tiers of three ruffles in colors graduated from the navy to the rose coral of the slimly attractive gown's bodice."

Feted In Chicago

Mr. and Mrs. T. V. Simmons have returned from Chicago, Ill., where they and their daughter, Miss Eva Lavelle Simmons, were delightfully entertained by friends for several weeks. Miss Simmons remained in Chicago, where she has entered the American Academy of Fine Arts.

Prominent among the social affairs arranged by Miss Dorothy Hood of Chicago, a cousin of Miss Simmons, was the dinner dance at the Medinah club. Miss Simmons wore on this occasion a Carnegie model of white satin with corsage of white orchids and Mrs. Simmons wore a Molyneux model of blue crepe. Another brilliant event was a dinner at the International house, with Colonel John Landesco, psychologist of Chicago university, the host. Prominent among the guests were Mr. Harry Conwell, Dr. McCormick and the Rumanian consul. Outstanding also was the luncheon in the Narcissus room at Marshall Fields, a dinner dance in the eMarine ball room of the Edgewater Beach hotel and a yachting party on board the "Gem the third," with dinner at the South Shore Yacht club. Tea in the gardens of Chicago university, with Miss Lucy Hurchins hostess, and a celebrated artist, Paul Ressinger, one of the guests of honor, was also included among the many social courtesies.

Plaid Furs Face Winter With Gay And Jaunty Air

Muff gloves and plaid furs have appeared with winter fashions. Ardanse makes this scarf of white lapin plaided in black lapin. The large cuffs on the black suede gloves are lined with the same fur and can be turned back over the hand to form a muff. The two-piece street frock is of black ribbed quilted silk finished with buttons and belt of black patent leather.

By Adelaide Kerr

PARIS, Sept. 7.—(AP)—Plaid furs for young America appeared at winter style shows, launching something new in accessories for 1936.

Ardanse showed them in scarfs and short coats made of lapin—white barred in black or caramel beige stripped in brown just like a plaid. The fur was cut and seamed like a fabric to gain the plaid effect.

Muff gloves were something else which caught the attention of the style world. The same designer used the plaid furs or silver fox to line the huge cuffs of gloves, which could be turned back over the hand to form a muff. Seal scarfs were also finished with pockets which could be put together to form a muff.

Postage Stamp Buttons

Those fur accessories were worn with new winter frocks of black ribbed or waffle wool or ribbed quilted silk cut on slender form-fitting lines. Postage stamp buttons and belt buckles covered with ising-glass and rimmed with gold, silver leaf clips and small collars and cuffs of mother-of-pearl squares trimmed the frocks which were chiefly designed with high necklines.

The sports mode launched by the same designer was full of interesting tricks. Suits of reddish brown and gray wool were designed with short trousered skirts 15 inches from the ground, some of them creased and cuffed like a man's trousers. Hunting suits had jackets with slits at elbows and between shoulder blades which could be unbuttoned while shooting and then buttoned up again. Colorful high-necked sweaters completed outfits. There were also a number of knitted sports frocks finished with small, bright knitted scarfs tied butterfly fashion and closed with leather fastenings.

Moires And Velvets

For evening wear, a glamorous mode appeared. Rich moires in changeable pink, white and blue or mother-of-pearl weaves and red, black or white velvets woven with shimmering threads were designed with decolletes leaving one shoulder bare and marked fullness in the front of the skirts.

Boat Ride Enjoyed

Members of the Germany-Noe Sunday school class are taking advantage of these beautiful moonlit nights to enjoy al fresco affairs before many members of the class leave for colleges and universities.

A boating party on board the Noe's Ark was a delightful affair last week, with the college students the guests of honor.

Anchor was dropped near a beautiful sand bar, where supper was served. The pleasures were continued on board while the boat drifted down stream in the moonlight.

Present were: Miss Elizabeth Langford, Rev. and Mrs. W. C. Scott, Carmen White, Frances Grimsley, Elizabeth Cudd, Harvey Sprott, Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Humble, Mrs. J. H. Thatcher, Jr., Mrs. J. A. Noe, Annie Mae Smith, Woodrow Hathorn, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Walker, Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Germany, Geneve Castles, Mary E. Woodward, David Caldwell, Sadie Ruth Buckner, Theodore J. Coenen, Jr., Mrs. J. Rebuilding Objective

To unite in the vital task of rebuilding a nation shaken by years of depression is the goal toward which members of the National Federation of Business and Professional Women will strive during the coming year. The biennial convention in Seattle, last month, resulted in a stirring challenge to women everywhere, a challenge which was voiced in the year's call to action, "Women Unite for Effective Democracy." Miss Charl O. Williams of Washington, D. C., newly elected president of the federation, defines the purpose of the call in her first published statement: "To make democracy work, to make it an effective instrument for meeting the needs of the American people . . . to unite in the vital task of rebuilding a nation shaken by years of depression . . . this is the goal toward which we will strive during the coming year."

This is the 1936 expression of the objective adopted for ten years at the convention held in Richmond in 1931; "the development of leadership in thinking along economic lines." Programs will be built in steps for the ten months of the club year, each step representing a "cause" espoused by the federation. The general topics for these programs and suggested subtopics are to be found in the August issue of Independent Woman as follows: September, "No Limitation Because of Class, Race or Sex." 1. What is the purpose of government? 2. How can it be directed to the benefit of all? 3. Does our constitution make this possible? October, "Efficiency in Government." 1. Trained personnel in public service. 2. Elimination of overlapping units. 3. Taxation for general welfare.

November, "Continuing Education for All." 1. Education for work. 2. Education for the good life. 3. Education for service. December, "Honest Efficient Judiciary." 1. What broad reorganizing is needed? 2. What changes in children's courts? 3. In women's courts? Januarq. "Fairer Distribution of Wealth." 1. Through higher wages. 2. Through taxation. 3. Price control through cooperatives. 4. Through public ownership. 5. What about social credit? February, "Peace." 1. Foreign policy based on recognition of world interdependence. 2. Adequate department of state through increased appropriations. 3. Cooperation with international peace machinery.

March, "Concerted Action for Social Goals. 1. Can we agree what they are? 2. Are women uniting to act on them. 3. Are women cooperating with men to the same end? April, "Life Improvement in Caliber of the Race." 1. Positive health. 2. Birth control. 3. Stefilization of the unfit. May, "Liberty Consistent With Social Well Being." 1. The press and propaganda. 2. How much control of business is desirable? 3. What about lobbies? 4. Academic freedom. June, "Pursuit of Happiness." 1. What is happiness? 2. How can we achieve it? 3. Under what form of government can happiness be assured to the greatest number?

Thus will 60,000 members of the national federation of business and professional women unite to achieve effective democracy through human values. With an ever increasing awareness of public problems business women are fitting themselves for greater participation in public affairs.

Square Dances Returning

"Swing your partners."

"Shashay."

These directions, forgotten by all save our grandparents, will again be heard on ballroom floors this season, according to members of the Dancing Masters' association.

The tempo of life has slowed down, they say, and the old square dances of a simpler generation are returning to favor. Miss Evelyn Kelly, Omaha dance instructor, explained:

"Young people have made the discovery that square dances, such as the Virginia Reel and Turkey-in-the-Straw, are a lot of fun, and a good way for everybody to get acquainted at a party. That's why the west is seeing a revival of these good old dances."

One reason why so many of the public ballrooms were deserted today, it was pointed out by Thomas Bircher, editor of the Dancing Master, the association's official publication, was that dance orchestras are too "radio conscious." He added:

"An orchestra that goes good over the radio often lacks the rhythm so essential to the dance floor. When the music, even of a famous orchestra, fails to click, the dancers don't return."

Birthday Celebrated

The sixth birthday anniversary of Van Pierce, attractive little daughter of Mrs. Rebecca Pierce, was a joyous affair, as she was privileged to invite her most intimate friends to share the pleasures of the day with her on the third of September.

A box party at the Paramount theater was the outstanding feature, with the serving of refreshments and the cutting of the handsome birthday cake completing the pleasures for the young celebrant and Helen Gene Trotter, Barbara Trotter, Jacquelyn James, Jocelyn James, Bettie Bennett, Fred Bennett, Jr., Jene Carroll, June Griffen, Joy Annice Bernhardt, Vettye Yvonne Bernhardt, Mary Evelyn Johnson, Bobbie Kelly, Mary Lynn O'Kelly, Dilmon Bernhardt, Jr., Jack Hayes, Jr., and Tommy Ray Hayes.

Mrs. Pierce was assisted by Mrs. Phillip Bernhardt and Mrs. Fred Bennett.

2 Local Artists Are To Instruct In Music

Miss Florence Ziegler, Mrs. Clyde Sanders Are To Teach Piano And Voice; Friends Offer Their Well Wishes

A progressive step in the world of music was taken Friday night when two of Monroe's outstanding young artists, Mrs. Clyde Sanders and Miss Florence Ziegler, opened their handsome new studio on South Grand street to the public with a brilliant reception.

The spacious studio, including reception suite, recital hall and private studios for the piano pupils of Miss Ziegler and the vocal students of Mrs. Sanders, was banked with beautiful gift flowers from friends who are deeply interested in the splendid work being accomplished by these two instructors. Two concert grand pianos are the outstanding furnishings of the two studios, freshly decorated and appointed with distinction.

Miss Ziegler, who has been identified with Northeast Center of Louisiana State university for the past two years, possesses a splendid musical background. She is a graduate of Lindenwood college, St. Charles, Mo., and the Chicago College of Music. She spent the past summer doing special work under Rudolph Ganz and Magnolies of Chicago. Miss Ziegler is also a composer of note, with several brilliant compositions to her credit. Outstanding was her musical theme for "Flood Suite," rendered in this city by the Shreveport Symphony orchestra several years ago and broadcast over the radio from Chicago, during the World's fair.

Mrs. Sanders has been a prominent figure in musical circles of North Louisiana since her graduation from the New England conservatory of music in Boston, Mass. She possesses a beautiful, highly cultured soprano voice. She has just returned from Chicago, where she engaged in special work under Isaac Van Grove, coach of the Chicago Civic Opera company.

Cultural Monroe was present Friday night to extend sincere congratulations and wish these ambitious young artists success in their new field of endeavor.

Greetings were extended by Mrs. Frances Leavell, who wore a charming evening model of canary colored organza; Mrs. Louis Hullum, in Monte blue crepe with gold embroidery; Mrs. Henry Whitfield, in pink lace and chiffon; Mrs. Palmer Hardie, in blue and white flowered chiffon; Mrs. Fred Culpepper, in black chiffon; Mrs. J. B. Kugler, in pastel blue lace; Mrs. J. C. Ziegler, in black and white flowered crepe, and Mrs. Blanche Oliver, in blue and white flowered chiffon.

Miss Jeanette Ziegler, in black net evening model; Mrs. Shelby Cage, in white satin model; Miss Nellie Breard, in Madelon blue lace evening model; Mrs. Grayson Guthrie, in blue chiffon, and Miss Katherine Kugler, in pink crepe, assisted in serving refreshing mint frappe and delicious confections during the receiving hours.

Lieutenant Governor James A. Noe, Mrs. Noe and their young son and daughter, James A., Jr., and Gay, returned home Wednesday from Louisville, Ky., where they spent several weeks in the home of Mrs. John Noe. Miss Gay Noe was joined by her parents in Bristol, Va., where she spent the summer at Camp Sequoyah.

river," and float along on the placid waters nightly.

Blanche Oliver is quite the most versatile person we know of. Guess her latest craze—painting and interior decorating. When Florence Ziegler and Estelle Sanders took over the rooms on South Grand street for their new studio, Blanche was right there to give the master stroke. A bizarre screen placed in the background attracted our attention and was told that Blanche transformed it from a drab, unattractive thing to a work of art. Even the fireplace in the reception suite boomed into new beauty under her magic brush.

Book About Quilts

"Quilt lovers everywhere, world without end," is the all-embracing dedication of Mrs. Carrie A. Hall's book on the Romance of the Patchwork Quilt in America, which Mrs. Hall and Mrs. Rose G. Kretsinger, have written. The volume is the labor of love of many years on the part of Mrs. Hall, a dressmaker.

For forty years she has made scrap books on quilts, on Lincoln relics, on poetry and on medals granted to persons living in Kansas. During the busy period of her life, Mrs. Hall dreamed of assembling all this collected material into a book on quilts. The revival of the last decade on the gentle art of making quilts kindled anew her interest. With the forty years of dressmaking behind her, an accurate knowledge of materials and an appreciation of color, she set about collecting from every source the material for her book.

It is illustrated with half-tones of old quilts, the cherished possessions of her friends and with cuts from the quilt collection at the Thayer museum, as well as photographs of the many original quilts made by Mrs. Kretsinger, who contributed part 3 of the book.

Mrs. Kretsinger is an artist who creates her own designs and has made up the quilts herself in order to carry out faithfully the delicate color effects she sought. One of her quilts that has excited much comment is the orchid wreath in three shades of purple, three of green, yellow, pink, cerise and black. Her "Calendula" and her adaptation of the rose tree are challenges to the woman who would look for artistry in quilt-making. Unfortunately, there are no color plates in this book, yet the half-tones are well able to stir the imagination.

How much of interest Mrs. Hall found for her book in her own home town is attested to by the names below the photographs of quilts. A woolen crazy quilt is from the collection of Fern Bauersfeld. "The Rising Sun" was made by Mrs. D. D. Spencer, mother of the owner, Mrs. Dora Spencer Holman, Leavenworth.

A chapter has been given over to the art of quilting and to the origin of quilt-making, in the colonies where patchwork rose to an art in 1750, and in the next 100 years became the pastime and hobby of thousands of American women. The revival which began shortly after World war crystallized with the vogue for colonial furniture, which swept the country about ten years ago.

Mrs. Hall's book has the loving interest in quilts, not only for themselves, but as a craft truly American. She quotes Claude Callan on quilts and her book proves its truth:

"The children and the grandchildren soon spend the money grandpa leaves, but they hold on to the quilts grandma makes and hands down to them."

'Rah, Rah' Era Gone

Visits to colleges and university campuses this fall by students of a former era in the history of higher education in America, may startle the visitors, if findings of the Carnegie foundation are correct.

The foundation is authority for the statement that the once typical "rah, rah" boy is no longer to be found, and that the campus "country club" atmosphere of the boom days has gone into a long decline.

According to Dr. Walter A. Jessup, president of the foundation, the new atmosphere has been engendered chiefly by the depression. There is an entirely different attitude today on the part of both students and institutions.

"The student of today," said Dr. Jessup, "is no longer the blase, sophisticated youth so prevalent at colleges during the boom years. He is a hard working, serious minded person who demands more of the college library, the laboratory and the instructors than did his brother of a decade ago.

"He is increasingly a patron of the seminar, the serious lecture, the symphony concert. He has a different attitude toward scholarship, research, athletics, fraternities and student activities.

"It is a fact that every serious minded experiment on the part of educational institutions to attain a new level of effectiveness is being met by the students with intelligent cooperation. This has been notably true at Chicago, Harvard, Minnesota and Princeton.

"It is altogether likely that the students will do their part in maintaining colleges as 'seats of learning' if the colleges—executives and staff—can forget the educational fantasies of the nineteen twenties and face the present in a spirit of reality."

In the struggle for academic existence, Dr. Jessup said, the survivors would not necessarily be the colleges with the most money. Conditioning factors, he said, were "intelligent leadership, high morale, and the courage to be sincere with students."

Candy Making Time

Now is the time to make fruit paste candy for use, for sale, or to be stored for Christmas presents, says the New York state college of home economics.

This candy may be made from apples, pears, plums, grapes, peaches, or any fruit used for fruit butter. The peeled fruit is cooked with enough water to keep it from sticking until it is fairly tender. Then it is put through a sieve or a strainer and the pulp measured and heated for five minutes. Next add the sugar to the pulp. Use one cup to each two cups of pulp. Boil the whole mixture until it is thick and clear. Since this mixture burns easily stir it frequently while cooking. Also cook it rapidly because long, slow cooking destroys some of the original fruit flavor and darkens the color.

The paste, when it is thick and clear, is put on a platter greased with unsalted fat and allowed to stand until a film forms over the top. Next place it on a wire screen or a cloth and allow to stand until the paste loses its stickiness. The firm paste may be cut into one inch squares or in 2 by 4 inch strips which are fashioned into rolls and rolled in granulated sugar. Cover the candy with paraffin paper and pack it in tin boxes or glass jars and store in a cool, dry place. Heavy paraffin paper is preferred to the thin oiled paper which may stick to the paste. If small pieces are not wanted the paste may also be rolled like a jelly roll, wrapped in paraffin paper, packed, and used when needed.

Besides its use as a candy, fruit paste may be served as a garnish; it may be used in salads, fruit cocktails, and not sugar, in cakes, cookies, and puddings.

Monroe Residents Feted

Mrs. Johnnie Smith Elbert and niece, Mrs. DeWitt Milam, returned home last week from Saginaw, Michigan, where they were the much feted guests of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Schust at their beautiful country home on Schust road.

A lovely likeness of Mrs. Elbert and Mrs. Milam appeared on the social page of the Saginaw Sunday News and the columns were overflowing with accounts of social events given in their honor. One article, in particular, will be of interest to Monroe friends. It reads:

"One of the prettiest and most elaborate social gatherings of the 1935 summer season was the tea which Mrs. Edward Schust and her daughter, Katherine, gave honoring Mrs. DeWitt Milan and Mrs. John Smith Elbert, of Monroe, La., guests at the Schust home.

"The party took about 80 guests to the beautiful home of the hostesses, for an afternoon of chatting, swimming in the private pool, and tea, served al fresco.

"The attractive tea table, over which Mrs. Ella Schust and Mrs. V. E. Libby, both of Saginaw, presided, was daintily charming in its summery pastels. The white-draped table was centered with a bouquet of dephinium and shell-pink zinnias, flanked by shell-pink tapers.

"Receiving the guests were the hostesses and the honored guests. Mrs. Milan wore a formal afternoon pink lace gown, given charm and dignity by its flowing floor-length lines. The starched lace was trimmed only with a bouquet of pastel flowers at the waistline and the soft, full skirt was slit in back and front.

"Mrs. Elbert wore a floor-length white crepe frock with a smart black lace jacket, fashioned mannishly, short in front and a long, draped back, with a tightly fitted bodice. With it she wore black accessories. Mrs. Schust was costumed in a tailored white two-piece suit, which included a long, white gown, over which she wore a three-quarter length white coat, given striking quality by full sleeves of brown silk with white polka dots. She wore white accessories. Miss Schust wore a navy blue sheer gown of medium length, given poise by a high ruff neck and sleeves fashioned of tiers of three ruffles in colors graduated from the navy to the rose coral of the slimly attractive gown's bodice."

Feted In Chicago

Mr. and Mrs. T. V. Simmons have returned from Chicago, Ill., where they and their daughter, Miss Eva Lavelle Simmons, were delightfully entertained by friends for several weeks. Miss Simmons remained in Chicago, where she has entered the American Academy of Fine Arts.

Prominent among the social affairs arranged by Miss Dorothy Hood of Chicago, a cousin of Miss Simmons, was the dinner dance at the Medinah club. Miss Simmons wore on this occasion a Carnegie model of white satin with corsage of white orchids and Mrs. Simmons wore a Molyneux model of blue crepe. Another brilliant event was a dinner at the International house, with Colonel John Landesco, psychologist of Chicago university, the host. Prominent among the guests were Mr. Harry Conwell, Dr. McCormick and the Rumanian consul. Outstanding also was the luncheon in the Narcissus room at Marshall Fields, a dinner dance in the eMarine ball room of the Edgewater Beach hotel and a yachting party on board the "Gem the third," with dinner at the South Shore Yacht club. Tea in the gardens of Chicago university, with Miss Lucy Hurchins hostess, and a celebrated artist, Paul Ressinger, one of the guests of honor, was also included among the many social courtesies.

Plaid Furs Face Winter With Gay And Jaunty Air

Muff gloves and plaid furs have appeared with winter fashions. Ardanse makes this scarf of white lapin plaided in black lapin. The large cuffs on the black suede gloves are lined with the same fur and can be turned back over the hand to form a muff. The two-piece street frock is of black ribbed quilted silk finished with buttons and belt of black patent leather.

By Adelaide Kerr

PARIS, Sept. 7.—(AP)—Plaid furs for young America appeared at winter style shows, launching something new in accessories for 1936.

Ardanse showed them in scarfs and short coats made of lapin—white barred in black or caramel beige stripped in brown just like a plaid. The fur was cut and seamed like a fabric to gain the plaid effect.

Muff gloves were something else which caught the attention of the style world. The same designer used the plaid furs or silver fox to line the huge cuffs of gloves, which could be turned back over the hand to form a muff. Seal scarfs were also finished with pockets which could be put together to form a muff.

Postage Stamp Buttons

Those fur accessories were worn with new winter frocks of black ribbed or waffle wool or ribbed quilted silk cut on slender form-fitting lines. Postage stamp buttons and belt buckles covered with ising-glass and rimmed with gold, silver leaf clips and small collars and cuffs of mother-of-pearl squares trimmed the frocks which were chiefly designed with high necklines.

The sports mode launched by the same designer was full of interesting tricks. Suits of reddish brown and gray wool were designed with short trousered skirts 15 inches from the ground, some of them creased and cuffed like a man's trousers. Hunting suits had jackets with slits at elbows and between shoulder blades which could be unbuttoned while shooting and then buttoned up again. Colorful high-necked sweaters completed outfits. There were also a number of knitted sports frocks finished with small, bright knitted scarfs tied butterfly fashion and closed with leather fastenings.

Moires And Velvets

For evening wear, a glamorous mode appeared. Rich moires in changeable pink, white and blue or mother-of-pearl weaves and red, black or white velvets woven with shimmering threads were designed with decolletes leaving one shoulder bare and marked fullness in the front of the skirts.

Boat Ride Enjoyed

Members of the Germany-Noe Sunday school class are taking advantage of these beautiful moonlit nights to enjoy al fresco affairs before many members of the class leave for colleges and universities.

A boating party on board the Noe's Ark was a delightful affair last week, with the college students the guests of honor.

Anchor was dropped near a beautiful sand bar, where supper was served. The pleasures were continued on board while the boat drifted down stream in the moonlight.

Rebuilding Objective

To unite in the vital task of rebuilding a nation shaken by years of depression is the goal toward which members of the National Federation of Business and Professional Women will strive during the coming year. The biennial convention in Seattle, last month, resulted in a stirring challenge to women everywhere, a challenge which was voiced in the year's call to action, "Women Unite for Effective Democracy." Miss Charl O. Williams of Washington, D. C., newly elected president of the federation, defines the purpose of the call in her first published statement: "To make democracy work, to make it an effective instrument for meeting the needs of the American people . . . to unite in the vital task of rebuilding a nation shaken by years of depression . . . this is the goal toward which we will strive during the coming year."

This is the 1936 expression of the objective adopted for ten years at the convention held in Richmond in 1931; "the development of leadership in thinking along economic lines." Programs will be built in steps for the ten months of the club year, each step representing a "cause" espoused by the federation. The general topics for these programs and suggested subtopics are to be found in the August issue of Independent Woman as follows: September, "No Limitation Because of Class, Race or Sex." 1. What is the purpose of government? 2. How can it be directed to the benefit of all? 3. Does our constitution make this possible? October, "Efficiency in Government." 1. Trained personnel in public service. 2. Elimination of overlapping units. 3. Taxation for general welfare.

November, "Continuing Education for All." 1. Education for work. 2. Education for the good life. 3. Education for service. December, "Honest Efficient Judiciary." 1. What broad reorganizing is needed? 2. What changes in children's courts? 3. In women's courts? Januarq, "Fairer Distribution of Wealth." 1. Through higher wages. 2. Through taxation. 3. Price control through cooperatives. 4. Through public ownership. 5. What about social credit? February, "Peace." 1. Foreign policy based on recognition of world interdependence. 2. Adequate department of state through increased appropriations. 3. Cooperation with international peace machinery.

March, "Concerted Action for Social Goals. 1. Can we agree what they are? 2. Are women uniting to act on them. 3. Are women cooperating with men to the same end? April, "Life Improvement in Caliber of the Race." 1. Positive health. 2. Birth control. 3. Stefilization of the unfit. May, "Liberty Consistent With Social Well Being." 1. The press and propaganda. 2. How much control of business is desirable? 3. What about lobbies? 4. Academic freedom. June, "Pursuit of Happiness." 1. What is happiness? 2. How can we achieve it? 3. Under what form of government can happiness be assured to the greatest number?

Thus will 60,000 members of the national federation of business and professional women unite to achieve effective democracy through human values. With an ever increasing awareness of public problems business women are fitting themselves for greater participation in public affairs.

Square Dances Returning

"Swing your partners."

"Shashay."

These directions, forgotten by all save our grandparents, will again be heard on ballroom floors this season, according to members of the Dancing Masters' association.

The tempo of life has slowed down, they say, and the old square dances of a simpler generation are returning to favor. Miss Evelyn Kelly, Omaha dance instructor, explained:

"Young people have made the discovery that square dances, such as the Virginia Reel and Turkey-in-the-Straw, are a lot of fun, and a good way for everybody to get acquainted at a party. That's why the west is seeing a revival of these good old dances."

One reason why so many of the public ballrooms were deserted today, it was pointed out by Thomas Birchler, editor of the Dancing Master, the association's official publication, was that dance orchestras are too "radio conscious." He added:

"An orchestra that goes good over the radio often lacks the rhythm so essential to the dance floor. When the music, even of a famous orchestra, fails to click, the dancers don't return."

Birthday Celebrated

The sixth birthday anniversary of Van Pierce, attractive little daughter of Mrs. Rebecca Pierce, was a joyous affair, as she was privileged to invite her most intimate friends to share the pleasures of the day with her on the third of September.

A box party at the Paramount theater was the outstanding feature, with the serving of refreshments and the cutting of the handsome birthday cake completing the pleasures for the young celebrant and Helen Gene Trotter, Barbara Trotter, Jacquelyn James, Jocelyn James, Bettie Bennett, Fred Bennett, Jr., Jene Carroll, June Griffen, Joy Annice Bernhardt, Vettye Yvonne Bernhardt, Mary Evelyn Johnson, Bobbie Kelly, Mary Lynn O'Kelly, Dilmon Bernhardt, Jr., Jack Hayes, Jr., and Tommy Ray Hayes.

Mrs. Pierce was assisted by Mrs. Phillip Bernhardt and Mrs. Fred Bennett.

2 Local Artists Are To Instruct In Music

Miss Florence Ziegler, Mrs. Clyde Sanders Are To Teach Piano And Voice; Friends Offer Their Well Wishes

A progressive step in the world of music was taken Friday night when two of Monroe's outstanding young artists, Mrs. Clyde Sanders and Miss Florence Ziegler, opened their handsome new studio on South Grand street to the public with a brilliant reception.

The spacious studio, including reception suite, recital hall and private studios for the piano pupils of Miss Ziegler and the vocal students of Mrs. Sanders, was banked with beautiful gift flowers from friends who are deeply interested in the splendid work being accomplished by these two instructors. Two concert grand pianos are the outstanding furnishings of the two studios, freshly decorated and appointed with distinction.

Miss Ziegler, who has been identified with Northeast Center of Louisiana State university for the past two years, possesses a splendid musical background. She is a graduate of Lindenwood college, St. Charles, Mo., and the Chicago College of Music. She spent the past summer doing special work under Rudolph Ganz and Magnolies of Chicago. Miss Ziegler is also a composer of note, with several brilliant compositions to her credit. Outstanding was her musical theme for "Flood Suite," rendered in this city by the Shreveport Symphony orchestra several years ago and broadcast over the radio from Chicago, during the World's fair.

Mrs. Sanders has been a prominent figure in musical circles of North Louisiana since her graduation from the New England conservatory of music in Boston, Mass. She possesses a beautiful, highly cultured soprano voice. She has just returned from Chicago, where she engaged in special work under Isaac Van Grove, coach of the Chicago Civic Opera company.

Cultural Monroe was present Friday night to extend sincere congratulations and wish these ambitious young artists success in their new field of endeavor.

Greetings were extended by Mrs. Frances Leavell, who wore a charming evening model of canary colored organza; Mrs. Louis Hullum, in Monte blue crepe with gold embroidery; Mrs. Henry Whitfield, in pink lace and chiffon; Mrs. Palmer Hardie, in blue and white flowered chiffon; Mrs. Fred Culpepper, in black chiffon; Mrs. J. B. Kugler, in pastel blue lace; Mrs. J. C. Ziegler, in black and white flowered crepe, and Mrs. Blanche Oliver, in blue and white flowered chiffon.

Miss Jeanette Ziegler, in black net evening model; Mrs. Shelby Cage, in white satin model; Miss Nellie Breard, in Madelon blue lace evening model; Mrs. Grayson Guthrie, in blue chiffon, and Miss Katherine Kugler, in pink crepe, assisted in serving refreshing mint frappe and delicious confections during the receiving hours.

Lieutenant Governor James A. Noe, Mrs. Noe and their young son and daughter, James A., Jr., and Gay, returned home Wednesday from Louisville, Ky., where they spent several weeks in the home of Mrs. John Noe. Miss Gay Noe was joined by her parents in Bristol, Va., where she spent the summer at Camp Sequoyah.

History Of Methodism In Monroe Traced By Miss Wossman

Facts About Church Outlined By Teacher

Growth And Development Of Faith In This Section Of Louisiana Is Briefly Related By Educator

Miss Julia Wossman, prominent figure in the cultural and educational life of this city, recently spoke with unnecessary accuracy and with unusual interest on the subject of the growth and development of the Monroe Methodist church.

She said in part

"To be able to appreciate the story of the growth and development of the churches in Louisiana, one must have a picture in his mind of the social structure of the community in which the church functioned at the time of its growth and development.

"The first Methodist preacher who visited Louisiana came in the territorial days when the Ouachita country was wilderness, the home of many Indians, with few white settlements which were being added to by pioneers moving in from Mississippi and other eastern states.

"Present-day Monroe was at that time Washitaw Post, a trading post located where the Spanish Fort Miro had been.

"The white settlers prospered and plantation life with its practice of slavery and its leisurely tenor, flourished up to the time of the Civil war. Then came the readjustment period. Reconstruction, with its hardships and poverty, followed by another economic struggle, the plantation owners trying to rebuild their properties and at the same time train ex-slaves for citizenship.

"Society after 1875 took on again an era of prosperity, and life became somewhat as it was before the war, until modern inventions made necessary the adjustments which have become a constant factor in our development.

"Prior to the Louisiana purchase there was probably no Protestant preacher of any kind in the Louisiana territory. However, in the year 1804, Lorenzo Dow records in his journal that he held religious meetings in several settlements. This Mr. Dow was the ancestor of the Langford family, members of the Methodist church today. Three generations of the Langfords have borne his name.

"Learner Blackman was the first Methodist preacher known to visit Monroe (then Washitaw Post). He writes this entry in his journal September, 1806 (129 years ago): 'I proceeded up as far as the settlement on Washitaw river. This journey I went by myself. It was then a solid wilderness for nearly 100 miles. I started early on Monday morning about the first of September, rode about 60 miles and stopped some time after night set in. The reason I rode so late I wanted to get some water. The weather was very hot and I was very thirsty, but I had to stop without water. I was provided with fire-works and kindled up a fire as soon as I could. I had been stopped only a few minutes before I felt sick. How indescribably solitary I felt for a little while in the wild woods, sick, by myself! But the Lord preserved me. Tuesday morning I started some time before daylight and came to water after riding three or four miles. About 11 o'clock a.m., I passed by a settlement on the Washitaw river, near where I crossed it. They were French people, and I was very much difficulted to get directions on the way to Washitaw Post. The road was very bad and from that settlement it was called 24 miles to the post. I started and got bewildered in the swamp, I suppose for an hour, and then had to return to the settlement and hire a young Frenchman to ride with me about a mile to put me in the right way. That night I reached the post, which was called 100 miles from where I started on Monday morning.

"'About sundown Tuesday evening, I met a negro man who could talk English, and who told me of a tavern about four miles from the post, kept by an American. I rode as fast as I could and reached the tavern after dark. I saw a number of horses hitched near the house. I asked for quarters and something to eat, as I had eaten but little during the past day. Behold, when I came to inquire, the company had met for a ball in Mr. George Hook's new house, about 30 or 40 yards from his old house, where he kept his tavern preparations. I was asked in a little while by a Mr. Henderson whether I would not walk up to the ball room. I told him no; for in the first place I was very tired; and in the second place, for more than nine years I had considered such things the foolishness of folly. In a little time a young man came in and called me by name, who had known me when I traveled the Licking circuit in Kentucky. Word soon passed that there was a preacher in the house. However, they let me alone and I let them alone and went to bed as soon as possible. If it had been in a country where I was known and where the people had been taught religion, I think I would have gone in and tried to break up the ball by praying and exhorting among them. But in a country where some had grown up to be men and women and never had heard a minister, except a Roman priest, I thought it would not be prudent to break in upon them in that way. I rested pretty well until a late hour in the night, when a general row broke out among the party in the ball-room, and such awful swearing my ears had never heard before. The very woods seemed to re-echo with horrid blasphemies.

"'Wednesday I proceeded up to Col. Morehouse's settlement in Prarie Mer Rouge, after having left an appointment to preach on Bayou DeSiard on my return. I preached at Col. Morehouse's and was well and kindly treated by him. I then went on about 15 or 20 miles below him to Judge McLaughlin's, who lives on Bayou Bartholomew, on the head of Bayou DeSiard Island, where I also preached.'

"In 1807 Elisha Bowman was appointed to Ouachita (spelled Ochitta in the conference minutes, later Washitaw), the first regularly appointed minister. Mr. Bowman was a Virginian who had moved westward into Kentucky. The year before his appointment he rode from Kentucky to Louisiana on horseback. Mr. Bowman was welcomed by the citizens of Ouachita Post, many of whom, according to Dr. J. G. Jones' 'History of Methodism in Mississippi,' had been accustomed to religious services in Mississippi. He found Mr. George Hook, at whose home Mr. Blackmon had run into a dance the year before, most cordial, and this home became a stopping place for itinerants, and many of the family later became members of the Methodist church (among them his daughter, Elizabeth, Mrs. Stirling, a saintly member of the church up to the age of 74 years). The family of Judge McLaughlin on the Island (Mrs. McLaughlin, and her sisters, Jane and Nancy Morrison) became Methodists under Mr. Bowman's preaching. The place of greatest attraction to Mr. Bowman was the Griffing settlement on Prairie Jefferson, on Bayou Bonidee. The home of Jeremiah Griffing constituted the headquarters of Methodism in the Ouachita country for 30 years. Judge McLaughlin, first judge of probate of Ouachita under the government of the territory of Orleans was the ancestor of the Russell family, Harry Russell, Mrs. Llewella Hayes, Mrs. Dorothy Blackman, who are communicants of the local church.

"There followed Elisha Bowman 23 circuit riders appointed to the Ouachita district, who rode the sparsely settled territory ministering to the people, making converts where and when they could, and organizing churches at Prairie Jefferson, Prairie Mer Rouge, on Island DeSiard, and on the D'Arbonne near Farmerville.

"In 1872 the old Union church burned to the ground in a fire that swept Grand street with a $500,000 loss. In 1874, during the great overflow, the Ouachita Telegraph gives an account of a service the Rev. Mr. Evans held in the new church for the colored people. They filled the house. Perhaps not one in fifty in the congregation had ever been in a church before, the account says. A gift to the church of a beautiful toned bell was made by Anthony Wayne Faulkner, grandfather of W. B. Clark, prominent member of the church today. The bell is the one now in use, having been removed to the present brick church when the congregation began worshipping there.

"January, 1876, the new brick church which had cost $7,000, and which was still unpaid for, collapsed under 13 inches of snow, in a cold snap with the temperature six degrees below zero, when the river was frozen solidly across. There had been a friendly rivalry between Episcopalians and Methodists in the winter of 1861, when both denominations were hurrying to get their churches finished. The workmen of the Methodist church continued their work through a spell of weather that was so cold that it caused the mortar to freeze. It was believed that this was the cause of the collapsing of the church with the pressure of the snow in 1876.

"In 1895-1898 E. N. Evans started the move for a new brick church and parsonage, the buildings now used for worship and as a Sunday school annex. The parsonage was completed during the four years of Mr. Evans' pastorate, and he and his beautiful young wife occupied it. The church was still in process of construction, and came into use under the pastorate of Dr. James Levick Pierce, scholar and eloquent preacher.

"History from that time on is within the span of the memories of many members of the congregation today.

"Names on the church register at the close of the last century which stand out prominently and have continued through more recent history of the church are Meredith, Hardy, Trousdale, Faulkner, Connor, Ivy Davis, Blanks, Hanna, Gunby, Standifer, Russell, McGuire, Dawkins, McHenry, Sanders, Riley, Surghnor, Sholars, Ashley, McCranie, L. G. Johnston, J. W. Johnston, Faulk, C. B. Johnston, Munholland, Garrett, Gayle, Sadler, B. V. McDonald, and others, many of whom the world was not worthy.

"Then there were the ministers, every one of whom has made the community better because he lived in it; Sawyer, straightforward and fearless; Means, gentleman, scholar, and firend of man; Parker, thinker, seer, priest; Wynn, kindly friend and brother.

"The whole line of them, as they came and went, have been leaders who stood for what was fine and holy, and have inspired men and women to higher living."

CHAPTER XIX

The shock of that afternoon set back Jo's recovery several days, and she developed a slight cold which made Miss Conley doubly cautious. But the nurse found it unnecessary to recall Doctor Seavers to Crest Lake.

"And it's really a shame, too," she told her patient jokingly. "Doctor Seavers liked the place so much!"

Jo's smile was slow and weak. Despite Miss Conley's cheery presence and the bright sunlight of her room, Jo was miserable. She could only guess what had transpired after the Fragonets and Mrs. Marsh had left her rooms at the Inn. Suppose the Fragonets had separated, planned a divorce, and Edna Fragonet carried out her threat to name Jo as corespondent?

And that was only a part of Jo's worries, for she could not be sure that Douglas Marsh didn't intend to take his mother's advice and let her go. If that happened, trouble was indeed ahead. Once she had paid Doctor Seaver's bill and returned to town, jobless, she would be worse off than before. And if there were unfavorable publicity in connection with the Fragonets, a job would be more difficult to find. Jo tried to tell herself that Marsh would keep her—but, after all, this unpleasant old lady was his mother, and he would listen to her. And even if Marsh believed that Jo was in the right, he couldn't employ a young woman who got herself into situations. Perhaps he was only waiting until she got well, and would then break the news.

The astute Miss Conley saw that Jo was troubled, and knew that her worries were doing her patient no good. One morning, as she brought in Jo's breakfast tray, she drew a chair close to the bed and sat down.

"Miss Darien . . . why don't you just let go and talk? It would do you a world of good—and perhaps I know more about what's worrying you than you suspect."

Jo set down her coffee cup and met the nurse's friendly gaze. "You know how I happened to be out there in the hall that day?"

Miss Conley nodded. "I've put two and two together. Nurses are good at it, you know."

"Well, wouldn't you be worried if you were in my shoes?"

"I would not," said Miss Conley.

"But I'm sure Mr. Marsh will fire me after what's happened," Jo told her.

The nurse shook her head. "If you could have seen his face when he brought you in here that day you wouldn't say that. And you should have heard his voice when he told me I wasn't to let anyone order me away from attending you. He may not know it yet himself, but he's in love with you."

Jo managed a laugh: "I'm afraid you're incurably romantic, Miss Conley."

"Not after what I've seen of men, I'm not," the nurse insisted. "And as for this trouble with Mrs. Fragonet, I wouldn't worry about that, either. Probably she's found him in the arms of half a dozen different women, and raised a row every time."

"You don't think it was my fault, do you?"

"Hardly," sniffed Miss Conley. "My advice to you is, get well as soon as you can, and then go on about your business here as though nothing had happened."

"When do you think I can get up?"

"In two or three more days if you don't fret yourself into a relapse, and —" Miss Conley paused a moment, smiling, "if I can keep the male visitors out of your room."

"Was Fragonet here again?" Jo asked, startled.

"No . . ." Miss Conley said. "It wasn't Fragonet.

"Douglas Marsh?"

The nurse shook her head. "Mr. Barston wanted to see you."

"Oh!" Quickly Jo busied herself with her breakfast, for she was afraid she hadn't kept the disappointment out of her tone when Miss Conley said it was Barston, and not Marsh, who had called. It seemed queer that Marsh hadn't come to see her since he had ordered Miss Conley back to the room. Surely—

Her thoughts were interrupted by the ring of the telephone. Miss Conley answered, then turned to the bed.

"A Miss Davis is downstairs," she said.

Jo's eyes flew wide. "Tubby! Tell her to come up right away."

Miss Conley looked doubtful. "Are you sure it will be good for you?"

"Good for me?" exclaimed Jo. "Tubby's the best tonic in the world!"

And it was true that when the big, good-natured Tubby bounced into the room Jo's spirits rose instantly. Nurse Conley smiled her approval, and left.

"What's this I hear about you trying to commit suicide in a sailboat?" asked Tubby, perching on the edge of the bed until the springs sagged dangerously.

"Tubby, you're the grandest sight I've seen in days!" cried Jo. "But—how'd you hear about the accident?"

"Say, when Peter Fragonet goes out in a sailboat with a girl, and gets run into by another girl in a speedboat—that's news!" At Jo's startled look, Tubby laughed and added, "Don't worry. The paper didn't say who the girl was. I didn't know until I got here that it was you. But when they told me downstairs that you'd been injured in a sailboat accident I multiplied four by the day of the month, subtracted the age of my little brother—and got Jo Darien. Now tell me all about it. How did it happen?"

"I'd rather not talk about it, really, Tubby. You're going to stay a while, aren't you?"

"I'm going to stay until my money runs out," Tubby assured her. "You don't know how exclusive this place is. I practically had to present references."

Joe gave a relieved sigh. "I'm awfully glad you're going to be here a while, Tubby. And I can tell you all about it a little later."

"Sure," said her former roommate, "The thing for you to do now is get out of this bed."

"The nurse says I can be up in two or three days."

"I'll bet Bret will be glad to see you again," Tubby said.

"Bret? Why, what do you mean, Tubby?"

"I mean Bret. Want me to spell it? I said I'd bet he would be glad to see you up and around again."

"But I plan to stay here at Crest Lake, Tubby. That is, if Mr. Marsh isn't—isn't too disgusted with my awkwardness."

It was Tubby's turn to look astonished. "Do you mean to tell me you didn't know Bret Paul was here?"

For a moment Jo could not speak. Then with an effort she asked slowly, "Is Bret really here, Tubby?"

The other nodded. "I met him not 10 minutes ago down near the lake, and I suppose he'd been here most of the summer. He must have come while you were laid up—but it's certainly strange he didn't send word to you." Suddenly Tubby's face fell. "He probably planned to surprise you and now I've let the cat out of the bag."

Jo was silent, staring dully from the window, and Tubby added, "You don't seem very glad about it."

"We quarreled, Tubby, just before I came down here. He didn't want me to come, and he said if I did come we were all through. You were right. Babs Montgomery had let him know that I went dancing that night with Marsh."

"She would," said Tubby feelingly.

"Babs is here, too, with her parents."

"Well, doesn't that make everything lovely!" Tubby stood up and her eyes blazed with fierce loyalty. "I suppose she's been making it as unpleasant as she could."

Jo smiled. "She hasn't been awfully cordial, but then I don't mind that. It was Babs who told Marsh that Bret and I were very much in love. She told him he'd be doing a nice thing if he gave Bret a job as life guard down here for the summer."

"I begin to get it," said Tubby, nodding wisely. "She was afraid maybe you were going to cop off this millionaire, and that would burn her plenty." The chubby Davis girl looked down at Jo. "I can see I got here just in time, old girl."

"Now, Tubby," Jo laughed, "you're always looking for a good row!" But her laughter stopped as quickly as it had begun, and she dropped her gaze soberly to the coverlet. "Tubby . . . I wish Bret hadn't come. Everything's all mixed up, and—and I don't know which way to turn."

"Turn to me," Tubby said. "I have a hunch you haven't told me everything that's happened down here."

Missionary Society Meets

The Gordon Avenue Missionary society met at the church Thursday at 3 p.m. for a business session. Mrs. C. L. Taylor, president, presided. She used as her text for devotional 2 Timothy 2:15, "Study to show thyself approved unto God, a workman that needeth not to be ashamed, rightly dividing the word of truth."

Mrs. E. K. Reeves gave an interesting report on mission study coaching day at Rayville. She emphasized preparation as being the general theme of the day's study. After reports of various officers and superintendents, the meeting adjourned.

Mrs. E. C. Gibson is now at home to her friends in her suite at the Alvis hotel following an appendectomy at the St. Francis sanitarium.

Mrs. F. C. McMullen and son, Leon, have returned from a visit with friends and relatives in Montreal, Canada. En route home, they spent several pleasant days in New York City as the guests of Mrs. McMullen's nephew, Mr. W. R. Wunch and in Hagerstown, Md., as the guests of Dr. and Mrs. William Schulze, former residents of this city.

Mrs. Sallie Meredith is enjoying a visit with Mrs. Mattie Trousdale Brown in New Orleans.

Mrs. Robert Moore of Monticello, Ark., is spending a few days with Miss Lilah Moore.

Mr. and Mrs. John Downes and son, John, Jr., of Houston, Texas, are enjoying a visit with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Downes.

Mrs. John Owen of Rayville spent last week in the home of Mrs. Ivy McDonald.

Back From Vacation

One of the most enthusiastic vacationists returning home is Mrs. Marion Learned, who possesses the happy faculty of finding "sermons in stones and good in everything."

She also possesses a rollicking sense of fun, a rare sense of humor and an enthusiasm that bubble like a mountain spring.

She is at her happiest when motoring with her two sons, Alvah and Noel, in strange lands. Last year they motored, during the entire summer, along the beautiful countryside in England, and this summer motored to Quebec and points of interest in the east.

They were fortunate enough to arrive at the time the French-Canadians in the Normandy-like countryside were paying tribute to their patron saint, Jean Baptiste.

The program featured the annual staging of "LeFeu de la St. Jean" (St. John's Fire) in La Fontaine park, Montreal. Of outstanding interest was their visit to the shrine of Saint Anne de Beaupre, where the afflicted crawl on their hands and knees up the mountainside for their spiritual healing.

Mrs. Learned motored out of her way to visit the famous Dionne quintuplets in Callendar, Ontario. She described these five beautiful children, who are yearned over by the whole world, as being healthy, happy and even more beautiful than their pictures portray.

In Ottawa, the houses of parliament were visited and the drive along picturesque Lake Nippissing enjoyed to the fullest. Mrs. Learned speaks of the people in the French provinces as being unspoiled by modern customs. They have preserved the habits and ways of their forefathers and are free in mind and rustic in their wishes, riding daily to market in their ox carts. They seem, she said, like characters lifted out of a novel centuries old.

En route to New York city, the motor trip led along the Hudson and past the Palisades. Mrs. Learned devoted considerable time to business but found time to visit every point of interest.

To be able to return from a six week's motor tour in distant lands, refreshed, glowing with enthusiasm and eager for work, is something few people experience. We found Mrs. Learned as tireless as the tides, looking forward to a winter of great activity in the various fields of endeavor and especially in Little theater work, where her suggestions, ideas and skillful aid is considered invaluable.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Layton and two children, Robert, Jr., and Carol, returned home yesterday from a motor trip to Colorado Springs.

Miss Nell DeLee and Miss Louise Allen are spending the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. R. A. DeLee of Shreveport.

Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Turner are enjoying a week-end visit with friends in Alexandria.

Mrs. A. E. Smith is attending Hoffman's Beautician Fall show in Dallas this week.

Hilda Ann Hair will be counted among the students attending Louisiana State Normal college this year.

Miss Mary Clay, former librarian at Northeast Center of Louisiana State university, completed a ten days' visit in the home of Mrs. George Hair and returned to resume her work as librarian at Baylor college, Belton, Texas.

History Of Methodism In Monroe Traced By Miss Wossman

Facts About Church Outlined By Teacher

Growth And Development Of Faith In This Section Of Louisiana Is Briefly Related By Educator

Miss Julia Wossman, prominent figure in the cultural and educational life of this city, recently spoke with customary accuracy and with unusual interest on the subject of the growth and development of the Monroe Methodist church.

She said in part:

"To be able to appreciate the story of the growth and development of the churches in Louisiana, one must have a picture in his mind of the social structure of the community in which the church functioned at the time of its growth and development.

"The first Methodist preacher who visited Louisiana came in the territorial days when the Ouachita country was wilderness, the home of many Indians, with few white settlements which were being added to by pioneers moving in from Mississippi and other eastern states.

"Present-day Monroe was at that time Washitaw Post, a trading post located where the Spanish Fort Miro had been.

"The white settlers prospered and plantation life with its practice of slavery and its leisurely tenor, flourished up to the time of the Civil war. Then came the readjustment period. Reconstruction, with its hardships and poverty, followed by another economic struggle, the plantation owners trying to rebuild their properties and at the same time train ex-slaves for citizenship.

"Society after 1875 took on again an era of prosperity, and life became somewhat as it was before the war, until modern inventions made necessary the adjustments which have become a constant factor in our development.

"Prior to the Louisiana purchase ther was probably no Protestant preacher of any kind in the Louisiana territory. However, in the year 1804, Lorenzo Dow records in his journal that he held religious meetings in several settlements. This Mr. Dow was the ancestor of the Langford family, members of the Methodist church today. Three generations of the Langfords have borne his name.

"Learner Blackman was the first Methodist preacher known to visit Monroe (then Washitaw Post). He writes this entry in his journal September, 1806 (129 years ago): 'I proceeded up as far as the settlement on Washitaw river. This journey I went by myself. It was then a solid wilderness for nearly 100 miles. I started early on Monday morning about the first of September, rode about 60 miles and stopped some time after night set in. The reason I rode so late I wanted to get some water. The weather was very hot and I was very thirsty, but I had to stop without water. I was provided with fire-works and kindled up a fire as soon as I could. I had been stopped only a few minutes before I felt sick. How indescribably solitary I felt for a little while in the wild woods, sick, by myself! But the Lord preserved me. Tuesday morning I started some time before daylight and came to water after riding three or four miles. About 11 o'clock a.m., I passed by a settlement on the Washitaw river, near where I crossed it. They were French people, and I was very much difficulted to get directions on the way to Washitaw Post. The road was very bad and from that settlement it was called 24 miles to the post. I started and got bewildered in the swamp, I suppose for an hour, and then had to return to the settlement and hire a young Frenchman to ride with me about a mile to put me in the right way. That night I reached the post, which was called 100 miles from where I started on Monday morning.

"'About sundown Tuesday evening, I met a negro man who could talk English, and who told me of a tavern about four miles from the post, kept by an American. I rode as fast as I could and reached the tavern after dark. I saw a number of horses hitched near the house. I asked for quarters and something to eat, as I had eaten but little during the past day. Behold, when I came to inquire, the company had met for a ball in Mr. George Hook's new house, about 30 or 40 yards from his old house, where he kept his tavern preparations. I was asked in a little while by a Mr. Henderson whether I would not walk up to the ball room. I told him no; for in the first place I was very tired; and in the second place, for more than nine years I had considered such things the foolishness of folly. In a little time a young man came in and called me by name, who had known me when I traveled the Licking circuit in Kentucky. Word soon passed that there was a preacher in the house. However, they let me alone and I let them alone and went to bed as soon as possible. If it had been in a country where I was known and where the people had been taught religion, I think I would have gone in and tried to break up the ball by praying and exhorting among them. But in a country where some had grown up to be men and women and never had heard a minister, except a Roman priest, I thought it would not be prudent to break in upon them in that way. I rested pretty well until a late hour in the night, when a general row broke out among the party in the ball-room, and such awful swearing my ears had never heard before. The very woods seemed to re-echo with horrid blasphemies.

"'Wednesday I proceeded up to Col. Morehouse's settlement in Prarie Mer Rouge, after having left an appointment to preach on Bayou DeSiard on my return. I preached at Col. Morehouse's and was well and kindly treated by him. I then went on about 15 or 20 miles below him to Judge McLaughlin's, who lives on Bayou Bartholomew, on the head of Bayou DeSiard Island, where I also preached.'

"In 1807 Elisha Bowman was appointed to Ouachita (spelled Ochitta in the conference minutes, later Washitaw), the first regularly appointed minister. Mr. Bowman was a Virginian who had moved westward into Kentucky. The year before his appointment he rode from Kentucky to Louisiana on horseback. Mr. Bowman was welcomed by the citizens of Ouachita Post, many of whom, according to Dr. J. G. Jones' 'History of Methodism in Mississippi,' had been accustomed to religious services in Mississippi. He found Mr. George Hook, at whose home Mr. Blackmon had run into a dance the year before, most cordial, and this home became a stopping place for itinerants, and many of the family later became members of the Methodist church (among them his daughter, Elizabeth, Mrs. Stirling, a saintly member of the church up to the age of 74 years). The family of Judge McLaughlin on the Island (Mrs. McLaughlin, and her sisters, Jane and Nancy Morrison) became Methodists under Mr. Bowman's preaching. The place of greatest attraction to Mr. Bowman was the Griffing settlement on Prairie Jefferson, on Bayou Bonidee. The home of Jeremiah Griffing constituted the headquarters of Methodism in the Ouachita country for 30 years. Judge McLaughlin, first judge of probate of Ouachita under the government of the territory of Orleans was the ancestor of the Russell family, Harry Russell, Mrs. Llewella Hayes, Mrs. Dorothy Blackman, who are communicants of the local church.

"There followed Elisha Bowman 23 circuit riders appointed to the Ouachita district, who rode the sparsely settled territory ministering to the people, making converts where and when they could, and organizing churches at Prairie Jefferson, Prairie Mer Rouge, on Island DeSiard, and on the D'Arbonne near Farmerville.

"In 1872 the old Union church burned to the ground in a fire that swept Grand street with a $500,000 loss. In 1874, during the great overflow, the Ouachita Telegraph gives an account of a service the Rev. Mr. Evans held in the new church for the colored people. They filled the house. Perhaps not one in fifty in the congregation had ever been in a church before, the account says. A gift to the church of a beautiful toned bell was made by Anthony Wayne Faulkner, grandfather of W. B. Clark, prominent member of the church today. The bell is the one now in use, having been removed to the present brick church when the congregation began worshipping there.

"January, 1876, the new brick church which had cost $7,000, and which was still unpaid for, collapsed under 13 inches of snow, in a cold snap with the temperature six degrees below zero, when the river was frozen solidly across. There had been a friendly rivalry between Episcopalians and Methodists in the winter of 1861, when both denominations were hurrying to get their churches finished. The workmen of the Methodist church continued their work through a spell of weather that was so cold that it caused the mortar to freeze. It was believed that this was the cause of the collapsing of the church with the pressure of the snow in 1876.

"In 1895-1898 E. N. Evans started the move for a new brick church and parsonage, the buildings now used for worship and as a Sunday school annex. The parsonage was completed during the four years of Mr. Evans' pastorate, and he and his beautiful young wife occupied it. The church was still in process of construction, and came into use under the pastorate of Dr. James Levick Pierce, scholar and eloquent preacher.

"History from that time on is within the span of the memories of many members of the congregation today.

"Names on the church register at the close of the last century which stand out prominently and have continued through more recent history of the church are Meredith, Hardy, Trousdale, Faulkner, Connor, Ivy Davis, Blanks, Hanna, Gunby, Standifer, Russell, McGuire, Dawkins, McHenry, Sanders, Riley, Surghnor, Sholars, Ashley, McCranie, L. G. Johnston, J. W. Johnston, Faulk, C. B. Johnston, Munholland, Garrett, Gayle, Sadler, B. V. McDonald, and others, many of whom the world was not worthy.

"Then there were the ministers, every one of whom has made the community better because he lived in it; Sawyer, straightforward and fearless; Means, gentleman, scholar, and firend of man; Parker, thinker, seer, priest; Wynn, kindly friend and brother.

"The whole line of them, as they came and went, have been eaders who stood for what was fine and holy, and have inspired men and women to higher living."

CHAPTER XIX

The shock of that afternoon set back Jo's recovery several days, and she developed a slight cold which made Miss Conley doubly cautious. But the nurse found it unnecessary to recall Doctor Seavers to Crest Lake.

"And it's really a shame, too," she told her patient jokingly. "Doctor Seavers liked the place so much!"

Jo's smile was slow and weak. Despite Miss Conley's cheery presence and the bright sunlight of her room, Jo was miserable. She could only guess what had transpired after the Fragonets and Mrs. Marsh had left her rooms at the Inn. Suppose the Fragonets had separated, planned a divorce, and Edna Fragonet carried out her threat to name Jo as corespondent?

And that was only a part of Jo's worries, for she could not be sure that Douglas Marsh didn't intend to take his mother's advice and let her go. If that happened, trouble was indeed ahead. Once she had paid Doctor Seaver's bill and returned to town, jobless, she would be worse off than before. And if there were unfavorable publicity in connection with the Fragonets, a job would be more difficult to find. Jo tried to tell herself that Marsh would keep her—but, after all, this unpleasant old lady was his mother, and he would listen to her. And even if Marsh believed that Jo was in the right, he couldn't employ a young woman who got herself into situations. Perhaps he was only waiting until she got well, and would then break the news.

The astute Miss Conley saw that Jo was troubled, and knew that her worries were doing her patient no good. One morning, as she brought in Jo's breakfast tray, she drew a chair close to the bed and sat down.

"Miss Darien . . . why don't you just let go and talk? It would do you a world of good—and perhaps I know more about what's worrying you than you suspect."

Jo set down her coffee cup and met the nurse's friendly gaze. "You know how I happened to be out there in the hall that day?"

Miss Conley nodded. "I've put two and two together. Nurses are good at it, you know."

"Well, wouldn't you be worried if you were in my shoes?"

"I would not," said Miss Conley.

"But I'm sure Mr. Marsh will fire me after what's happened," Jo told her.

The nurse shook her head. "If you could have seen his face when he brought you in here that day you wouldn't say that. And you should have heard his voice when he told me I wasn't to let anyone order me away from attending you. He may not know it yet himself, but he's in love with you."

Jo managed a laugh: "I'm afraid you're incurably romantic, Miss Conley."

"Not after what I've seen of men, I'm not," the nurse insisted. "And as for this trouble with Mrs. Fragonet, I wouldn't worry about that, either. Probably she's found him in the arms of half a dozen different women, and raised a row every time."

"You don't think it was my fault, do you?"

"Hardly," sniffed Miss Conley. "My advice to you is, get well as soon as you can, and then go on about your business here as though nothing had happened."

"When do you think I can get up?"

"In two or three more days if you don't fret yourself into a relapse, and —" Miss Conley paused a moment, smiling, "if I can keep the male visitors out of your room."

"Was Fragonet here again?" Jo asked, startled.

"No . . ." Miss Conley said. "It wasn't Fragonet.

"Douglas Marsh?"

The nurse shook her head. "Mr. Barston wanted to see you."

"Oh!" Quickly Jo busied herself with her breakfast, for she was afraid she hadn't kept the disappointment out of her tone when Miss Conley said it was Barston, and not Marsh, who had called. It seemed queer that Marsh hadn't come to see her since he had ordered Miss Conley back to the room. Surely—

* * *

Her thoughts were interrupted by the ring of the telephone. Miss Conley answered, then turned to the bed.

"A Miss Davis is downstairs," she said.

Jo's eyes flew wide. "Tubby! Tell her to come up right away."

Miss Conley looked doubtful. "Are you sure it will be good for you?"

"Good for me?" exclaimed Jo. "Tubby's the best tonic in the world!"

And it was true that when the big, good-natured Tubby bounced into the room Jo's spirits rose instantly. Nurse Conley smiled her approval, and left.

"What's this I hear about you trying to commit suicide in a sailboat?" asked Tubby, perching on the edge of the bed until the springs sagged dangerously.

"Tubby, you're the grandest sight I've seen in days!" cried Jo. "But—how'd you hear about the accident?"

"Say, when Peter Fragonet goes out in a sailboat with a girl, and gets run into by another girl in a speedboat—that's news!" At Jo's startled look, Tubby laughed and added. "Don't worry. The paper didn't say who the girl was. I didn't know until I got here that it was you. But when they told me downstairs that you'd been injured in a sailboat accident I multiplied four by the day of the month, subtracted the age of my little brother—and got Jo Darien. Now tell me all about it. How did it happen?"

"I'd rather not talk about it, really, Tubby. You're going to stay a while, aren't you?"

"I'm going to stay until my money runs out," Tubby assured her. "You don't know how exclusive this place is. I practically had to present references."

Joe gave a relieved sigh. "I'm awfully glad you're going to be here a while, Tubby. And I can tell you all about it a little later."

"Sure," said her former roommate, "The thing for you to do now is get out of this bed."

"The nurse says I can be up in two or three days."

"I'll bet Bret will be glad to see you again," Tubby said.

"Bret? Why, what do you mean, Tubby?"

"I mean Bret. Want me to spell it? I said I'd bet he would be glad to see you up and around again."

"But I plan to stay here at Crest Lake, Tubby. That is, if Mr. Marsh isn't—isn't too disgusted with my awkwardness."

It was Tubby's turn to look astonished. "Do you mean to tell me you didn't know Bret Paul was here?"

For a moment Jo could not speak. Then with an effort she asked slowly, "Is Bret really here, Tubby?"

The other nodded. "I met him not 10 minutes ago down near the lake, and I suppose he'd been here most of the summer. He must have come while you were laid up—but it's certainly strange he didn't send word to you." Suddenly Tubby's face fell. "He probably planned to surprise you and now I've let the cat out of the bag."

Jo was silent, staring dully from the window, and Tubby added, "You don't seem very glad about it."

"We quarreled, Tubby, just before I came down here. He didn't want me to come, and he said if I did come we were all through. You were right. Babs Montgomery had let him know that I went dancing that night with Marsh."

"She would," said Tubby feelingly.

"Babs is here, too, with her parents."

"Well, doesn't that make everything lovely!" Tubby stood up and her eyes blazed with fierce loyalty. "I suppose she's been making it as unpleasant as she could."

Jo smiled. "She hasn't been awfully cordial, but then I don't mind that. It was Babs who told Marsh that Bret and I were very much in love. She told him he'd be doing a nice thing if he gave Bret a job as life guard down here for the summer."

"I begin to get it," said Tubby, nodding wisely. "She was afraid maybe you were going to cop off this millionaire, and that would burn her plenty." The chubby Davis girl looked down at Jo. "I can see I got here just in time, old girl."

"Now, Tubby," Jo laughed, "you're always looking for a good row!" But her laughter stopped as quickly as it had begun, and she dropped her gaze soberly to the coverlet. "Tubby . . . I wish Bret hadn't come. Everything's all mixed up, and—and I don't know which way to turn."

"Turn to me," Tubby said. "I have a hunch you haven't told me everything that's happened down here."

Back From Vacation

One of the most enthusiastic vacationists returning home is Mrs. Marion Learned, who possesses the happy faculty of finding "sermons in stones and good in everything."

She also possesses a rollicking sense of fun, a rare sense of humor and an enthusiasm that bubble like a mountain spring.

She is at her happiest when motoring with her two sons, Alvah and Noel, in strange lands. Last year they motored, during the entire summer, along the beautiful countryside in England, and this summer motored to Quebec and points of interest in the east.

They were fortunate enough to arrive at the time the French-Canadians in the Normandy-like countryside were paying tribute to their patron saint, Jean Baptiste.

The program featured the annual staging of "LeFeu de la St. Jean" (St. John's Fire) in La Fontaine park, Montreal. Of outstanding interest was their visit to the shrine of Saint Anne de Beaupre, where the afflicted crawl on their hands and knees up the mountainside for their spiritual healing.

Mrs. Learned motored out of her way to visit the famous Dionne quintuplets in Callendar, Ontario. She described these five beautiful children, who are yearned over by the whole world, as being healthy, happy and even more beautiful than their pictures portray.

In Ottawa, the houses of parliament were visited and the drive along picturesque Lake Nippissing enjoyed to the fullest. Mrs. Learned speaks of the people in the French provinces as being unspoiled by modern customs. They have preserved the habits and ways of their forefathers and are free in mind and rustic in their wishes, riding daily to market in their ox carts. They seem, she said, like characters lifted out of a novel centuries old.

En route to New York city, the motor trip led along the Hudson and past the Palisades. Mrs. Learned devoted considerable time to business but found time to visit every point of interest.

To be able to return from a six week's motor tour in distant lands, refreshed, glowing with enthusiasm and eager for work, is something few people experience. We found Mrs. Learned as tireless as the tides, looking forward to a winter of great activity in the various fields of endeavor and especially in Little theater work, where her suggestions, ideas and skillful aid is considered invaluable.

"What shall I do when God rises up, and when He calls what shall I answer Him?" When God rises up in judgment, and calls the world of mankind to account for activities while living in the state of probation, there is one thing certain concerning us all: We shall either be ready to meet Him, or we shall be unprepared. GRACE CHURCH

Edward Farren Hayward, Rector

The regular Sunday services will be resumed this Sunday, the rector celebrating the Holy Eucharist at 7:30 a. m., conducting the church school at 9:30 a. m., saying morning prayer and preaching at 11 o'clock. There will be no evening service. Sunday is the 12th after Trinity Sunday. The Collect for the day is a favorite one, and is extremely felicitous in expression, while its material thought is no less happily conceived. Our conscious is burdened so that we can scarcely look up, and we have no merits whatever to assure us in approaching God; but we deal with One who is more ready to hear than we to pray, and who is wont to give not only more than we deserve, but even more than we desire. And the reason is, that we have a Mediator and Advocate whose merits are infinite, and in whom the Father is well pleased; so that, for Christ's sake, we may venture to expect not only dues of grace, but a drenching shower of mercy upon the thirsty fallow of our souls, and a broad sunshine of love up on our bodies and temporal estates. We have only to be constant in prayer and God will not withhold the abundance of His goodness, whether we live or die. This trust in God's suffiency and the deep sense of our personal insufficiency are further set forth in the Epistle and the Gospel for this Sunday. Please read II Corinthians, 3rd chapter, beginning at 4th verse; and also St. Mark, 7th chapter, beginning at 31st verse. The church is open daily from 7:30 a. m. until 5:30 p. m. Come in, rest and pray.

"Man" is the subject of the lesson-sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, Sunday, September 8th. Among the citations which comprise the lesson-sermon is the following from the Bible: "For in Him we live, and move, and have our being; as certain also of your own poets have said, For we are also his offspring." (Acts 17.) The lesson-sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "Through spiritual sense you can discern the heart of divinity, and thus begin to comprehend in Science the term man. Man is not absorbed in Diety, and man cannot lose his individuality, for he reflects eternal Life; nor is he an isolated, solitary idea, for he represents infinite Mind, the sum of all substances." (Pp. 258-259.)

FIRST PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

GRACE CHURCH
Fourth and Glenmar Streets
Edward Farren Hayward, Rector

The regular Sunday services will be resumed this Sunday, the rector celebrating the Holy Eucharist at 7:30 a. m., conducting the church school at 9:30 a. m., saying morning prayer and preaching at 11 o'clock. There will be no evening service. Sunday is the 12th after Trinity Sunday. The Collect for the day is a favorite one, and is extremely felicitous in expression, while its material thought is no less happily conceived. Our conscious is burdened so that we can scarcely look up, and we have no merits whatever to assure us in approaching God; but we deal with One who is more ready to hear than we to pray, and who is wont to give not only more than we deserve, but even more than we desire. And the reason is, that we have a Mediator and Advocate whose merits are infinite, and in whom the Father is well pleased; so that, for Christ's sake, we may venture to expect not only dues of grace, but a drenching shower of mercy upon the thirsty fallow of our souls, and a broad sunshine of love up on our bodies and temporal estates. We have only to be constant in prayer and God will not withhold the abundance of His goodness, whether we live or die. This trust in God's sufficiency and the deep sense of our personal insufficiency are further set forth in the Epistle and the Gospel for this Sunday. Please read II Corinthians, 3rd chapter, beginning at 4th verse; and also St. Mark, 7th chapter, beginning at 31st verse. The church is open daily from 7:30 a. m. until 5:30 p. m. Come in, rest and pray.

"Man" is the subject of the lesson sermon in all Churches of Christ Scientist, Sunday, September 8th. Among the citations which comprise the lesson-sermon is the following from the Bible: "For in Him we live and move, and have our being; a certain also of your own poets have said, For we are also his offspring." (Acts 17.) The lesson-sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "Through spiritual sense you can discern the heart of divinity, and thus begin to comprehend in Science the term man. Man is not absorbed in Diety, and man cannot lose his individuality, for he reflects eternal Life; nor is he an isolated, solitary idea, for he represents infinite Mind, the sum of all substances." (Pp. 258-259.)

FIRST PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

Ernest Holloway, Pastor

The church school convenes at 9:4 a.m., and a most urgent invitation is extended our folk to attend. The adult classes have been organized in the interest of the men and women of the congregation. Our thoughts will be turned during the morning worship to the Pauline statement, "Christ Died for Our Sins, and at the evening hour to the urge of Simon Peter, "And beside this giving all diligence add to your godliness brotherly kindness."

A study in personal work is under way. The group meets each Wednesday night at 7:30 o'clock. This is in accordance with the will of the church fathers, and pursuant to a well rounded church program. Frank Crossley Morgan, D.D., will be with us in a Bible study September 29-October 4. He will speak twice daily, at ten in the morning and 7:30 in the evening.

BLIND MAN TRAPS WOMAN

CHARLOTTE, N. C.—(AP)—A blind man's sense of touch may send a negro to jail for two years. Lee Stanley, blind proprietor of a newsstand here, said the woman had given him slugs for 50-cent pieces and crumpled pieces of newspapers for dollar bills. He dropped one of her "dollar bills" on the floor and asked her to find it for him. When she came near, he grabbed her and called the police.

Loretta Young And Charles Boyer Starred In 'Shanghai'

He drove a taxi and was thrown out of radio stations. . . . But when he paddled a gondola, Radio begged for his favor. . . . He's Dick Powell, singing new song hits in Warner Brothers "Broadway Gondolier," the highly amusing film coming to the Capitol theater Thursday and Friday. Joan Blondell, Louise Fazenda, Adolphe Menjou, William Gargan and Ted Fio Rito and his Band are some of the other stars.

Dixie Lee is starred as the most adorable of the 48 glamorous redheads, pick of the nation's beauty, in Fox Film's "Redheads on Parade," coming to the Paramount theater Thursday and Friday. Teamed with John Boles, Dixie Lee sings, dances and romances in this colorful film which was produced by Jesse L. Lasky.

Charles Boyer and Loretta Young are starred in Walter Wanger's production for Paramount, "Shanghai," the picture showing for the last times today at the Paramount theater. The drama tells the story of the fateful meeting of China's great financier and a worshipping girl from New York's smart set. "Shanghai" gives Boyer his second role for Wanger, his first being in "Private Worlds" with Claudette Colbert.

Gracie Allen, who with George Burns, George Barbier, Betty Furness and Andrew Tombes keep you laughing in the comedy with music, "Here Comes Cookie," the attraction at the Paramount theater for three days, Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday. Ten acts of Broadway's favorite vaudeville headliners are also in the picture.

Story Of Orient At Paramount

Dramatic Tale Of Eternal Conflict Of Races Told In Picture

CURRENT at the Paramount theater is an intensely dramatic and gripping tale of the Orient. It is Paramount's "Shanghai," which stars Loretta Young and Charles Boyer in a picture revealing for the first time the modern Orient, the land where races, traditions and ambitions are flashing in eternal conflict.

Scrupulous in its detail, alive with the authentic color and sound of Shanghai, the picture tells the tale of Boyer, who struggles from the bottom to the top of Shanghai's financial heap only to throw away everything he has won for the sake of love.

A mysterious figure, presumably a Russian refugee, Boyer bests the titans of finance, threatens to gain mastery of the Orient. Unimpeded by love or mercy, he is cold, indomitable, ruthless.

Then suddenly the girl turns up. She is Loretta Young, an American, who is staying in China to cater to the whims of her eccentric aunt. Tired of the emptiness of the lives of the people about her, she finds in Boyer her ideal of a man.

Although they feel that their love is courting disaster, they cannot say no to the impulses of their hearts. Boyer, still intent on his business, is preparing the coup that will make him the master of the Orient. Then at a party for Loretta Young, he reveals the secret of his ignominious birth to a startled Shanghai.

His future in Shanghai ruined, Boyer flees to the interior of China. But Loretta Young, who cannot give him up, follows close behind. In an absorbing and tender climax these two make a strange decision as to their love.

Boyer's masterful performance is the best of his recent series of sensational appearances, and Loretta Young is well matched to him throughout. In the supporting cast of "Shanghai," which was produced by Walter Wanger, are Warner Oland, Alison Skipworth and Fred Keating who carry out the supporting roles in uniformly excellent style.

Screen Life In Hollywood

HOLLYWOOD.—At last the movie industry has acquired an incentive that will result in the finest crop of pictures ever produced, for the "personal jealousy" germ has crept into the business.

The drastic changes made in studios' personnel during the last few months have resulted in more jealousies than Hollywood ever before has seen. And the desire of each executive to prove himself the "little king" will result in pictures really worth writing home about.

Darryl Zanuck, having taken complete charge of Twentieth Century-Fox production, is determined to show everyone that the gigantic Fox studio needed only the right man at its helm to make it the outstanding company in the industry.

One of his first moves was to throw out the 12 stories that studio had ready for production, replacing them with the strongest stories he could find.

Ernst Lubitsch, recently put in charge of Paramount production, has a twofold purpose ahead of him. One is to make amends for his failure as production head of the Paramount Long Island studio some years ago. The other is to create for himself an executive pedestal that will equal in height the position he occupied as a director.

David Selznick, who has resigned as a Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer producer and organized his own unit to make pictures for United Artists, virtually has to turn out topnotch pictures to retain the glory he has reaped from such films as "David Copperfield" and "A Tale of Two Cities." If he slips now, there will be intimations that perhaps the credit for those films should not go to him.

Mary Pickford, having jumped from actress to producer, must create a reputation in this new field. And if it's going to be at all comparable to the position she has held for many years, her pictures will have to be big attractions. Mary has too much pride to be satisfied with a lesser position.

With such rivalry flaring, other studios which have not undergone executive changes will have to speed up considerably. M-G-M, which for some years has enjoyed the spotlight as the finest producing organization, will have to do better than ever before if it's going to stay on top.

And RKO, Columbia, Warner Brothers, and Universal will have to show considerable improvement or they'll be dropped from the running.

Matter of Opinion

A couple of old-time actors were standing on Hollywood boulevard chewing the rag, when one of them greeted a passerby very warmly.

"Who was that fellow?" asked the other.

"Why, he's one of the big independent producers," explained the first actor, naming a couple of pictures the producer had made.

"Huh, I saw them and I don't know why he should be so independent," replied the second actor.

It's A Conspiracy

Dick Arlen claims that even the fish around here are becoming unionized to such an extent that they won't bite unless you're fishing from a professional boat. Six times during the last two months he has made fishing trips aboard his own yacht and never had a single strike. But every time he has chartered a boat manned by professional fishermen, he has caught more fish than he could eat.

Helen Gahagan portrays the title role in "She," the weird story of the siren queen who used to dip herself in flame and lived five hundred years of wickedness, showing at the Capitol theater today and Monday. The picture's wild adventure aspect, its mystery appeal and its strange love angles offer an entertainment concoction that should please people of all ages. Randolph Scott, Helen Mack and Nigel Bruce have other important roles.

Patricia Ellis and William Gargan have important roles in "A Night at the Ritz," coming to the Capitol theater Wednesday. . . . It tells the story of a high pressure publicity man who sells a chef who couldn't cook to a fashionable hotel, and offers a bizarre twist that makes for laugh provoking dialogue and situations. Allen Jenkins and Eric Rhodes have other important roles.

Sinister shadows, vampires that roam in the night, terror in its ultimate intensity blend with suspense, thrills, romance and comedy in "Mark of the Vampire," coming to the Capitol theater Tuesday. Bela Lugosi and Elizabeth Allan are the two pictured above in the midst of the uncanny vampire cult, but Lionel Barrymore, Jean Hersholt and Lionel Atwill have featured parts.

Weird Story Of 'She' At Capitol Now

Amazing Adventure Tale Makes Gripping Spectacle Picture

FOR FIFTY YEARS readers of fiction have been intrigued by an amazing story in which mortal man discovers the flame of eternal youth and stands upon the threshold to immortality only to turn back. The tale, conceived by one of the highly imaginative minds of literary history, is one of the strangest love stories ever written, one in which a man chooses between a mortal woman and an immortal queen who offers him endless youth. RKO Radio's "She," based upon the H. Rider Haggard novel of the same name, will bring that story to the screen of the Capitol theater today in what is said to be one of the most gripping spectacle pictures ever filmed.

In the story two modern day scientists and a young girl set out over uncharted ice wastes to a region where, according to a legend handed down for five hundred years, an ancestor of Leo Vincey, the younger man, had found a life-giving flame.

After hazardous and thrilling adventures, during which they are more than once snatched miraculously from death, they discover the lost kingdom of Kor. It is a place of great tropical beauty locked within towering mountains of ice, and inhabited by a forgotten race.

Captured by Korish soldiers, the explorers are taken before "She," a deathless woman of breath-taking fascination, the ruler of the kingdom. In her great palace, hewn from a solid mountain, she receives them in magnificent splendor.

Leo Vincey, resembling his ancestor closely, is believed by "She" to be the reincarnation of the man she loved five hundred years before and killed because he remained faithful to his wife. In Vincey she hopes to revive that love. She tells him that he shall bathe in the flame as she has centuries before, that his life shall be projected endlessly, and that he shall rule with her forever on the throne of Kor.

The majestic ceremony of the flame held in the gigantic Hall of Kings, the rescue of a doomed girl from becoming a human sacrifice, a fierce battle and escape and finally the sight of the beautiful "She" bathing in enternal fire are all thrilling highlights of the picture.

Helen Gahagan, noted star of the theater and opera makes her screen debut as the beautiful immortal "She." Randolph Scott, fresh from triumphs in "Roberta" and "Village Tale," is the young explorer in search of the flame. Helen Mack is the mortal woman who wages a fierce conflict with the deathless queen.

Dramatic Tale Of Eternal Conflict Of Races Told In Picture

CURRENT at the Paramount theater is an intensely dramatic and gripping tale of the Orient. It is Paramount's "Shanghai," which stars Loretta Young and Charles Boyer in a picture revealing for the first time the modern Orient, the land where races, traditions and ambitions are flashing in eternal conflict.

Scrupulous in its detail, alive with the authentic color and sound of Shanghai, the picture tells the tale of Boyer, who struggles from the bottom to the top of Shanghai's financial heap only to throw away everything he has won for the sake of love.

A mysterious figure, presumably a Russian refugee, Boyer bests the titans of finance, threatens to gain mastery of the Orient. Unimpeded by love or mercy, he is cold, indomitable, ruthless.

Then suddenly the girl turns up. She is Loretta Young, an American, who is staying in China to cater to the whims of her eccentric aunt. Tired of the emptiness of the lives of the people about her, she finds in Boyer her ideal of a man.

Although they feel that their love is courting disaster, they cannot say no to the impulses of their hearts. Boyer, still intent on his business, is preparing the coup that will make him the master of the Orient. Then at a party for Loretta Young, he reveals the secret of his ignominious birth to a startled Shanghai.

His future in Shanghai ruined, Boyer flees to the interior of China. But Loretta Young, who cannot give him up, follows close behind. In an absorbing and tender climax these two make a strange decision as to their love.

Boyer's masterful performance is the best of his recent series of sensational appearances, and Loretta Young is well matched to him throughout. In the supporting cast of "Shanghai," which was produced by Walter Wanger, are Warner Oland, Alison Skipworth and Fred Keating who carry out the supporting roles in uniformly excellent style.

Screen Life In Hollywood

HOLLYWOOD.—At last the movie industry has acquired an incentive that will result in the finest crop of pictures ever produced, for the "personal jealousy" germ has crept into the business.

The drastic changes made in studios' personnel during the last few months nave resulted in more jealousies than Hollywood ever before has seen. And the desire of each executive to prove himself the "little king" will result in pictures really worth writing home about.

Darryl Zanuck, having taken complete charge of Twentieth Century-Fox production, is determined to show everyone that the gigantic Fox studio needed only the right man at its helm to make it the outstanding company in the industry.

One of his first moves was to throw out the 12 stories that studio had ready for production, replacing them with the strongest stories he could find.

Ernst Lubitsch, recently put in charge of Paramount production, has a twofold purpose ahead of him. One is to make amends for his failure as production head of the Paramount Long Island studio some years ago. The other is to create for himself an executive pedestal that will equal in height the position he occupied as a director.

David Selznick, who has resigned as a Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer producer and organized his own unit to make pictures for United Artists, virtually has to turn out topnotch pictures to retain the glory he has reaped from such films as "David Copperfield" and "A Tale of Two Cities." If he slips now, there will be intimations that perhaps the credit for those films should not go to him.

Mary Pickford, having jumped from actress to producer, must create a reputation in this new field. And if it's going to be at all comparable to the position she has held for many years, her pictures will have to be big attractions. Mary has too much pride to be satisfied with a lesser position.

With such rivalry flaring, other studios which have not undergone executive changes will have to speed up considerably. M-G-M, which for some years has enjoyed the spotlight as the finest producing organization, will have to do better than ever before if it's going to stay on top.

And RKO, Columbia, Warner Brothers, and Universal will have to show considerable improvement or they'll be dropped from the running.

Matter of Opinion

A couple of old-time actors were standing on Hollywood boulevard chewing the rag, when one of them greeted a passerby very warmly.

"Who was that fellow?" asked the other.

"Why, he's one of the big independent producers," explained the first actor, naming a couple of pictures the producer had made.

"Huh, I saw them and I don't know why he should be so independent," replied the second actor.

It's A Conspiracy

Dick Arlen claims that even the fish around here are becoming unionized to such an extent that they won't bite unless you're fishing from a professional boat. Six times during the last two months he has made fishing trips aboard his own yacht and never had a single strike. But every time he has chartered a boat manned by professional fishermen, he nas caught more fish than he could eat.

Helen Gahagan portrays the title role in "She," the weird story of the siren queen who used to dip herself in flame and lived five hundred years of wickedness, showing at the Capitol theater today and Monday. The picture's wild adventure aspect, its mystery appeal and its strange love angles offer an entertainment concoction that should please people of all ages. Randolph Scott, Helen Mack and Nigel Bruce have other important roles.

Patricia Ellis and William Gargan have important roles in "A Night at the Ritz," coming to the Capitol theater Wednesday. . . . It tells the story of a high pressure publicity man who sells a chef who couldn't cook to a fashionable hotel, and offers a bizarre twist that makes for laugh provoking dialogue and situations. Allen Jenkins and Eric Rhodes have other important roles.

Sinister shadows, vampires that roam in the night, terror in its ultimate intensity blend with suspense, thrills, romance and comedy in "Mark of the Vampire," coming to the Capitol theater Tuesday. Bela Lugosi and Elizabeth Allan are the two pictured above in the midst of the uncanny vampire cult, but Lionel Barrymore, Jean Hersholt and Lionel Atwill have featured parts.

Amazing Adventure Tale Makes Gripping Spectacle Picture

FOR FIFTY YEARS readers of fiction have been intrigued by an amazing story in which mortal man discovers the flame of eternal youth and stands upon the threshold to immortality only to turn back. The tale, conceived by one of the highly imaginative minds of literary history, is one of the strangest love stories ever written, one in which a man chooses between a mortal woman and an immortal queen who offers him endless youth. RKO Radio's "She," based upon the H. Rider Haggard novel of the same name, will bring that story to the screen of the Capitol theater today in what is said to be one of the most gripping spectacle pictures ever filmed.

In the story two modern day scientists and a young girl set out over uncharted ice wastes to a region where, according to a legend handed down for five hundred years, an ancestor of Leo Vincey, the younger man, had found a life-giving flame.

After hazardous and thrilling adventures, during which they are more than once snatched miraculously from death, they discover the lost kingdom of Kor. It is a place of great tropical beauty locked within towering mountains of ice, and inhabited by a forgotten race.

Captured by Korish soldiers, the explorers are taken before "She," a deathless woman of breath-taking fascination, the ruler of the kingdom. In her great palace, hewn from a solid mountain, she receives them in magnificent splendor.

Leo Vincey, resembling his ancestor closely, is believed by "She" to be the reincarnation of the man she loved five hundred years before and killed because he remained faithful to his wife. In Vincey she hopes to revive that love. She tells him that he shall bathe in the flame as she has centuries before, that his life shall be projected endlessly, and that he shall rule with her forever on the throne of Kor.

The majestic ceremony of the flame held in the gigantic Hall of Kings, the rescue of a doomed girl from becoming a human sacrifice, a fierce battle and escape and finally the sight of the beautiful "She" bathing in enternal fire are all thrilling highlights of the picture.

Helen Gahagan, noted star of the theater and opera makes her screen debut as the beautiful immortal "She." Randolph Scott, fresh from triumphs in "Roberta" and "Village Tale," is the young explorer in search of the flame. Helen Mack is the mortal woman who wages a fierce conflict with the deathless queen.

Will Rogers Is Sure He Couldn't Be A Trapper

By Will Rogers

Well all I know is just what I read in the papers, and I tell you these little towns and cities in Alaska have mighty fine little papers. They take all the big news and whittle it down till you can read it and understand it.

You see with some of our big papers they have so much in there about the subject till it gets you confused. These little fellows pick out the main facts and hand it to you in consentrated form, but they get in all the main things, both Alaskan, the mainland of the U. S. and international.

They cover about all of Congress that is fit to cover, you see we cover a lot that we shouldent. An awful lot of small towns have dailys, and good ones, some towns twice a week, and some three times.

They have a splendid radio service for messages out, and also all over this vast country, and brother its vast, and vaster still. A distance of 500 miles is just about a jaunt down to the post office and back. They speak of being over to some town 7 or 8 hundred miles away like you would going to your next door neighbors, and they start down or up these rivers in boats and the trip might be a thousand miles or 15 hundred miles.

That Yukon that you have read so much about that is formed away in the Yukon Territory of Canada, we flew down it from the head, and it winds and twists till it comes out away down near San Marchiel, in the Behring Sea, three thousand miles away. It was interesting to be flying where the trip took you over where the head of one river went to the Artic Ocean, and a few miles over a divide the waters of the other would be headed for the Pacific.

That happened coming out of Hershel Island in the Artic, we couldent land there on account of the ice in the water, but we circled it a time or so.

There is only a half dozen houses, but its a noted place, its where the old whalers, the real old sailing boats used to land and spend the winter. They would come up from America or the various Scandinavian countries in one summer, get in there and winter and then that would give them an early start the next summer when the ice went out. Then they would hunt all that summer which was about three months, then back into Hershel for the second winter and then out with the whalebone the next summer.

We saw old Capt. Petersons big old boat in there, he comes in and trades generally for the month of August. I think he has quite a few trading posts established in the island. They come in to trade. Its got to be an established firm. I know they are over on the Canadian side and I think its almost the same with us.

For instance in Canada anywhere, the great Hudson Bay Trading Co, an organization that almost founded Canada, (and a lot of the U. S. before the Revolution, they been going 250 years) well they dont allow any Hudson Bay trader to take a dog team, or boat, or any conveyance and go out and trade for furs. Or any trader, its against the law.

They have to let the Indians or Esquimos bring em in and trade at the posts for em. Canada has a great system of dealing with their native population away up in the far North. You look on a map and all the country that is north of the real mainland of Canada, all those tremendous islands and gulfs up there, a white man is not allowed to fish, hunt or trap, in. Its entirely for the support of the Indians that live up there. We never had thought of that.

And say, the old Injun and the Esquimo is a mighty smart trader up there so they told me. Time means nothing to him in the way of an argument. It dont take him long in some sort of a telegraphic way to find out what sort of wild animal the women have chosen as that seasons show piece, (its got to be just a show piece, for old House Cat will keep you as warm as a silver fox). Well these old boys suspicion mighty quick what the buyers are sorter secretly eying.

Well thats one thing I dont believe I could ever be, (One thing I havent got the nerve to stand the gaff and go through the great physical hardships) but that trapping animals I cant quite go that, although I know it has to be done.

On the other hand I expect I do things every day that a trapper couldent do, so we all about equal up in the long run. Each thinks the other is "pretty hard." The hospitality and generosity of a trapper, or a man that lives away out, would put us to absolute shame.

Here we pass folks every day, every hour, that we could help, but we dont go to the trouble of doing it, when we can well aford the time or money, but we dont do it. They would mush through the winter fifty below for days to help a friend. We think they punish animals. We punish humans only we dont think so.

GORDON AVE. REVIVAL WILL CONTINUE TODAY

The Gordon Avenue Methodist revival will continue through tonight. There will be services at 11 a.m. and at 7:45 p.m. today and the Farmerville quartet will render selections at the service.

On Friday night the subject was: "God's Inventory." The pastor, Rev. R. M. Bentley, said in part:

"It is appointed unto man once to die, and then the judgment. We go into the presence of God immediately after death. There is a final judgment where the influence of all lives will be weighed. Injustice is often our portion in this life, but God will see that justice is meted out to all persons."

COIN USED WITH FUSE DANGEROUS

Fire Chief Warns Against Placing Pennies Behind Worn Plugs

"A penny behind a fuse is one of the most dangerous fire hazards of a home or other building," Frank J. Roddy, Monroe fire chief, said yesterday in commenting on a residence fire which was caused here last week by two pennies placed behind worn-out fuses of an electric switch.

A penny used to carry electric current past one or two worn-out fuses creates a constant danger of a short circuit between the wires or between one of the wires and some metal object, such as an iron pipe, the chief said.

In the case of a penny being used behind each of the worn-out fuses and a short circuit developing between the wires, the short circuit is not halted by the blowing out of a good fuse, because there is no good fuse in operation; the short circuit continues, insulation is burned off the wires and the fire may destroy the home or building.

A fire started by a short circuit is a dangerous fire because it frequently starts in the attic, the chief said. In the night time, with occupants of a home asleep, a fire thus started can spread over a considerable area of the upper part of the house before the occupants become aware of the flames.

The fire caused in a home here last week by a penny being placed behind each of two fuses occurred in the day time when the two wires of a drop cord were short circuited. Insulation was burned from each of the wires up to the ceiling.

Chief Roddy advises that each home or other building be equipped with several extra fuses, so that whenever a fuse burns out another one can readily be placed in use. Fifteen-ampere fuses are best for the average sized home, he said.

Within the next 30 days, the chief continued, grass now dying in yards and vacant plots of ground in the city will become easily inflammable. The chief advises residents to keep the grass cut away from their buildings and shrubbery for distances of 10 to 15 feet.

"The fire department can get to a grass fire, reported soon after it starts, in time to prevent more than slight damage to buildings, but with a wind blowing fire sweeps through grass so quickly that it can destroy shrubbery before our trucks reach the scene," Chief Roddy said.

Observing that many families have expended considerable effort to carefully cultivate shrubbery, the chief especially advises them to keep the grass cut away from the shrubbery to prevent the danger of fire loss.

CIVIL SERVICE TESTS WILL BE HELD SHORTLY

The United States civil service commission announces an open competitive examination for the following positions for men only:

Senior stenographer, $1,620 a year; junior stenographer, $1,440 a year; senior typist, $1,440 a year; junior typist, $1,260 a year.

Applications must be on file with the manager, at the tenth United States civil service district, New Orleans, La., not later than Sept. 20, 1935. Full information and application blanks may be obtained from Mrs. W. A. O'Kelly, secretary of the United States board of civil service examiners at the postoffice here.

CONFEDERACY VETERAN RETURNS FROM TEXAS

A. B. Maxey, representing the Henry W. Allen camp, of Confederate veterans, returned Saturday morning from Amarillo, Texas, where he attended the annual reunion of old soldiers. He stated that there were 280 veterans and between 8,000 and 10,000 sons of veterans present at the convention.

He said that all had a highly enjoyable time despite the fact that the number of veterans was greatly lessened this year.

The next convention will be held in Shreveport in 1936.

Mr. Maxey is at present residing temporarily at Downsville.

Experiments at North Carolina State college showed livestock usually eat the cob as well as the grain when ear corn is soaked in salt water.

STATEMENT ON DEBT APPLICATIONS MADE

C. B. White, deputy debt moratorium commissioner, reported yesterday that according to a statement released by J. S. Brock, state bank commissioner and ex-officio debt moratorium commissioner, at the close of business on August 31, his office has received 6,610 applications for relief under the moratorium law.

Hearings have been held on 6,261 of these cases, Mr. White said. Of this number 459 applications have been withdrawn; 666 cases have been continued for further hearings; 528 cases were dismissed for the reason the commissioner had no jurisdiction over them; relief was refused on 141 cases and relief was granted on 4,467 cases, it was stated.

The debts involved in the applications on which hearings have been held amount to more than eight and one-quarter million dollars, White said.

SCHOOL BELLS TO RING ON MONDAY

St. Matthew's School Will Open Tomorrow; Other Schools Sept. 16

School bells will ring for the fall session of school tomorrow when the St. Matthew's parochial school will resume its sessions with the outlook of a large attendance in both the grammar grades and the high school. Registration started for the high school on Friday and was completed Saturday. The registration for the grammar grades will start Monday and classes will assemble at once.

The staff of teachers will be, with several changes, the same as it was last year.

Will Rogers Is Sure He Couldn't Be A Trapper

By Will Rogers

Well all I know is just what I read in the papers, and I tell you these little towns and cities in Alaska have mighty fine little papers. They take all the big news and whittle it down till you can read it and understand it.

You see with some of our big papers they have so much in there about the subject till it gets you confused. These little fellows pick out the main facts and hand it to you in consentrated form, but they get in all the main things, both Alaskan, the mainland of the U. S. and international.

They cover about all of Congress that is fit to cover, you see we cover a lot that we shouldent. An awful lot of small towns have dailys, and good ones, some towns twice a week, and some three times.

They have a splendid radio service for messages out, and also all over this vast country, and brother its vast, and vaster still. A distance of 500 miles is just about a jaunt down to the post office and back. They speak of being over to some town 7 or 8 hundred miles away like you would going to your next door neighbors, and they start down or up these rivers in boats and the trip might be a thousand miles or 15 hundred miles.

That Yukon that you have read so much about that is formed away in the Yukon Territory of Canada, we flew down it from the head, and it winds and twists till it comes out away down near San Marchiel, in the Behring Sea, three thousand miles away. It was interesting to be flying where the trip took you over where the head of one river went to the Artic Ocean, and a few miles over a divide the waters of the other would be headed for the Pacific.

That happened coming out of Hershel Island in the Artic, we couldent land there on account of the ice in the water, but we circled it a time or so.

There is only a half dozen houses, but its a noted place, its where the old whalers, the real old sailing boats used to land and spend the winter. They would come up from America or the various Scandinavian countries in one summer, get in there and winter and then that would give them an early start the next summer when the ice went out. Then they would hunt all that summer which was about three months, then back into Hershel for the second winter and then out with the whalebone the next summer.

We saw old Capt. Petersons big old boat in there, he comes in and trades generally for the month of August. I think he has quite a few trading posts established in the island. They are pretty strict about who they let come in to trade. Its got to be an established firm. I know they are over on the Canadian side and I think its almost the same with us.

For instance in Canada anywhere, the great Hudson Bay Trading Co. an organization that almost founded Canada, (and a lot of the U. S. before the Revolution, they been going 250 years) well they dont allow any Hudson Bay trader to take a dog team, or boat, or any conveyance and go out and trade for furs. Or any trader, its against the law.

They have to let the Indians or Esquimos bring em in and trade at the posts for em. Canada has a great system of dealing with their native population away up in the far North. You look on a map and all the country that is north of the real mainland of Canada, all those tremendous islands and gulfs up there, a white man is not allowed to fish, hunt or trap, in. Its entirely for the support of the Indians that live up there. We never had thought of that.

And say, the old Injun and the Esquimo is a mighty smart trader up there so they told me. Time means nothing to him in the way of an argument. It dont take him long in some sort of a telegraphic way to find out what sort of wild animal the women have chosen as that seasons show piece, (its got to be just a show piece, for old House Cat will keep you as warm as a silver fox). Well these old boys suspicion mighty quick what the buyers are sorter secretly eying.

Well thats one thing I dont believe I could ever be. (One thing I havent got the nerve to stand the gaff and go through the great physical hardships) but that trapping animals I cant quite go that, although I know it has to be done.

On the other hand I expect I do things every day that a trapper couldent do, so we all about equal up in the long run. Each thinks the other is "pretty hard." The hospitality and generosity of a trapper, or a man that lives away out, would put us to absolute shame.

Here we pass folks every day, every hour, that we could help, but we dont go to the trouble of doing it, when we can well aford the time or money, but we dont do it. They would mush through the winter fifty below for days to help a friend. We think they punish animals. We punish humans only we dont think so.

GORDON AVE. REVIVAL WILL CONTINUE TODAY

The Gordon Avenue Methodist revival will continue through tonight. There will be services at 11 a.m. and at 7:45 p.m. today and the Farmerville quartet will render selections at the service.

On Friday night the subject was: "God's Inventory." The pastor, Rev. R. M. Bentley, said in part:

"It is appointed unto man once to die, and then the judgment. We go into the presence of God immediately after death. There is a final judgment where the influence of all lives will be weighed. Injustice is often our portion in this life, but God will see that justice is meted out to all persons."

COIN USED WITH FUSE DANGEROUS

Fire Chief Warns Against Placing Pennies Behind Worn Plugs

"A penny behind a fuse is one of the most dangerous fire hazards of a home or other building," Frank J. Roddy, Monroe fire chief, said yesterday in commenting on a residence fire which was caused here last week by two pennies placed behind worn-out fuses of an electric switch.

A penny used to carry electric current past one or two worn-out fuses creates a constant danger of a short circuit between the wires or between one of the wires and some metal object, such as an iron pipe, the chief said.

In the case of a penny being used behind each of the worn-out fuses and a short circuit developing between the wires, the short circuit is not halted by the blowing out of a good fuse, because there is no good fuse in operation; the short circuit continues, insulation is burned off the wires and the fire may destroy the home or building.

A fire started by a short circuit is a dangerous fire because it frequently starts in the attic, the chief said. In the night time, with occupants of a home asleep, a fire thus started can spread over a considerable area of the upper part of the house before the occupants become aware of the flames.

The fire caused in a home here last week by a penny being placed behind each of two fuses occurred in the day time when the two wires of a drop cord were short circuited. Insulation was burned from each of the wires up to the ceiling.

Chief Roddy advises that each home or other building be equipped with several extra fuses, so that whenever a fuse burns out another one can readily be placed in use. Fifteen-ampere fuses are best for the average sized home, he said.

Within the next 30 days, the chief continued, grass now dying in yards and vacant plots of ground in the city will become easily inflammable. The chief advises residents to keep the grass cut away from their buildings and shrubbery for distances of 10 to 15 feet.

"The fire department can get to a grass fire, reported soon after it starts, in time to prevent more than slight damage to buildings, but with a wind blowing fire sweeps through grass so quickly that it can destroy shrubbery before our trucks reach the scene," Chief Roddy said.

Observing that many families have expended considerable effort to carefully cultivate shrubbery, the chief especially advises them to keep the grass cut away from the shrubbery to prevent the danger of fire loss.

CIVIL SERVICE TESTS WILL BE HELD SHORTLY

CONFEDERACY VETERAN RETURNS FROM TEXAS

A. B. Maxey, representing the Henry W. Allen camp, of Confederate veterans, returned Saturday morning from Amarillo, Texas, where he attended the annual reunion of old soldiers. He stated that there were 280 veterans and between 8,000 and 10,000 sons of veterans present at the convention.

He said that all had a highly enjoyable time despite the fact that the number of veterans was greatly less ed this year.

The next convention will be held in Shreveport in 1936.

Mr. Maxey is at present residing temporarily at Downsville.

STATEMENT ON DEBT APPLICATIONS MADE

C. B. White, deputy debt moratorium commissioner, reported yesterday that according to a statement released by J. S. Brock, state bank commissioner and ex-officio debt moratorium commissioner, at the close of business on August 31, his office has received 6,610 applications for relief under the moratorium law.

Hearings have been held on 6,261 of these cases, Mr. White said. Of this number 459 applications have been withdrawn; 666 cases have been continued for further hearings; 528 cases were dismissed for the reason the commissioner had no jurisdiction over them; relief was refused on 141 cases and relief was granted on 4,467 cases, it was stated.

The debts involved in the applications on which hearings have been held amount to more than eight and one-quarter million dollars, White said.

ERIK CLUNG TO A FRAGMENT OF WRECKAGE UNTIL HE WAS HAULED ABOARD ANOTHER OF HIS VESSELS.

ALL KINDS OF RUMORS FILLED THE AIR, AND ALTHOUGH NO ONE KNEW FOR CERTAIN AT THE TIME, THEY WERE ALL GROUNDLESS.

IT WAS DECIDED AT THE COMMISSION CONFERENCE, THAT AFTER KNOCKING A MAN DOWN, THE OTHER FELLOW MUST GO TO A NEUTRAL CORNER BEFORE THE COUNT START'S.

THAT'S A NEW IDEA AND A GOOD ONE!

DAVE BARRY WAS INTRODUCED AT THE LAST MINUTE AS REFEREE. IN THE FIRST FOUR ROUNDS, NO AMOUNT OF DAMAGE WAS SCORED BY EITHER CONTESTANT.

THE TWO MEN, EMPLOYED BY "BOSS" TAGGART, WHO TRIED TO SHOOT TOMMY DOWN WERE DESTROYED BY THE LETHAL GUN IN THE STRATOS-SHIP-OPERATED THROUGH REMOTE CONTROL BY PETER CRANDELL-

O-OH··· THANK HEAVEN! THAT'S TOMMY'S PLANE! HE'S SAFE!

AND I HAVE AGAIN REGAINED CONTROL OF THE STRATOS-SHIP!·· IT IS NOW LANDING!

I'LL NEVER DOUBT THE PRACTICABILITY OF THAT STRATOS-SHIP- AFTER THIS--IT SAVED MY LIFE-

TOMMY! WHAT HAPPENED?

MR. CRANDELL'S SECRET IS SAFE! I'M GLAD YOU WEREN'T THERE TO SEE--WHAT HAPPENED

THEY····· BURNED UP--

AH··H··

I THINK BETTY AND I HAD BETTER START BACK FOR THREE-POINT--CAN WE GIVE YOU A LIFT?

NO, TOMMY--I'LL STAY HERE TONIGHT--I'LL SEND THE STRATOS-SHIP TO PICK YOU UP AT SIX O'CLOCK TOMORROW—

CAN YOU IMAGINE WHAT THE BOYS AT THREE-POINT WILL DO WHEN THEY SEE A PLANE LAND WITHOUT A PILOT?

I CAN JUST PICTURE THEIR FACES,

I WAS NOT MISTAKEN IN MY JUDGMENT IN SELECTING TAILSPIN TOMMY TO AID ME IN MY EXPERIMENTS-HE LENDS YOUTH, EXPERIENCE, HONESTY AND COURAGE---- BUT THERE IS ONE DETAIL I CANNOT EVEN TELL HIM—

BIG TRACY

AFTER GETTING A CONFESSION FROM BLAKE, THROUGH USE OF THE LIE-DETECTOR, THAT IT WAS HE WHO KILLED DONOVAN, TRACY IMMEDIATELY TAKES THE NECESSARY LEGAL STEPS FOR THE RELEASE OF TOBY TOWNLEY. . .

ON THE STRENGTH OF BLAKE'S CONFESSION THE CASE IS REOPENED. I HEREBY ISSUE A WRIT FOR THE PRISONER'S APPEARANCE IN COURT ON A REHEARING.

PAT, TOBY DOESN'T KNOW IT, BUT SHE'S A FREE WOMAN! I'M GOING TO THE WOMAN'S PRISON NOW TO PRESENT THESE PAPERS TO THE WARDEN.

GOOD! I'LL GO ALONG, TRACY!

TAKEN BACK TO HER CELL

YOU'D BETTER JOIN US, KID. THE FIREWORKS START RIGHT AFTER LUNCH.

BUT.. I...

OF COURSE YOU'RE INNOCENT! ..WE'RE ALL INNOCENT! BUT THAT'LL NEVER GET YOU OUT OF HERE!

COME ON, GALS! LAY DOWN, AUNTIE - YOU'RE THROUGH!

WHAT IS THIS, GIRLS!

INTO THE SUPPLY ROOM WITH HER, AND LOCK THE DOOR!

GIVE ME THOSE KEYS!

DON'T LET HER GET HER HAND ON THAT SIGNAL BUTTON!

LIGHT YOUR MATTRESSES GIRLS - WE'LL FIRE THE PLACE!

TAKE THIS! WE'VE GOT TO RUSH THE GUARDS AT THE OUTER DOORS.. FOLLOW ME, AND DON'T SPARE THE IRON!
